SENATORS BALK AT DEBT CUT

RELIEF BILL IS ADVANCED IN WILD SESSION

Idle in Galleries Jeer; Eject Leader.

The Illinois house votes 68 to 21 for resolution urging Gov. Emmerson to call special session of legislature to repeal dry law. Details on page 8.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Wild disorder reigned in the Illinois house of representatives late this afternoon as 100 idlers who occupied the galleries hooted and jeered when their leader, Joseph Weber of Chicago, was forcibly evicted from the chamber for refusing to maintain order.

Catcalls, shouts and cries of protest stormed down upon the heads of the members from the crowd in the galleries at this act, but they became quieter as Speaker Shanahan followed his announced program of allowing six of Weber's companions to state their legislative demands. This they did in comparative quiet, but the disorder broke out again when they had concluded and the crowd clamored that Weber be allowed to reënter and make his speech. The idlers finally left when the speaker ordered scheduled business to proceed and the chamber resumed consideration of pending measures.

This choleric disturbance came shortly after the house had spent hours working on unemployment relief and had finally advanced a bill for a $17,000,000 charity bond issue for Cook county.

Weber Is Ejected.

The situation was fraught with grave possibilities for perhaps 15 minutes as Weber screamed at Speaker Shanahan from immediately beneath the raised dais and his followers in the gallery yelled encouragement. Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe of Chicago stood at the speaker's side in more or less of a protective attitude. The tempo of the scene quickened as the crowd became noisier and various indignant members of the house shouted demands that the galleries be cleared and were answered by derisive cries.

At the height of this furious verbal conflict came Weber's eviction. He was seized, when he had ignored the speaker's gavel and warnings to proceed in an orderly fashion, by Doorkeeper Frank Leonard and several members. There was a rush down the aisle, Weber the center of a flying phalanx, and the shouts from the galleries grew louder. Weber was finally pushed through the doors into the corridor, and after some more discorder the spokesmen gave their program—"demanding, not asking," as one said—and business was resumed.

Demands Presented.

The demands were similar to those made by similar delegations elsewhere, including unemployment insurance, "a moratorium for the small home owner," and like planks.

The incident came as the house was about to start its afternoon session after a full morning of sizzling debate over Representative Igoe's bill for a $17,000,000 charity bond issue for Cook county, to tide the poor over until some relief action could be taken in January by the next—the 54th—general assembly.

The minority leader told the house that the bond issue—which would be retired by general taxation and would raise tax bills about 4 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, Igoe said—had the approval of Governor Elect Henry Horner, Mayor Cermak of Chicago, and Emmett Whealan, president of the Cook county board. After running into a miniature political typhoon the measure was advanced to second reading without reference to a committee and will probably be the subject of hot dissection tomorrow morning.

Igoe and Schnackenberg Clash.

Mr. Igoe told the house that funds of the Illinois emergency relief commission would virtually be exhausted by the end of November. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has decreed that no loans will be given the state until it has made some move to aid itself, he said. So it was hoped by the sponsors of the bill to use the bonds as collateral to the R. F. C. or with them reimburse Cook county's creditors for supplies to aid the poor, if they could not be sold to banks.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] opposed sending the bill to second reading without reference, and demanded it be considered first in committee of the whole house.

"We cannot delay this measure," Igoe told him. "Everybody connected with relief agrees that this is the only way to make funds immediately available."

"But this bill permits the issuance

SEEK INQUIRY BY GRAND JURY ON WEST PARKS

Citizens' Group Eyes Finance Crisis.

W. R. JAMES.

The west park system is so involved financially that a grand jury investigation is to be demanded on the assertion that the squandering of taxpayers' money by west commissioners will be found as scandalous as the boodling on the sanitary district board during the "whoopee era."

The outstanding difference in the financial dissipation is said to be that while the sanitary district's gold outrush was from a well filled treasury in times of prosperity, the west park board's generosity to political favorites was a credit mad orgy of spending what it didn't have, plunging the park system into debt as deep as the depression.

Crisis at Hand, Leaders Say.

A crisis is at hand, in the opinion of members of the citizens' committee formed to aid all distressed public bodies. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway; D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair; George Rossetter, chairman of the association of commerce, and other civic leaders plan an emergency meeting, probably the latter part of this week, to discuss action to be taken to save the parks for the people of the west side.

No charges of criminality have been made. The business leaders of the city charge the controlling commissioners with mismanagement, waste, extravagance, and unwarranted diversion of funds to political pay rollers who made no more effort to serve the west side taxpayers than did the thousands who drained the sanitary district treasury in 1927 and 1928.

With a maximum income of two million dollars a year the commissioners were spending at least three million dollars, according to audits made at the insistence of the citizens' committee. In addition they were diverting bond issue money for operating expenses and pay rolls, using the money of special funds for the same purpose, the auditors reported, in a mad scramble to keep the jobholders under political control.

New Survey Is Made.

An audit completed in the summer so alarmed the citizens' committee that within the last three weeks a new survey of the park board's finances was made. When that was completed the movement for a grand jury inquiry was begun.

A report of this survey was made to W. R. James, president of the west park board of commissioners. Last week President James said there was nothing wrong with the park's financing; there was no scandal, he declared.

Just how bad the situation is neither Mr. Sargent, Mr. Kelly, or Mr. Rossetter would say. That the parks might go to ruin and the land eventually be claimed by bondholders was declared to be a possibility.

Figures on Park Finances.

The findings of the most recent audit and survey were carefully kept secret. An audit for the park district dated Aug. 24, and covering the year ended Feb. 29, 1932, and a survey completed on June 2, was made public, however, showing the following:

The park board on Feb. 29, 1932, had bonds outstanding to the extent of $12,450,000. It had corporate liabilities of $6,681,159. To pay off these obligations the board had uncollected taxes owed to it totaling $4,644,563.

The audit gave the land value of the parks at $4,067,277, the value of its buildings, drives, walks, etc., at $15,664,510, and machinery, equipment, automobiles, etc., at $396,101. A balance sheet listed the park system's total assets at $28,171,980, which included the foregoing items. The balance of approximately $8,000,000 was made up of accounts receivable, cash in banks totaling $81,636, and approximately $5,000,000 in anticipated collections on back taxes.

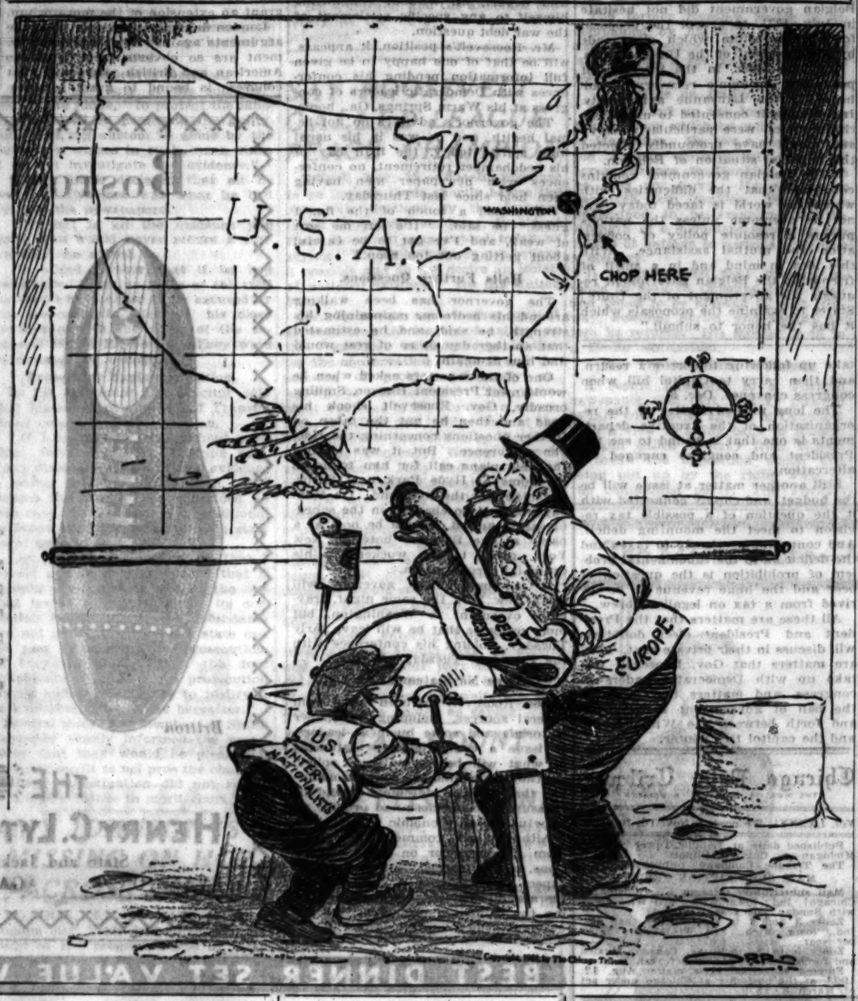
THANKSGIVING PLANS



WOMAN PROVES A GUN DOESN'T MAKE A ROBBER

Miss Marie Nelson of 843 North Lockwood avenue, a manager of the Marlborough apartment hotel at 400 Deming place, refused to believe that a bandit who pointed a revolver at her last night meant business.

"I'm a robber," he announced.

"I don't believe it," she answered. "Put that gun away, you might hurt some one. We haven't any money for you, anyhow. It's for our employés' pay day."

The bandit impatiently threatened to shoot her if she didn't put up her hands. Miss Nelson's response was to summon two bell boys. They came running, saw the bandit and gun and promptly elevated their arms.

"This man says he's a robber and wants our money," explained Miss Nelson. "He's crazy."

Still defying the robber and his threats Miss Nelson turned her back on him, picked up a telephone and called Police 1313. When she turned around the robber was on his way out the door, empty handed.

BLACKMAIL NOTE OF BOY, 13, GIVES COPS A SURPRISE

Shortly before 9 o'clock last night J. E. Halligan of 2411 Payne street, Evanston, walked to Colfax street and McDaniel avenue and there at the foot of a clump of bushes he deposited a package supposedly containing $100. He did so at the instructions of an unsigned blackmail letter, which read in part as follows:

"You have the choice of having your home bombed, or probably a few kids killed, or paying a paltry $100."

At 9 o'clock sharp the blackmailer stole into the bushes and picked up the package. When he stood up he looked into the muzzles of six revolvers, held in the hands of as many startled policemen. They were startled because their prisoner wasn't exactly what they expected.

He was a 13 year old boy, Parker Kaebler of 2421 Payne street, a neighbor of Halligan and a student at the Evanston High school. He admitted writing the letter and said he didn't know why he wanted $100. Police sent him home after an appropriate lecture.

Girl and Dad Fight Youth's $100,000 Suit

The $100,000 suit charging false arrest and malicious prosecution which William S. Kuhn Jr., a former brokerage clerk, filed after his arrest two years ago by the Secret Six on charges of writing extortion notes to Miss Marion S. Wright, daughter of William Van Doren Wright, steel company executive, went to trial yesterday before Judge Peter M. Schwaba and a jury in the Superior court.

The defendants in the suit, which Kuhn filed on Jan. 21, 1931, the day that the charges against him were dismissed, are Wright, his daughter, Alexander Jamie, chief investigator for the Secret Six, Edgar Dudley, one of Jamie's assistants, and Dr. Ferdinand Watzek, the expert from Vienna who was for a time attached to the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory.

Bans Star Chamber Session.

An attempt by Judge Schwaba to hold a star chamber session of the trial, at which he forbade newspaper men to take notes, was called to the attention of Judge Denis E. Sullivan, acting chief justice of the Superior court. Remarking that star chamber sessions are unconstitutional, Judge Sullivan called Judge Schwaba and advised him against the practice. The trial was moved back into the courtroom.

He met Miss Wright at the Casino club, he testified, and later escorted her on several occasions to night clubs and once to a speakeasy. In December, 1930, he said, he had gone to Boston to visit his sister, when a telephone message from his brother, Wendell, a broker, summoned him back to Chicago.

Held for Three Days.

Told of the charges of writing extortion notes against him, he said, he went to the office of the Secret Six voluntarily, on Dec. 6. He was kept in the custody of investigators and subjected to lie detector tests until Dec. 9, he said, when he was booked on a charge of extortion.

Watzek had identified the letters written to Miss Wright as having been written on a typewriter in the brokerage office where Kuhn was employed. The case was dismissed before Municipal Judge John H. Lyle on Jan. 21, 1931, when Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks informed the judge that he had been informed that Albert S. Osborne, nationally known handwriting expert of New York, had examined the extortion letters and stated that there was no similarity between them and specimens typed on the machine which Watzek had identified.

Quizzed About Drinking.

The cross-examination of Kuhn by Attorney Edward W. Everett of Winston, Strawn & Shaw touched heavily on the drinking habits of the younger generation. Part of the examination follows:

Q.—Give me the names of some speakeasies on the near north side. Do you know Dolly Weisberg's place? A.—Yes, but I don't know why I should tell you where it is.

Q.—Did you know that Marion was only 18 when you took her out? A.—I had no accurate idea of her age.

Q.—The first time you took her out, how many highballs did you have? A.—Two or three.

Q.—Another time, didn't you leave a bottle in the College Inn? A.—Yes; there were only a few drops in it.

Q.—Did Marion drink on that occasion? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—When you left, were you under the influence of liquor? A.—I had had only four drinks.

Q.—In the cab on the way home did you try to kiss her? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Did you throw your arms around her? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did she say? A.—I don't remember anything she said except "No."

Q.—Don't you know that a man should never ask a girl for a kiss?

Two Injured in Crossing Crash at Des Plaines

Four members of a party of hunters were killed and two others were seriously injured yesterday afternoon when the sedan in which they were riding was demolished by a Chicago and North Western passenger train at the River road crossing in Des Plaines. The dead were:

MICHAEL MAURER of River Grove.

JAMES ZEMANN, 8551 Grand avenue, River Grove.

The injured are Clarence J. Norten of River Grove, who was taken to the Des Plaines emergency hospital, and William Warnecke, 5009 Armitage avenue, stepson of Thomas, who is in the North Western hospital at Des Plaines. His injuries may be fatal.

A seventh passenger, Howard Norten, 2439 Erie street, River Grove, brother of the injured man, escaped injury when he leaped from the car just before the crash. Howard and Clarence Norten are brothers of Justice of the Peace Harry F. Norten of River Grove.

Skids on Icy Pavement.

Thomas apparently saw the approaching train, witnesses said, but was unable to stop because of the ice on the pavement.

A gateman on guard at the crossing said the driver applied his brakes in response to a warning signal, but the car slid sidewise in front of the train. Witnesses also said that neither the train nor the automobile was traveling at high speed. The train, bound for Crystal Lake, had slowed down for the stop at the Des Plaines station, about 600 feet beyond the crossing.

The men in the automobile were returning from a hunting trip at Grayslake. The driving snow, which had fallen during most of the day, had stopped temporarily at the time of the accident.

Hurt in Evanston Crash.

Raymond Brooks, 49 years old, head of Cleaves & Brooks Machinery Manufacturing company in Milwaukee, was seriously injured in a collision yesterday at Main street and Dodge avenue, Evanston. His automobile skidded and was struck by a truck owned by the Marquette Coal company, 730 Pitner avenue, Evanston. Brooks' wife, who was riding with him, was slightly injured.

The four deaths in the Des Plaines accident and one other brought the Cook county motor toll for 1932 to 988. The other victim:

Mrs. Jeanette Wilson, 65 years old, of 1313 West Grand avenue. Fatally injured at Lake street and Ogden avenue last night by an automobile driven by Miles Davis, 32 years old, Negro, of 3654 Indiana avenue.

Two Chicagoans Killed.

New Madrid, Mo., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Joseph Burnstein and William Thompson, traveling salesmen for the Monarch Lamp company of Chicago, were killed at a Cotton Belt railway crossing five miles north of here today. Their automobile was demolished by a railway motor car. Burnstein was killed instantly and Thompson died later in a Sikeston hospital.

MISS HIGGLESON DIGS IN WITH A RIGHT GOOD WILL

Some 20 women, members of the South Shore Presbyterian church, 76th street and South Shore drive, gathered yesterday in the kitchen in the church basement to bake cakes and puddings for a church supper this evening. Presently they were joined by a pretty and well dressed young woman.

She presented herself as Miss Higgleson, the daughter of a Mrs. Currier, who is a member of the church, and explained that her mother had asked her to help with the baking. She got to work with the rest, and presently several older members of the group remarked to one another that it was encouraging to see a member of the younger generation so proficient in the kitchen arts.

"Miss Higgleson" presently noticed that the coats of a number of the women were wet and helped to hang them up to dry. Presently she was missed. Shortly afterward about $20 was also missed from the purses of the assembled cooks. Among those who reported losses to Sergt. Louis Starr of the Grand Crossing police were Mrs. Clarence Buckwith, 7831 Essex avenue; Mrs. Laura Geib, 7308 Coles avenue; Mrs. John B. Burgeson, 2877 East 77th street, and Miss Caroline Milley, 7602 South Shore drive.

PROJECT SLAIN BY MEMBERS OF SHORT SESSION

Belgian Note Asks for Revision.

Of eighteen members of two senate committees that will have much to do with passing on proposals of British, French and other governments for a revision of the war debt owed to the United States, ten are opposed to cancellation and eight are noncommittal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—War debt revision at the approaching session of congress is as dead as Caesar.

This was the virtually unanimous opinion of senators and representatives of both parties today, following publication of Gov. Roosevelt's reply to President Hoover's invitation to his successor to confer on the pleas of Great Britain, France and other debtors to extend the moratorium and reopen the settlements.

The attitude of aloofness from the manner in which the matter might be disposed of by the Hoover administration, which the President elect took in his reply, was universally regarded as dooming any revision move at the coming session.

Belgium Joins Suppliants.

During the day the state department received from Belgium a note of the same tenor as those from France and Britain asking postponement of the debt payment due Dec. 15 and a reëxamination of the whole question of intergovernmental debts. Belgium is obligated to pay $2,125,000 interest but no principal on Dec. 15.

The administration remained silent on the whole debt question, awaiting the return of President Hoover to the capitol tomorrow morning. The entire cabinet will be at the railway station at 8:30 a. m. to greet the returning executive. Shortly after the President reaches the White House he will begin a series of discussions with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and other advisers of the situation produced by the petitions of the debtors.

United Opposition Apparent.

Mr. Hoover will be informed that sentiment on Capitol hill is overwhelmingly opposed to granting the concessions asked by the debtors. Among the senators and representatives in Washington today not one could be found who favored a further suspension of the debt payments, which during the current fiscal year aggregate 269 millions of dollars. Nor could one be found who looked favorably upon the reduction, much less the cancellation, of the 11 billions 500 millions of total obligations.

The prospect is that the debtors will be compelled to pay the December installments or default. The British installment is 95, the French 20 millions, and the Belgian 2 millions.

Representative James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, said that, in his opinion, congress would have been more disposed to listen to their pleas if the debtors had proceeded to make their December payments and then asked leniency.

For Allowing Default.

"If the debtor nations do not pay this year, let their failure be entered as a default," he said. "This country has been very lenient. Those debts belong to the American taxpayers and should be paid. While I do not think they are worth going to war to collect, nevertheless we should use every reasonable means to induce the debtors to pay."

One Democratic senator who advised Gov. Roosevelt regarding his reply to the President said that congress unquestionably will stand pat on its December, 1931, resolution, declaring against any reduction of the debts. His opinion is that an extension of the moratorium by congress would cause the farmers and other classes to demand a moratorium on private debts and might lead to riots and other disturbances.

Budget Still Unbalanced.

With taxes increased, the budget still unbalanced, and higher taxes in sight, the loss of 269 millions of war debt payments this year, in addition to 245 millions last year because of the moratorium, would cause the taxpayers to revolt, in his opinion.

By Democratic leaders Gov. Roosevelt is represented as opposed to any reduction of the debts, which, it is pointed out, constitute only 3 or 4 per cent of the budgets of the debtors. Through an economic conference freeing trade channels of tariff barriers and exchange restrictions he would make it possible for the debtors to pay more easily.

SENATORS' VIEWS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Members of the two leading senate committees which will have much to do with the proposals of the British, French, and other governments on the debt situation gave their opinions on the issue:

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

SENATOR REED [Rep., Pa.]—I do not think that congress will grant any such request for further delay, either before or after March 4. My belief is that there will be few defaults, for I believe that France, Great Britain, and Italy will perform their promises.

SENATOR FESS [Rep., Ohio]—I am opposed to the suspension because I fear that postponement would lead to cancellation.

SENATOR SWANSON [Dem., Va.]—The Democratic platform was very positive and specific against cancellation or reduction of the war debt. I believe in fulfilling platform promises.

SENATOR GLENN [Rep., Ill.]—France's debt ought not to be reduced; she has the money and should make the payments. Perhaps Great Britains' debt was refunded upon unjust terms, but I am opposed to this congress acting upon the suspension proposals of creating a refunding debt commission.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE [Rep., Wis.]—Until the foreign countries agree to reduce reparations and armaments I am against any leniency by this country as to their debt.

Senator Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho], chairman of the committee, and Senators Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] and Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] refused to state their stand.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

SENATOR COUZENS [Rep., Mich.]—This country should not consent to a suspension of the debt payments until the debtor nations make a better presentment of their financial conditions and consent to enter into an international conference which will consider debts and all questions now disturbing the economic stability of the world.

SENATOR BINGHAM [Rep., Conn.]—I cannot agree to the suspension of the debt payments.

SENATOR WALSH [Dem., Mont.]—I don't care to comment on the debt problem at this time.

SENATOR GEORGE [Dem., Ga.]—The responsibility for any revision or reconstruction of the war debts rests equally on the executive and congress, and in my opinion congress ought to be called together if the emergency is so great that it demands immediate consideration.

SENATOR ROBINSON [Rep., Ind.]—I am opposed to cancellation of foreign debts or to any international conference looking toward reduction of same.

SENATOR WALSH [Dem., Mass.]—I don't think it necessary to call an extra session of congress to consider the war debt situation. This problem can be handled immediately upon the convening of congress in December.

SENATOR GORE [Dem., Okla.]—While I doubt if these debts will ever be paid, I do not favor their outright cancellation.

SENATOR JONES [Rep., Wash.]—If European nations can continue huge expenditures for armaments and war reparations, they ought to pay their debts now due to the United States according to their respective agreements.

Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah] and Senator Hull [Dem., Tenn.] refused to comment.

HOOVER PROGRAM UPSET BY REPLY FROM ROOSEVELT

Must Decide Policy on Debts Alone.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

On Board President Hoover's Special Train, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—As he traveled toward tomorrow's early morning arival in Washington, President Hoover had in hand today Gov. Roosevelt's reply to his invitation to a conference on the war debts.

It was an acceptance "in principle," as they say over in the state department. But from a Republican viewpoint the answer of the President elect left much to be desired.

Gov. Roosevelt declined to shoulder any responsibility ahead of time. Instead of a get together of the executive heads with the congressional leaders of both parties on whom will fall the duty of answering the British, French, and other demands, the governor's message suggested limiting the conference to a private chat.

Disappointing to Hoover.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt has sidetracked the President's proposal and has made sure that any meeting will involve nothing more binding than an exchange of ideas and assurances of mutual esteem.

This, of course, is disappointing to President Hoover. Since his days in office are numbered, he could have taken a definite step concerning the debts without having to worry about the political consequences. Rather, the consequences would have fallen upon his successor, who would have had to finish what he had begun.

The President believes that war debts, foreign barriers against American goods, and disarmament might all be stirred up together and produce a concoction that would help revive the world.

But the telegram from Gov. Roosevelt, which reached the President's special train at Hutchinson, Kas., last night, has placed a different complexion on the case.

No Comment by President.

The President has made no comment and probably will not until he gets back to the White House and has had a chance to confer with Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Mills, and such party leaders in congress as are in the capital.

It would not be surprising, in view of Gov. Roosevelt's attitude, if Mr. Hoover and his advisers reached the conclusion that the most politic, and perhaps the only course, would be to recommend to congress another one year moratorium.

This would settle nothing, except the fact that the United States would lose a quarter of a billion dollars of income in a year when income is greatly needed. It would, on the other hand, be a most effective method of getting back at Gov. Roosevelt by shoving the whole debt problem along into his administration.

Other Problems Pressing.

While the British and French notes have made the debt question the most pressing, it is by no means the only question which the President must take up following tomorrow's return, and then carry to Capitol hill when congress convenes, Dec. 5.

The long mooted matter of the reorganization of the excutive departments is one that is bound to see the President and congress engaged in altercation.

Still another matter at issue will be the budget, and closely connected with it the question of a possible tax revision to meet the mounting deficit. And connected as closely to taxes and the deficit as to the fundamental problem of prohibition is the question of beer and the huge revenue to be derived from a tax on legalized brew.

All these are matters that the President and President elect doubtless will discuss in their private chat. They are matters that Gov. Roosevelt will take up with Democratic leaders in congress, and matters that will see the ball of government batted back and forth between the White House and the capitol this winter.

NOTE FROM BELGIUM ASKING REVISION OF ITS DEBT OWED U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Following is the text of the memorandum received today from Belgium asking a reëxamination of the war debt situation and an extension of the debt holiday:

"The British and French governments, moved by a desire to alleviate the serious difficulties resulting from the economic depression, have, in their notes dated the tenth and the eleventh, respectively, of the present month, proposed to the government of the United States that it coöperate in a reëxamination of the problems arising from the intergovernmental debts.

"Basing their action upon the principles adopted during the recent conference of Lausanne, they suggested that the period of suspension on payments due to the United States be extended for the duration of this reëxamination.

"The Belgian government has the honor to make the same request in respect to payments due from Belgium. Although the rights of Belgium to obtain complete material restoration has been unanimously recognized from the beginning, the Belgian government did not hesitate in July, 1931, to accept the proposal for a moratorium which was made by the President of the United States.

"A year later, in the interests of peace and economic recovery, it adhered to the Lausanne agreements. In so doing it consented to make sacrifices which were particularly heavy and which have profoundly affected the financial situation of Belgium.

"The Belgian government remains convinced that the difficulties with which the world is faced today cannot be overcome unless the nations pursue a resolute policy of coöperation and mutual assistance. With this idea in mind and in a spirit of friendship the Belgian government requests the government of the United States to examine the proposals which it has the honor to submit."

Talks to Reporters; Shies at National Issues.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

From his attitude, and from what could be gleaned from his advisers, it appeared that the President elect expects to talk with President Hoover next week.

It seemed more likely that the President elect will listen to what Mr. Hoover has to offer, perhaps offer some comment as to what stand various Democratic leaders have taken, and depart, all without committing himself to any specific settlement of the war debt question.

Mr. Roosevelt's position, it appears, will be that of one happy to be given full information pending his conferences with Democratic leaders of congress at his Warm Springs, Ga., home.

The governor's advisers do not bemial health, and he was in his usual high spirits today, the fifth day of his bedchamber retirement, no conferences with newspaper men having been held since last Thursday.

"I've had a touch of the flu, I guess," he said. "It's left me sort of weak, and I've got to be careful about getting out too soon."

Halts Further Questions.

The governor has been walking around his bedroom, maintaining his strength, he said, and he estimated that another day or so of rest would find him fit again.

One of the reporters asked when he would meet President Hoover. Smiling broadly, Gov. Roosevelt shook his head and then he put the taboo on further questions concerning the Hoover conference. But it was learned that his plans call for him to go to his home at Hyde Park next Saturday night for the week-end. On Monday night, if no changes in the schedule are required, he will be host at a party at the Biltmore hotel in New York, given to the workers in his campaign organization.

It is possible the governor will leave New York the same night, traveling overnight to Washington, but more probable that he will leave early Tuesday, holding his conference with the President Tuesday afternoon.

Issue No Statement Now.

Gov. Roosevelt has been urged from several sources, including newspaper editorials and some business leaders, to issue a comprehensive statement of what will be his national policy, the thought behind the suggestions being that such a statement would be reassuring to business and provide an impetus for an economic spurt ahead.

Although no comment has come from the governor on these suggestions, it was learned that he does not expect to issue such a statement on the assumption that his speeches during the campaign clearly defined his national policy on all issues.

BRITAIN OBTAINS $95,000,000 AS NEW YORK CREDIT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Great Britain already has established a credit in New York for the December payment of $95,000,000 to the United States.

George Lambert, Liberal, asked at the question hour in the house of commons this afternoon if the government would make a declaration to the United States it could no longer continue to make war debt payments in gold.

Sir Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, had no reply beyond saying all matters pertaining to debts might for the time being be safely left to the British negotiator now on the spot at Washington—that is, Ambassador Ronald Lindsay.

Ambassador Lindsay probably will need ministerial reënforcement later if the negotiations develop beyond the mere matter of postponing the December payment. In that case Stanley Baldwin, deputy prime minister, probably will go to Washington, if Premier MacDonald's health is such he could carry the work of the premiership for a while unaided.

Chancellor Chamberlain's reply to Mr. Lambert in parliament today is characteristic of the government's reticence on what it proposes to do if the American congress refuses to grant an extension of the moratorium.

London financiers, however, hold the arguments against the December payment are so obvious from both the American and British viewpoints that congress is bound to grant a moratorium, regardless of England's ability to pay.

"What good would this payment do you?" asked one of these financiers today. "It would provide a little more gold with which to gild the pavements of New York, where your hungry idle are walking in search of jobs. But it wouldn't make jobs for them. It would depreciate the pound and start a new bear raid on sterling and make England an even cheaper market than it is now for world trade, thereby further reducing American exports and demands for American production."

PRIMATE CALLS FOR PRAYERS IN BRITISH CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, was in a pessimistic mood today concerning "this most critical time" when he opened the session of the church assembly at Westminster.

"I wonder whether ever in our history so many momentous issues have been crowded together at one time," he declared.

The archbishop issued a national call for prayer, suggesting Nov. 27, Advent Sunday, for the clergy of the country to appeal to their congregations for continuous prayer.

FAIR CONFESS FIVE BURGLARIES.

Frank Paluch, 19 years old, 1057 West 32d street, and Fred Brichman, 21, of 2633 North Melvina avenue, who were arrested early yesterday during the attempted burglary of a Forest Park drug store, confessed later to the burglary of four drug stores and a real estate office in Oak Park.

Dry Porto Rico Seeks to Tax Beer for Hurricane Relief

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A resolution asking that the United States congress grant authority to the island government to deal with the question of prohibition is under consideration at the special session of the legislature called to pass on hurricane relief measures. Advocates of the resolution say revenue from the sale of beer and wines is urgently needed. Porto Rico voted dry in 1917 and later the national prohibition act was applied.

Sweeping down from the frozen Yukon a cold wave yesterday had covered most of the central United States and was scheduled to penetrate the south as far as the northern boundary of Florida early today. Snow and brisk winds accompanied the cold.

Chicago, more fortunate than the rest of the middle west, was warmed to a certain extent by northeast winds off Lake Michigan. While temperatures to the west, northwest and even the south ranged down from 23 degrees above zero the mercury here was from 12 to 15. A steady snowfall that would have made a blanket four inches deep melted as it fell and this prevented street traffic tieups.

Cold Snap for Today.

A wind shift is due before dawn, however, and cold intense for this season is expected today. There may be some snow early this morning.

"The temperature will drop to 20 before morning," said Forecaster C. A. Donnel. "The maximum on Wednesday will probably be under 25. Before the cold spell ends I expect to see a minimum of 15 degrees."

Early today the western suburbs reported that their streets were coated with a sheet of ice and that motorists were having difficulty to keep from skidding. At midnight the thermometer at the airport on the west side, ordinarily several degrees colder than the city nearer the lake, registered 26 degrees.

In central Illinois the heavy snowfall was superimposed on a coating of ice, and highways near Springfield, Pana and Canton were reported virtually impassable. At Canton the mercury fell from 62 degrees to 23 in twenty-four hours. The storm there was described as a blizzard.

17 Below in Minnesota.

From the northwest came reports of extreme cold. The blasts from Alaska, where the thermometers registered 40 below zero, were still frigid when they swept across the international boundary. At Havre, Mont., it was 10 below; at Minot, N. D., 12 below, and at Thief River Falls, Minn., 17 below. Duluth, Minn., had its coldest Nov. 15 of record, with the mercury standing at 4 below. The maximum in southern Minnesota was 8 above.

In eighteen hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday the temperature at Kansas City, Mo., dived forty-five degrees and stood at only 17 above. Snow fell steadily over a coating of ice and sleet and numerous small accidents were reported.

Air mail service in Kansas was stopped by the storm. At the Chicago airport it was reported the air mail planes to the east were stopped by low visibility and snow, but that mail from the west was coming in regularly. Air passenger service was completely tied up except in a few instances.

Fire Destroys Tenement House in Peoria Street

Twenty persons were driven to the street and ten others were rescued when a fire, for which a 2-11 alarm was sounded, attacked an old, three story tenement at 1403 South Peoria street early this morning. Most of the tenants were Negroes. The fire started on the second floor and spread through the building. Damage was estimated at $2,000 by Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan. He said he would investigate to determine if the fire was incendiary.

JIMMY WALKER AT SEA, HOTEL SEIZES BELONGINGS FOR RENT

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—An effort was made today to collect something on the judgment for $485 against former Mayor James J. Walker, obtained by an interior decorating firm. A deputy sheriff went to the Hotel Ambassador today to levy on the former mayor's property in his four room suite there. He was notified by the hotel management that the levy was served too late, because all his personal effects there had been tied up under a lien for a bill owed to the hotel for rent and other charges. The deputy sheriff then left a notice of the levy and departed. Mr. Walker is now on a trip to Europe.

TURK DICTATOR INSULTS EGYPT'S ENVOY OVER FEZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 15.—The fez has caused a diplomatic rupture between Turkey and Egypt. The overzealous Mustapha Kemal Pasha, who westernized the Turkish republic, noticed a man wearing a fez during a festival parade in the capital. Kemal walked up to the man and said:

"Don't you know that old Mohammedan customs have been abolished in my country?"

"Indeed I do, but I happen to be Hansa Bey, minister from Egypt," the man coolly replied, leaving the dictator stupefied.

Kemal apologized through the Turkish legation at Cairo, but the Egyptians, aroused by hurt religious feelings, are not satisfied and demand that Kemal personally apologize.

Schuetze, Harpist, Suicide Just Before Lunacy Test

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Carl Schuetze, 52, harpist for the New York Philharmonic and Metropolitan Grand Opera orchestras, committed suicide today by jumping through a window of the county lunacy commission offices on the ninth floor of the Hall of Records building. Schuetze ran to the window and leaped past William Lemaire, husband of his step-daughter, who had brought Schuetze to the offices on the musician's own request.

LIBBY HOLMAN FREED; MURDER TRIAL DROPPED

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Libby Holman Reynolds, former New York torch singer, and Ab Walker, Winston-Salem, today went free of a murder charge in connection with the death of the former's husband, C. Smith Reynolds, on the morning of July 6.

Formal motion to nol pros the indictments against Mrs. Reynolds and Walker, her late husband's chum, was made by Solicitor Carlisle Higgins before Judge A. M. Stack in Forsyth Superior court. The solicitor stated he and his associates, after making careful and thorough investigations, did not consider the evidence sufficient to bring the case to trial.

Counsel for both sides were present when Judge Stack authorized a judgment of nol pros.

Judge Approves Decision.

"It is the duty of the solicitor," stated the judge, "to protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty and it is my custom to abide by the solicitor's wishes in such cases, since I do not investigate the evidence."

Judge Stack declared that all he knew of the case was what he had read in the newspapers.

"If that is all the evidence you have, you would never secure a conviction," he stated.

He added further that if he had been called to sit as judge at the trial he would have asked to be excused by the governor, in view of his close friendship with the uncle of the deceased, W. N. Reynolds. [They were roommates in college.]

Prosecutor Explains Position.

In his statement the solicitor said that his assistant and Sheriff Transou Scott concurred in his opinion.

"If I proceed to trial without sufficient testimony," Mr. Higgins said, "any discoveries of additional evidence thereafter would be of no avail. If I pursue the course I have decided in this case, if there should be additional evidence available hereafter, the state could proceed to trial.

"In determining the course that I should pursue I have decided that if I make a mistake it will be the one that leaves a way open for its correction hereafter. If the defendants are not guilty the least the state can do now is to stop the prosecution. If they are guilty, then the door should not be closed to a prosecution should sufficient evidence to justify it be available at any time hereafter."

Several weeks ago members of Smith Reynolds' family informed the prosecutor that they would be pleased if he could see fit to nol pros the charges, as their investigation did not reveal sufficient evidence to merit court trial.

ALABAMA'S HIGH COURT ORDERS 7 NEGROES RETRIED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Upon authority of the United States Supreme court, the Alabama Supreme court today reversed its decision affirming the death sentences of seven young Negroes for raping two white girls near Scottsboro in 1931 and sent the cases back to Jackson Circuit court for new trials.

The order following a mandate from the United States Supreme court which reversed the death sentences on the ground that the Negroes had not been given their full rights in obtaining counsel.

Thomas E. Knight Jr., attorney general of Alabama, recently announced he would not oppose a motion for a change of venue if defense counsel sought to have the new trials elsewhere.

AMY JOHNSON IS MISSING ON HOP ACROSS SAHARA

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Neither London nor Paris had any word tonight of the progress made by Amy Johnson, wife of Capt. J. A. Mollison, in her attempt to beat his record for a flight from England to South Africa. She took off from Oran, Algeria, last night for Niamey, French West Africa.

BARE ROOSEVELT SEA ADVENTURE DURING THE WAR

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—An adventurous world war voyage made by President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Irish sea is recounted in a new book, "Number Thirteen," by Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, famous Q boat commander.

Admiral Campbell's ship The Patrol had aboard Mr. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the American navy, and Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty. Narrowly avoiding grounding on rocks in a fog Admiral Campbell sent a boat ashore to inquire their bearings at a farmhouse.

"The fog lifted before the boat got ashore and we found ourselves in St. Brides bay," Admiral Campbell said. "What would have happened if the boat ever got ashore and reported the American and British navies lost I hate to think.

"Sir Eric ordered that he and Mr. Roosevelt be saved first if torpedoed by German submarines, with which the Irish sea was infested. This struck me as rather extraordinary at the moment, but I soon realized he was perfectly correct, as we could never have lived down the fact that the first lord of the admiralty and the assistant secretary of the navy had been taken prisoners."

SAY ROOSEVELT CALLED LEAGUE PEACE CHAMPION

ROME, Nov. 15.—(AP)—In response to an inquiry made shortly before the American elections by the International Diplomatic academy, President Elect Roosevelt was quoted today as saying "We Democrats do not believe it possible and do not desire an isolated national existence" for the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt was further quoted as describing the league of nations as the "greatest existing organization for the conservation of peace and the solution of problems formerly unknown to civilization." The statement was read to 200 European statesmen, scientists and intellectuals at the Volta Institute convention by Viscount Louis de Fontenay, former French ambassador to Italy and president of the International Diplomatic academy.

"We are highly jealous of our sovereignty and consequently are equally respectful of such sentiments in other nations," the President-elect's statement said as read by the viscount. But Mr. Roosevelt declared America should cooperate with Europe and the league of nations, the viscount added.

"Without entering European politics, America should take an active and serious official part in all procedures undertaken in the interest of humanity and general welfare," Mr Roosevelt was quoted as saying.

BELGIAN COUNT IS DETAINED AT ELLIS ISLAND

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Hugues de Borchgrave, Count d'Altena of the Belgian nobility, arrived here today from Europe to visit his great uncle in Philadelphia and got only as far as Ellis island, where he must stay until the immigration authorities investigate his financial status.

Although the count, who is in his early twenties, is partly American—his mother was the former Ruth Snyder of Philadelphia—the immigration authorities decided to bar his entry temporarily at least when he was found to be without sufficient funds for his maintenance during the term of his six month visa.

TROTZKY LEAVES EXILE ON SECRET TRIP TO DENMARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 15.—Leon Trotzky, who is living his fourth year in exile from soviet Russia because he dared to talk back to Josef Stalin, soviet dictator, secretly left the island of Prinkipo last night. He is bound for Denmark to deliver a lecture on the Russian revolution at Copenhagen university at the invitation of Socialist students.

Trotzky has in his possession a three months visa from the Danish government, which may be extended for another three months. At the expiration of the visa, however, he must return to Prinkipo.

The former Russian leader is accompanied by his wife, a daughter, and his secretary. He was forced to leave behind a son as a guarantee of his return.

Leaves on Italian Ship.

Trotzky left on the Italian steamer Praga, from which he will disembark at Marseilles. He has a permit from the French government to travel across France to Dunkirk, provided he does not tarry. He will go to Denmark from Dunkirk. The exile is understood to be traveling on the strength of a document issued by the league of nations to persons "without a country."

It is understood that Trotzky intends to stay in Copenhagen a week and hopes to be allowed to visit Norway, Sweden, Berlin, and Vienna before he returns. His mother is ill in a Berlin sanitarium.

May Try to Return to Russia.

A report published in a Turkish newspaper said that Trotzky planned to talk with soviet agents in Denmark with a view to going back to Russia.

Stalin exiled Trotzky from Russia to break the opposition which was being put up by the right wing of the communist party. The Turkish government permitted Trotzky to live on the island of Prinkipo, where he has been since. Recently Trotzky received permission to go to a Czechoslovakian health resort. However, at the last minute, because of public opinion, the Czech government reversed its decision and refused to grant him a visa.

PHILADELPHIA CITY, COUNTY WORKERS GO PAYLESS ON PAY DAY

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Pay day rolled around today for the 25,000 employes of Philadelphia city and county, but there was no money on hand to meet the semi-monthly pay roll of about $1,400,000.

Controller Will B. Hadley, at a conference with Mayor J. Hampton Moore, reported that virtually every dollar being collected from taxes was reserved for payment of city debt charges due on Dec. 31.

It was expected that a bank loan of $1,500,000 payable before the end of the year would be negotiated tomorrow to meet salary needs.

AL SMITH ASKS DONATIONS FOR RED CROSS FUND

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, "pinch hitting," as he termed it, for President Elect Roosevelt, appealed tonight for support of the 1932 roll call of the American Red Cross in an address broadcast over a nation-wide network of the Columbia broadcasting system. Mr. Smith explained that he did so as an active worker for the Red Cross in its New York chapter.

"We are engaged in a war against depression, misery, illness, and broken-down morale, all of which grows out of the new poverty which millions of our people are experiencing for the first time," Mr. Smith declared. "These are caused by the length and depth of the depression and all sections of the country are feeling them. We are not fighting for the present generation alone, but for the next one."

Pointing out that 2,300 of the 3,600 agencies of the Red Cross are providing relief in communities that have no other organization on which to rely, the former governor said that during the last year it had provided flour and bread to 18 million persons and clothing to 7 million.

YOUNG INSULL MATCHES WITS WITH LAWYERS

Questioned for 5 Hours in Court Drama.

Samuel Insull Jr., heir to the woes of a wrecked utilities empire, underwent five hours of searching examination yesterday at a federal court hearing to discover assets of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., top unit in the pyramid of holding and investment companies built by his father.

Matching wits with the lawyers who were seeking to entrap him, Insull employed dramatic qualities which would have done credit to a professional actor. He was in turn the naive young man, striving earnestly to impart all the information sought and more; the young business executive, weighing every word uttered as he cut through the mazes of the Insull finances; and, finally, the spunky son, defending the conduct of the Insull associates in the catastrophe which resulted in indictment for his father and his uncle.

Drama in Court Scene.

On the bench sat Judge Walter C. Lindley, his eyes fixed austerely on his desk. In the foreground were massed 23 lawyers, some of the most expensive legal talent in the city, most of them there to protect the interests of ten New York and Chicago banks, whose stake amounts to millions. Dominating the rest was Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, representing young Insull.

Filling benches in the rear were some scores of spectators, Insull investors, who had come to learn how it happened that their savings were wiped out. These observers for the most part stared dully at the witness, unable to follow the story of stock notations, dividends, bank loans, standstill agreements and receivership, which Insull knew so readily.

Threefold Plan of Attorneys.

The attorneys with whom the 32 year old witness fenced were Harold F. White and Lewis F. Jacobson, counsel for the petitioning creditors. Their strategy, disclosed in a devious and sometimes obscure line of questions, was threefold:

1. To force from Insull, as president of the trust, an admission that the company was actually insolvent four months before the receivership last April, thereby laying the basis for suits to compel the banks to return all the collateral and interest they accepted on 52 million dollars of loans within four months of actual bankruptcy. The attorneys sought to fix the date of this actual bankruptcy as about Dec. 14, 1931.

2. To establish that directors of the trust, in the two years of its existence, dissipated its assets in foolhardy investments and in dividend declarations, thereby making the directors liable for the millions of dollars lost.

3. To prove that the trust was unsound from the beginning, its foundation resting in large measure on watered stocks of Insull holding companies and on sound but inflated stocks of Insull operating companies.

Attacks Insolvency Issue.

Seeking to establish the insolvency, Attorney Jacobson handed Insull a statement purporting to show the company's financial position as of Dec. 10, 1931, four days before Insull began negotiations for a standstill agreement on bank loans. Studying the statement, Insull cocked his head.

"Now, what does it show as to assets?" the attorney demanded.

"It shows total securities owned with a book value of $246,000,000 and a market value of $102,489,000," Insull said.

Q.—What other assets did the company own that were not included in the statement? A.—I wouldn't know. I have no independent recollection.

Q.—You were president—yes? And attended to the company's business—yes? Now that you think of it, do you know whether the market value of the assets was stated correctly? A.—I do not know, but I assume it was. I have never doubted it.

Situation on Dec. 31.

Q.—Getting down to Dec. 31, the minutes of the finance committee meeting fixed the cash at $1,470,000 and the market value of all assets at $76,700,000. A.—That's correct.

Q.—Now, assuming the bank loans at this date at about 51 million dollars, what was the amount of this and all other liabilities put together? A.—I have no independent recollection. I should like to consult the books.

Q.—Well, as a matter of fact, there was 57 million dollars of debentures outstanding at this time which, added to the bank loans, would bring the liabilities above 100 million dollars? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you've agreed that the assets were in the neighborhood of 76 million dollars? A.—Based on market values, yes; but on market values only.

Denies Company Insolvent.

Throughout this interrogation Insull was lifting his brow, smoothing his hair, and occasionally waving his hands as if groping for the proper answer. He was absently plucking his ear when the lawyer fired the next question.

"Well, then," Jacobson demanded "isn't it a fact that your company was insolvent at this time?"

Former Judge Thompson came to his client's rescue. The question, he objected, was calling for a computation. The objection was sustained, but Insull wanted to be heard.

"In my opinion the company was not insolvent at this time," he averred firmly.

Goes into Security Buying.

Having exhausted that line of questions Jacobson took up the alleged dissipation of assets. He began reading from a copy of the minutes of the finance committee meetings as kept from week to week in 1930 and 1931.

Q.—I find here in the minutes of a January meeting a decision to continue the purchase of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service stock, "notwithstanding the current high market price." Would you be good enough to explain? A.—You mean, what was the reason for the decision? I should like to see the minutes for a minute, if I may.

Jacobson handed him the bound loose leaf. Insull studied it a full minute, perplexity crossing his face.

Asked About a Dividend.

Q.—There was a preferred stock dividend authorized on stock of which your family held shares about the time of the standstill agreement, was there not? A.—May I see the statement.

Jacobson handed him the exhibit. A look of enlightenment flashed across Insull's face.

"Yes, I have a recollection now," he said. "The record shows the dividend was voted on Dec. 1. I don't know about my family. I remember that $5,900 was paid me personally.

"You say the dividend was authorized Dec. 1, but it could have been paid subsequently, say on Jan. 2 or 3, couldn't it?" Jacobson went on. Insull made no answer.

From the finance committee minutes, the lawyer read a list of companies—National Realty, National Public Service, Shenandoah corporation and British Power and Light corporation—in which the directors of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., had authorized investments, according to the minutes. Could the witness explain the reason for these investments, he was asked.

Explains a British Deal.

"I can with reference to the British Power and Light," Insull answered eagerly. "One of the wholly owned subsidiaries of Insull Utility Investments was Insull, Son & Co., incorporated, which, in turn, had a wholly owned subsidiary named Insull, Son & Co., limited, of London, which, incidentally, had entered into some very profitable business relations with British Power and Light.

"The investment was made for the purpose of cementing these profitable relations and, I may add, it turned out a fairly successful investment."

Insull was pausing for breath when Attorney Jacobson handed him a schedule of assets, disclosing among items the book and market value of the investments enumerated.

"How much did you pay for this British company and how much is it worth now?" Jacobson asked.

"The schedule shows a book value of $1,400,000 and a market value of $598,000," Insull replied, indicating that this investment, at least in his judgment, was not so bad.

Company's Origin Discussed.

Delving into the beginnings of Insull Utility Investments, the lawyer took young Insull back to the boom days of January, 1929, when his father, "to perpetuate Insull control of the Insull Utilities system," had deposited all utility shares owned by the Insull family in the new investment trust, and invited the public to subscribe.

"The record here shows that you, as a participant in the organization, transferred to the Insull Utility Investments portfolio $1,200,000 of Middle West common," Jacobson said. "Was this stock transferred at market value?"

Insull studied the exhibit a moment, then fixed his eyes on Jacobson.

"Reading from the record," he said in a precise voice, "I find that the stock I transferred had an aggregate market value of approximately $1,038,000 and was carried at a price of approximately $1,035,000."

Lawyer Acknowledges Error.

Jacobson perceived his error, acknowledged the correction on the $1,300,000 and went on.

Q.—Then it was transferred at $8,000 less than market value? A.—Precisely, sir.

Q.—Do you know Hill, Joiner & Co.? A.—Yes, sir.

The lawyer was reciting the names of brokerage houses reputedly dominated by Samuel Insull Sr. and supposedly utilized by him to inflate the value of Insull stocks.

"Ever had any business with these firms?" Jacobson shot out.

"With reference to Hill, Joiner, I did have some transactions with them in 1929," he replied easily, reciting in exact language the details of a transaction which obviously had no bearing on the lawyer's point.

Question of a Pool.

"What I'm driving at," Jacobson insisted sharply, "is whether there was a pool organized in Middle West common about the time Insull Utility Investments was organized. Answer if you know."

"No, sir," came the crisp reply.

"Just where is this leading?" Judge Lindley interposed mildly, but Insull had changed rôles again.

"A pool?" he reflected, "I am trying to recall. No, sir, there was none. Not to my knowledge."

Q.—Do you know why all this money was borrowed from the banks? A.—Generally, to buy stocks.

Q.—That is your best recollection. A.—That is my best recollection.

The Standstill Agreement.

Under examination of Attorney White during the morning session Insull went back to the bleak days of last December when, with the market in Insull stocks falling swiftly and with no more collateral in the vaults to meet the bank demands for more margin on the company's loans, the young man set out to negotiate the standstill agreement.

Attorney White directed his attention to a directors' meeting of Dec. 14. The record showed that collateral pledged the banks had a market value of 102 million dollars at that time. Within the next two weeks it declined to $79,700,000, a subsequent statement showed.

Q.—Was there a discussion of the financial situation of the company on Dec. 14? A.—Yes, sir. I discussed it with H. L. Stuart and Mr. Samuel Insull.

Q.—What was the discussion. A.—Well, we became aware that we had a certain amount of collateral and no more, and the financial statement showed a continual decline so that the point was about to be reached where the company could put up no more collateral.

He Calls on the Bankers.

Q.—What did you do after the conference? A.—I called on Mr. Herman Waldeck, vice president of the Continental bank, and told him the situation. I proposed to lay it before all the creditor banks.

All the five Chicago banks that had lent the company money, Insull explained, were agreeable to a proposition whereby they would freeze the collateral they held and agree to call for no more regardless of the market's action, collecting 5 per cent interest on the loans out of cash on deposit until the undetermined date when the standstill agreement expired.

Q.—But the standstill agreement never went into effect, did it? A.—No, sir. All the Chicago banks signed by Dec. 31, but opposition developed in the New York banks to our agreement to meet certain special demands of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company. The opposition seemed to crystallize in the Irving Trust company, and the last signature to the agreement was not obtained until a few days before the receivership.

Crowd Surges Around Him.

As Insull left the stand the crowd surged forward. Bailiffs shouldered down the corridor outside the courtroom to make an aisle and the witness walked out, arm and arm with former Judge Thompson. Flash guns popped and Insull smiled into the cameras, ignoring the surly faces around him.

Insull will be on the stand again today.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A senate election contest was predicted today as the house campaign funds committee met to look into complaints involving the choosing of representatives in three states.

S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia attorney, told newspaper men that Lawrence Rupp, Democratic senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania, would officially protest the count which showed the reelection of Senator Davis [Rep., Pa.].

The Philadelphia lawyer said Rupp had not specifically authorized a contest as yet, but had wired him to "look out for his interests." Wilson added that he expected the protest would be filed with the senate within 30 days and that intimidation of voters, excessive expenditures, and vote buying would be charged.

FOUR CIRCULATION OFFICIALS ON TRIAL AS FAKERS OF FIGURES

Youngstown, O., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Former district circulation managers of the Youngstown Telegram, Scripps-Howard afternoon newspaper, testified today in the trial of four newspaper men charged with fraudulent advertising to methods allegedly taken in "padding" the paper's circulation figures.

Charles Egan Jr., one of seven former district managers to testify, said names taken from tombstones were listed on the Telegram's books as those of "newspaper boys," and that vacant houses were listed as addresses of subscribers to cover up alleged circulation deficiencies.

The defendants, who are charged with fraudulent advertising by issuing a false circulation statement, are John T. Watters, Telegram business manager; James J. Morrisey, circulation manager; Joseph Finster, former circulation manager, and Thomas Dowling, circulation adviser for Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Egan and five other former district managers testified they had been required to take more newspapers than the boys under them could sell. The excess papers were put in garages and cellars, they testified, and when an unexpected investigation was made by the Audit Bureau of Circulation efforts were made to conceal the papers by moving them to other places, and, in two instances, by dumping coal over them.

"Why did you have to get vacant houses for the addresses?" Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas asked.

"To be able to take the A. B. C. auditor to the house to prove there was a house but that the people had moved without paying their bill," Egan said.

GOV. ROOSEVELT TO INVESTIGATE MORO REBELLION

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Governor General Theodore Roosevelt will leave Manila tonight for Jolo, in the southern Philippine islands, to investigate the Moro outlaw situation, which is apparently still out of control of the constabulary after a month of fighting, in which 60 persons have been killed.

The sultan of Sulu said today he will join in attempting to effect a settlement. He plans to leave Nov. 24 for Jolo. The sultan has been held here by the 100 day session of the insular senate, of which he is a member.

In the last two days Moro outlaws have slain a constabulary truck driver and a Sulu farmer who, they said, was a spy.

Dawes Says He Is Out of Politics for Good

Charles G. Dawes, a power in virtually every Republican national campaign since 1896, announced his permanent retirement from politics yesterday. His statement spiked rumors that he might be called to head the Republican ticket in 1936.

"My retirement is permanent," Mr. Dawes said. "I am out of politics for good."

He said he would devote all his time to his new bank, the City National Bank and Trust company, a decision first announced when he retired as head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation last summer.

As a waitress, Winnie hears lots of things about Childs meals and service that we don't. Table conversations. Occasional complaints and praises. Winnie takes them all to heart, makes a point of remembering them. Every once in a while she sends us a memorandum.

We like Winnie's memos especially. But, of course, she isn't the only Childs employee who keeps us in touch with your likes and dislikes. TAX PAYMENTS SHOW INCREASE; STRIKE ON WANE

Change Is Attributed to Jarecki Ruling.

There was a marked increase in payments of delinquent taxes yesterday at the office of the county treasurer. Public officials called the increase evidence that the so-called tax strike is rapidly breaking up. The ruling of Judge Jarecki Monday on the Bistor objection to 1930 taxes has convinced "striking" taxpayers, they believe, that there is no longer any hope of delaying payment of their taxes through court action.

Judge Jarecki, in his ruling, dismissed the objection to payment of 1930 taxes entered by James E. Bistor, chairman of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, and some 78,000 members of the association. The objection covered properties on which about $22,000,000 in 1930 taxes is due. Judge Jarecki entered orders of judgment and sale against these properties.

Await High Court Mandate.

The objection which he dismissed was on the same grounds set up in the Bistor suit attacking the 1928 and 1929 tax levies. This suit was dismissed by the Illinois Supreme court, and later denied a review by the United States Supreme court, but the high state court has not yet transmitted to the County court the mandate based on its ruling.

As soon as it arrives, County Attorney Hayden N. Bell said yesterday, he will seek orders of judgment and sale for delinquent 1928 and 1929 taxes on all properties owned by the members of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, involving taxes estimated at $30,000,000 or more.

Day's Payments Total $350,000.

The tax payments made yesterday to County Treasurer McDonough totaled $350,000, whereas for the last week they had averaged not more than $30,000 a day. The increase was ascribed principally to Judge Jarecki's ruling.

Judge Jarecki continued during the day to dismiss tax objections based on the grounds cited in the Bistor and Cisar cases. He entered judgments totaling $775,547 against eight large income producing buildings. Among these were the Midland Club building, 172 West Adams street, $144,149; Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive, $151,557; Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street, $17,201; Majestic building, 22 West Monroe street, $164,917, and Planters Hotel building, 9-19 North Clark street, $44,110.

COUNTY SOLVING TAX PROBLEMS, SAYS SZYMCZAK

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—M. S. Szymczak, city controller of Chicago, told members of the Municipal Bond club at a luncheon here today that numerous factors are working to clear up the fiscal muddle in Cook county due to noncollection of taxes.

He mentioned particularly decisions in the Supreme and County courts, invalidating the excuses on which tax strikers have sought to evade tax payments; the action of the city and other taxing bodies in Chicago to reduce their levies through economy programs, and the election of Judge Henry Horner as governor, which he predicted will make possible further tax economies through consolidation of governing bodies.

Mr. Szymczak asserted that 61 per cent of the $143,346,000 in taxes in Cook county which are tied up by objections filed in the courts are owed on properties worth $500,000 or more. This estimate is based on the assumption that a tax bill of $10,000 or more represents a property worth at least half a million dollars. His figures, in which bills of $2,500 or less are taken to represent properties worth less than $125,000, follow:

Size of bill.	Taxes due.	Per cent.
Under $2,500	$25,802,280	18
$2,500 to $10,000	30,182,660	21
Over $10,000	$87,441,860	61

Mr. Szymczak pointed out that out of $132,523,777 worth of tax warrants sold to the public in anticipation of the levies of 1928, 1929 and 1930, all but $4,055,000 worth have been redeemed.

10,000 CHINESE HOMELESS AFTER AIR RAID ON CITY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 15.—More than 10,000 persons have been made homeless by Gen. Liu-Hsiang's aerial bombing of the city of Luchow in Szechwan province and more than 2,500 civilians and soldier defenders were killed or wounded in Sunday's battle, according to belated reports from China's far west.

Bringing up five additional bombers, one gunboat, five armed merchantmen and a fleet of 70 junks, Liu-Hsiang assaulted Luchow from the Tu river but was repulsed, losing more than 1,000 officers and men killed and 25 heavily laden junks.

The fighting in Szechwan involves about 200,000 men.

Assistants Will Conduct Preliminary Parleys.

Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, members of the board of tax appeals, announced yesterday that they have appointed ten assistants who will help them in hearing assessment complaints by holding preliminary conferences with the complainants and representatives of the assessor.

The action, taken to expedite the preparation of assessment rolls, was approved by Assessor J. L. Jacobs and members of the citizens committee on public expenditures, the appeals board members stated.

Two Receive $1 a Year.

Two of the appointees, William Zelosky and John F. Hahn, have agreed to serve for a dollar a year. The other eight appointees, S. Charles Iverson, Frederick J. Phillips, George J. Eckhoff, Cary E. DeButts, J. Frank Lindsey, Horatio H. Heywood, Hyde Perce, and Frank P. Murphy, will be paid at rates similar to those received by other assistants of the appeal board.

All of the appointees are real estate brokers. They were recommended to the board by Henry G. Zander Jr., president elect of the Chicago Real Estate board. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Brummel said that President Emmett Whealan of the county board has agreed to find funds to pay the assistants.

Decision Up to Board.

The Kelly law, which created the present tax assessing system last spring, provided that the assessments made by the assessor may be changed only by agreement of the two members of the appeal board, sitting in a public session.

Following their preliminary hearings, the assistants will report their findings and recommendations to Mr. Nixon and Mr. Brummel, who will make the actual change in the assessment in accordance with the law.

AL CAPONE IN COURT TODAY; WILL PRESENT PLEA FOR FREEDOM

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Special precautions against any disturbance in the courtroom were planned tonight as federal officers made ready to bring Al Capone into court tomorrow to plead that he is illegally imprisoned for income tax evasion.

United States Marshal Louis H. Crawford, who will have the former Chicago gang chief in charge from the time he leaves the federal prison until he goes back through the gates, said the doors of the courtroom would be closed as soon as all seats are filled, and nobody would be allowed to enter or leave during the hearing.

G. A. Youngquist, assistant United States attorney in charge of prohibition and income tax prosecutions, left Washington today to direct the government opposition to freedom for Capone. Dwight H. Green, district attorney at Chicago, where Capone was convicted and sentenced to serve ten years, also was en route here.

3 SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR FAKE INJURY CLAIMS

Three men were sentenced to the bridewell yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Yellow Cab company of $50 through a fraudulent accident injury claim. John Candia, 37 years old, a decorator at 3300 Roosevelt road, was sentenced to six months and fined $100; Marcel Donor, 38, his business partner, and John Boicean, 42, Candia's father-in-law, were sentenced to 30 days and fined $1 each.

Candia claimed his foot was injured when a cab door was closed on it, and he was paid $50 by claim agents. Later, investigators for the Yellow Cab company testified they discovered that Candia had rubbed his foot with a brick to cause it to become discolored.

SHANNON GROUP MAY ASK FARM BOARD SCRAPPING

Accused of Dictatorship Methods.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Abolition of the federal farm board as a "tragic government experiment in agriculture" may be recommended by the Shannon congressional committee in its report to the "lame duck" session of congress which meets next month. This was indicated last night by members of the committee which is delving into the government's activities as a competitor of the taxpaying business man and farmer.

As to the method they are undecided whether to suggest that the federal marketing act be repealed outright or to recommend that the farm board be chloroformed by taking away its finances, knocking out the "stabilization" feature, and turning over most of its remaining phases as a wet nurse to coöperative marketing to the agriculture department. Either way means thumbs down for the farm board.

See "Dictatorship" Effort.

The disclosures of the committee's views came at the close of a hearing at the Palmer house in which witnesses dwelt on the activities of the federal farm board and its subsidiaries as an effort to establish a governmental dictatorship in foodstuffs. The board was declared to have established by coercion a "reign of terror" among many coöperatives and to have driven on the rocks established middlemen agencies and growers, while upwards of half a billion dollars of tax money has been squandered in a "price fixing gamble" which has seen prices slump to record lows.

The plight of the cherry growers and canners in Michigan, in the Grand Traverse bay region and in Wisconsin, in Door county, was depicted by Howard C. Morgan of Traverse City, Mich., and Marc C. Hutchinson of Fennville, Mich., president of the National Canners' association, as illustrating "demoralization wrought by government in business."

"Killing Off Competition."

"Outlawry" in effect has been decreed against commission merchants by the operations of the farm board, according to the testimony of Horace H. Herr, director of the National League of Commission Merchants. His thesis was that the government, through the farm board, sought to become "both Moses and Mussolini" for the coöperative marketing movement.

"Its avowed purpose," he said, "is to kill off the competitive marketing system and establish a monopoly in both production and distribution."

Mr. Herr was in the midst of his denunciation of the farm board methods when Congressman William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, Republican, interjected a few remarks.

Coddling of Agriculture.

"All these acts for the farmer," said Mr. Stafford, "are merely throwing a sop to the farmer. All this relief legislation by the professional relievers, while ostensibly for the benefit of the farmer, simply coddles agriculture into a position which it cannot maintain."

Mr. Stafford, it developed, was one of the only two Republican members of the house who voted against the farm marketing act, the other being his old Harvard college chum of the class of '94, Congressman George H. Tinkham, wet Republican of Boston.

"The late James R. Mann of Chicago," continued Mr. Stafford, "once told me 'all legislation is evolution. When it jumps too fast it is retrogression, not progression.' And that was the principal vice both of the farm board act and the Volstead act, which sought to change by edict overnight the customs and habits of long generations of free born people."

Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill of South Bend, Ind., Democrat, echoed Mr. Stafford's comment.

"Does any one think," asked Mr. Pettengill, "that agriculture can be lifted by the farm board by loading it down with bigger burdens of debt? It's like a man trying to lift himself with his bootstraps."

Chairman Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, Democrat, and Congressman Robert F. Rich of Woolrich, Pa., Republican, nodded their heads in agreement.

Charge Unfair Trade Tactics.

Apart from the farm question, charges of unfair business tactics in violation of the laws were laid against government in business by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Henry D. Sharpe of Providence, R. I., president of a special committee which has studied governmental rivalry with private business; Edward C. Crossett of Chicago, and George A. Miller of Mishawaka, Ind., amplified the charges of the chamber.

Mr. Miller, who proved a star witness, blamed business men for "running to Washington with their troubles."

"Bureaucracy is a dangerous trend," he said. "If the government will apply business methods of cost accounting to government in business, and put it on a profit and loss basis, private business will lick government competition."

Troubles of Cherry Growers.

Describing the tribulations of the red sour cherry industry—known far and wide to consumers of cherry pie—Mr. Morgan, president of the Michigan Canners' association, said:

"In Wisconsin there was a farmer coöperative group going along nicely in Door county. The farm board loaned it $650,000 to buy a canning plant in Michigan—this was in 1929. So it came into Michigan to buy up plants and the government took mortgages on the plants as security.

"They purchased plants at Traverse City, Frankfort, and Colona and built a plant at Hart, Mich. Each plant had been a successful going organization. Backed by government funds, this favored group would organize growers into a coöperative and by taking away the tonnage forced the sale of the plants. There was coercion; they'd threaten to build a plant across the road. They bought with government money, and then threw out the old employés who ran the plant.

Large Part Carried Over.

"The growers and canners in Michigan at that time were prosperous. Cherry orchards were bringing $400 to $1,000 an acre. As a result of the farm board activities the coöperative part of the cherry pack increased from 10 per cent of the total pack to 33 per cent. Production was increased. In 1930 a tremendous pack was put up, financed by federal farm board money, and the coöperative not having an outlet carried a large portion over in warehouses.

"Large stocks have been carried over. In 1930 the value of cherries was $9 a dozen No. 10 cans. The price fell to $6.50 a dozen. The return to the grower was 7 cents a pound in 1929, 5¼ cents in 1930. Last season it was 1 cent a pound, only enough to pay the cost of harvesting.

"There was a great loss. Not only were the independent canners and the growers disastrously affected, but the plants of the coöperative financed by farm board funds are now being operated under a trusteeship and a government man is in charge. The government is directly in the canning business."

Other witnesses testified that in California peaches are being sold that were packed in 1929 with government funds; a great surplus is on hand, and in addition to the cash loss, the surplus is having a depressing effect upon the market.

He Charges Discrimination.

Concerning the demoralizing effect of fear upon farm markets, Mr. Herr urged that the operations of the farm board have been such as to establish a vicious discrimination between farmers.

"The farmer who has always depended on his own resources," he said, "finds himself denied the privileges extended by his government to other farmers who will conform to the government program.

"We have the spectacle of the government, through use of taxpayers' money, going out to incite economic strife between rural and urban interests.

"Since the condition of agriculture in the United States is infinitely more favorable than in any other country, we must assume that the middleman—these private citizens in the business of distribution against whom the federal government now issues a decree of outlawry — rendered conspicuous service to the farmers for more than a century. They developed and extended the markets for agriculture."

On Federal Pay Rollers.

Unfair practices by the government when it goes into competition with private business were emphasized in the report of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It spoke of the 606,000 federal employés in 1931, of whom 26,000 civil service employés are in Illinois. The growth of the bureaucrats, it argued, means that the government has entered into enterprises from which ordinary citizens obtain a livelihood.

"In its essentials," it remarked, "such a procedure involves the government using the taxes paid by a citizen to deprive the citizen, in whole or in part, of his earnings in an occupation which is entirely lawful.

"The government's operations are essentially unfair; they can be carried on without regard to the elements of profit and loss which are unavoidable factors in private business."

Suggestions to Government.

The report pointed out that government in business pays no taxes and has little or no overhead for rent and management—unfair advantages. Among the suggestions set up by the report were the following:

1. If the government competes with private enterprise it has an obligation to ascertain completely the true costs and make them public.

2. Every government agency in business should be required to refrain from every form of unfair competition and unfair practice.

3. Under pressure of emergency conditions legislation should not be enacted initiating functions on a permanent basis involving competition with private business.

4. The government's employment of personnel for functions not directly governmental should be limited to persons technically qualified to make specifications as to services, goods, and construction needed for the government's purpose, to determine impartially and expertly which tenders of private citizens should be accepted to supply the government in accordance with such specifications.

The report gave several pages of specific instances of governmental inroads upon private enterprise.

WANTS FARM LOAN RATES CUT BY U. S.; MARKETING CONTROL

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Refinancing of farm mortgage loans at radically reduced rates of interest will be fought for at the coming session of congress. The cut will be sought by representatives from farm states, so delegates to the annual convention of the National Farmers' union were told late today by Senator Lynn J. Frazier [radical Rep.] of North Dakota.

At an evening session Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem.] of Oklahoma outlined his plan for government regulation of farm marketing. He urged that "the several farm organizations enlist and coöperate under a unified command."

Throughout the long session of the 300 delegates from 28 states ran sentiment favoring stringent measures to obtain prices covering cost of production of farm products. This sentiment was expected by many to solidify through indorsement of the farm strike activities of the Farmers' National Holiday association.

DELAWARE BROKER, PILOT KILLED IN FALL; FLAMES WRECK PLANE

Dover, Del., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Two men were killed when an airplane in which they were "banking" for a landing suddenly nose dived 200 feet and burned in an old field near here today. The victims were John A. Montgomery Jr., an insurance broker, 33, and James Leslie McAllister, 29, pilot of the machine, both of Wilmington. Both were married. The bodies were taken from the débris of the burned plane.

The plane, a Travelair cabin model, had been purchased by Montgomery, aviation enthusiast and amateur pilot, about three months ago.

According to officials of the Bellanca airport at Wilmington, Montgomery had flown from there today to visit friends. McAllister, an employé of the airport, came along as co-pilot and was at the controls at the time of the accident.

Eye-witnesses said the gasoline tank of the machine evidently exploded as it crashed to the ground.

GIRL 'SECRETARY TO STRATTON' 'PERILS' COP JOBS

Clark L. Rorick, 24 years old, of 1044 Winona avenue, an interior decorator, and Miss Mary Cruise, 29 years old, of 3431 Elaine place, a secretary, were arrested late last night by Lincoln Park Policeman T. A. Smith after their automobile had struck a safety island in Diversey parkway near Halsted street and crashed into another car.

They were taken to the Sheffield avenue station, where Miss Cruise announced that she was the private secretary to Secretary of State William J. Stratton. Police said that she threatened to "make it hot" for them because of her asserted connections. Police booked Miss Cruise for disorderly conduct and took her to the women's quarters at the South State street station. Rorick was booked for driving while intoxicated.

Police said that Rorick and Miss Cruise, with the former driving, were zigzagging east in Diversey parkway when the accident occurred. The car damaged belonged to Percy Gastholter of 2647 Clybourn avenue.

FIRE DESTROYS WATER TANK.

Fire yesterday destroyed the water tank on top of the eleven story Peterson building, 535 Plymouth court, with damage of $1,000. The blaze was started by burning tar inside the tank, ignited while Joe Lewis, a building employé, was caulking seams with a blow torch.

Find Russia Short of Food as Five Year Plan Closes

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 15.—On the eve of the conclusion of the five year plan—which is being ended in four years—soviet Russia is struggling with the old and difficult problem of food for its people.

The food situation is bound to be one of the chief problems of the second five year plan, now in the process of drafting. Russians are subsisting on most stringent rations. There is a serious shortage of such commodities as meat, sugar and butter. In the second plan, by all indications, greater emphasis than ever will be placed on the improvement of general living standards.

State of Food Supply Bad.

Although the state of the country's food supply is admittedly bad—some Russians say it is worse than in 1928, when the five year plan started—no facts are available to bear out dire predictions heard abroad of widespread suffering this winter. On the contrary, the 1932 harvest is expected to ease present harsh conditions to some extent.

It is too early at this time to compare the actual accomplishments of the first five year plan with its ambitions. But officials contend that, in general, the goal of laying a base for an industrialized country and of establishing the foundation for the means of production has been attained.

The country failed last year to achieve planned increases in industrial production, and official figures for the first eight months of 1932 indicate it will fail again this year.

Industries Show Gain.

The total of industrial production already has exceeded 1931 by 14 per cent—although this is less than half the 36 per cent contemplated. Every industry except food, which showed little gain, records extensive increases, notwithstanding the shortcomings of transportation, which still is far behind the needs of the country, and the enormous turnover caused by scant food and other unfavorable living conditions in some localities.

The main difficulty has been a maladjustment between agriculture and industry. In the agricultural field the government has had amazing success in its collectivization program, reaching 80 per cent of the land this year. But this was partially offset by the inability to supply the peasants with sufficient quantities of manufactured goods, causing a lack of incentive among the peasantry to work with the efficiency and speed the leaders demand.

The damaging drought of 1931, which caused an enormous crop loss, particularly in grain and sugar beets, sharpened this situation. But the government levied the same amount of collections—that is, the produce peasants are required to sell to the government at fixed prices—which would have been required if the crop had been normal. This resulted in a severe drain on rural production, not only leaving the peasants without adequate food for themselves but also causing widespread live stock losses.

Peasants Ate Grain.

Many peasants, including the members of collective farms, ate the grain that ordinarily would have been saved for seed. This fact, combined with the somewhat general slackening of work in the fields, was responsible for a decrease of almost 2,000,000 hectares (4,942,000 acres) in the 1932 sown area, compared with 1931.

FACTOR IS DENIED A REHEARING BY APPEALS COURT

The United States Circuit court of appeals yesterday overrruled the petition for a rehearing in the case of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, who is facing extradition to England for criminal trial on charges of defrauding British investors of $7,000,000 in stock deals. Factor is at liberty in bond of $25,000 which will hold good until he has exhausted his last legal recourse in an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The court of appeals, in the decision it refused yesterday, decided by a vote of two to one that Factor should be returned to England. The case was taken to the court of appeals by the British Crown after Federal Judge George A. Carpenter had released Factor on writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Carpenter held that the crime with which Factor is charged, receiving money knowing it to have been fraudulently obtained, was not a crime under Illinois statutes.

JUDGES DECLARE MORATORIUM ON NEBRASKA FARMS

Refuse to Foreclose on Mortgages.

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Announcement of a farm mortgage moratorium by judges in the Ninth state judicial district today brought elation to farmers who owe money on their farms.

They declare the moratorium will give them a lift until they get more money for their corn and hogs. Farmer holiday members who have been attending sales and doing what they can to refinance farmers and stopping sales of farm mortgages say the moratorium is what they wanted and that this will help the farmers over the present depression.

Holders of mortgages take the situation as a matter of fact, some admitting that many farmers are up against it because they can't pay now and that many are ready to pay when times are better.

Announced in Open Court.

Judges Charles Stewart of Norfolk and Clinton Chase of Stanton announced in open court that the moratorium on farm mortgages is on for an indefinite period of time.

The decision to adopt this policy was made by the court to insure that no landowner's right would be violated because of that landowner's ignorance of the law regarding stays of execution and similar legal technicalities. It was for this reason that the courts stipulated that the policy would be followed in those cases where the defendant farmer did not have the advice of an attorney.

This does not mean that there will be no foreclosure decrees issued. In those cases where the defendant understands his rights and has taken all legal steps possible to defend his rights the decrees will be issued. And also in cases where the owner may not care to defend his rights or does not try to prevent the foreclosure proceedings.

Work Against Foreclosures.

The announced purpose of the farm group in attempting to prevent foreclosure proceedings is to delay action until business and financial conditions improve. Farmers in this district have been active in trying to prevent or retard foreclosure of mortgages and to prevent the sale of tax certificates.

At Neligh, aside from mortgage holders who came to protect property in which they were interested, there was not a bidder at the annual offering of delinquent taxes at the office of the county treasurer. This is reported true in other counties in north Nebraska.

Some farmers while pleased by the present moratorium declare that investors may turn elsewhere to make their investments and that the present relief to those who have mortgaged their farms may be only temporary and that money to invest in farm lands may be hard to get in the future.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The forehanded Mouquins, who between 1864 and 1920 distributed the bulk of the French wines sold in this country, are all ready for the repeal of the Volstead act.

Louis Mouquin, president of the company, announced today at the office of his warehouse in Brooklyn, that the firm has received orders for $2,500,000 worth of wines other than vintage brands for delivery immediately after the sale of light wines and beers is declared legal.

To show that the Mouquins are up to date, Louis says he will have a shipload of wine off quarantine the morning after the sale of such wine is declared to be legal. The wine growers of Italy, Spain and Hungary are cooperating with the winemakers of France to supply the American demand as soon as the law allows, according to Mr. Mouquin.

DOLINSKI VIEWS ON ABSENT WIFE TOLD IN COURT

When Mrs. Anna Dolinski, 36 years old, 1337 Fargo avenue, departed for a European trip in the summer of 1927 her husband, Michael, 38 years old, whom she later divorced, did not grieve, according to testimony yesterday in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit Mrs. Dolinski has started against Miss Estelle Kulick, 32 years old, of 5524 Pensacola avenue. A jury in Judge Craig Hood's court is hearing the case.

Mrs. Sadie Marshall, 2538 Haddon avenue, who was a maid in the Dolinski home for six years beginning with 1921, testified that after Mrs. Dolinski's departure for Europe in 1927 Miss Kulick, an executive in the dressmaking concern of which Dolinski is a member, visited the Dolinski home several times.

The only time Miss Kulick and Dolinski were alone was one evening when the former had a headache and went into a bedroom, where Dolinski joined her, Mrs. Marshall said. Other persons, including relatives, were in the house at the time, she testified. After she accompanied the two to the beach on several occasions, Mrs. Marshall said, and saw Dolinski bathing Miss Kulick's feet on their return, she remonstrated with him. She quoted Dolinski as replying:

"I don't care about Mrs. Dolinski. I'll give her $50,000 and this $75,000 house and be through with her."

LAWYER PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN $500,000 FRAUD

Attorney Charles Glaeser, 57 years old, who confessed a month ago that he had defrauded clients of $500,000 in fake mortgage deals, pleaded not guilty to charges of forgery when he was arraigned yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court. Glaeser previously had indicated that he would plead guilty.

It was said in the Criminal Court building that Glaeser had refused to plead guilty on all the charges for fear that he would be given sentences to run consecutively for a long prison term. The plea of not guilty leaves Glaeser in a better position to bargain with the state, court attachés said. After his arraignment, Glaeser was returned to the county jail to await assignment of the case to a trial judge.

ROB LOAN OFFICE, TAKE REVOLVER OF POLICEMAN

Two gunmen yesterday took the star and revolver of Policeman Joseph Stryzinski of the Albany Park station, tied him with three other prisoners in the back room of the St. Wenceslaus Building and Loan company 3701 Belmont avenue, and escaped with $1,500. The policeman, off duty but dressed in his uniform, was seized when he entered the office while the robbery was in progress. Joseph Pniak, treasurer of the company, was compelled to open the safe and hand over the keys to his automobile. After placing Pniak in the back room with Policeman Stryzinski and the three others taken prisoner, the bandits fled in Pniak's car.

the inevitable result of cheapened soap flakes!

Cheapened soap flakes all dressed up in giant packages may beckon to you from dealers' shelves—but trust them not! For all too often they are loaded with free lye and other harsh ingredients . . . can ruin clothes worth many dollars in a single washing!

If you could visit the beautiful homes where American Family is used exclusively . . and talk with the thrifty women who manage these homes . . you would quickly understand the reason for their preference.

"Pay a few pennies more," urges Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, noted lecturer on home economics. "Buy Kirk's American Family. It's always safe . . always pure . . makes your clothes wear so much longer. I've used it for years for all laundering . . and cleaning as well. You'll be amazed how much less money it takes to keep the family clothed and the household supplied with linens when you use American Family Flakes."

Mrs. Louis J. DeLamarter, for example, would tell you that her lovely silks, her exquisite table linens are laundered only in American Family Flakes. "I'm just as particular that these mild flakes are used for my china as for my fabrics," says Mrs. DeLamarter. "We order American Family Flakes in two-dozen package lots and use them for all our laundry and kitchen work."

Mrs. Theodore F. Vogel bears similar witness to American Family efficiency. "It safeguards all my washable pieces," she declares, "from these jade-green china plates dating back to Napoleon's time to our everyday sheets and towels."

Thousands and thousands of women enjoy this same freedom from care . . take pride in better looking linens, curtains and hangings . . . have extra dollars to spend for other needs . . all because they refuse to use any other soap flakes but American Family—as pure as pure can be.

The reason is simple. American Family was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. It makes double the suds of ordinary flakes . . . and it's the double-suds that makes the difference!

ILLINOIS HOUSE ASKS SESSION TO REPEAL DRY LAW

Appeals to Emmerson to Call Special Term.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—By a vote of 68 to 21, the Illinois house of representatives late today passed the O'Grady resolution memorializing Gov. Emmerson to call a fifth special session of the general assembly to repeal the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure laws.

THOS. J. O'GRADY.

Representative Thomas O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], the author of the dry law repealer vetoed by the governor and consistent fighter against prohibition, told the house that the state should have its own "blue" law out of the way to prepare for the short session of congress in December. His resolution did not stir the hornet's nest of disapproval from dry members which had been predicted, most of the debate upon it dealing with procedure.

Watch Effect on Dry Senators.

The resolution must now go to the senate where its fate is in the balance. The overwhelming wet sentiment in the state was shown again during last Tuesday's election but it could not be determined late tonight what effect that might have upon former dry senators.

In his address to the house, Mr. O'Grady scored prohibition and recited the history of sentiment against it as exposed by frequent referenda votes in the state. If the fifth session is called the members will not draw their $50 expense money, according to clause in the resolution. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, Federal legislation may be enacted at the coming session of congress which convenes in December to permit the sale and manufacture of light wines and beer, and,

"Whereas, The provisions of the Illinois prohibition law and search and seizure act would prohibit citizens of Illinois from taking advantage of such federal legislation, and,

Pledge to Approve Bill.

"Whereas, The governor elect, Henry Horner, said before and after election he would sign a bill to repeal the Illinois search and seizure law and Illinois prohibition laws,

URGES TAKING OF DRY LAW FROM U.S. CONSTITUTION

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., now elected to the house of representatives, today told reporters here that the first real aim of anti-prohibitionists must be the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. That objective, he said, should not be lost sight of in the present move to amend the Volstead act.

"Repeal of the eighteenth amendment is the fundamental issue, the one in the last analysis which will count," Mr. Wadsworth added. He came to New York today from his home in Geneseo. The former senator would not comment on rumors that two years hence he will be his party's candidate for governor and in another two that he might be a presidential aspirant.

Mr. Wadsworth said there certainly was a "probability" that the short term of congress will amend the Volstead act.

Gives Recipe for 3 Cent Meal to Feed Jobless

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Urging use of wheat in feeding unemployed, Prof. Robert E. Brown of Oberlin, O., has sent to Winnipeg newspapers a copy of his recipe for a "three cent meal." Formerly a resident of Pilot, Man., Prof. Brown says his 3 cent meal consists of wheat soup, wheat and meat loaf, tomato sauce, wheat cutlets, cold slaw cabbage, muffins, whole wheat bread, roast apple, and even wheat coffee.

CRIME DECLINES IN FINLAND WITH END OF DRY LAW

Intoxication Also Drops; Profits Cut Taxes.

Drunkenness is on the decline in Finland as the result of the abolition of prohibition. This was the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. G. E. Neovius, who returned to Chicago last week from a five months' visit to his native country.

"The improvement is tremendous," explained Dr. Neovius. "This is especially true in the capital city of Helsingfors, where I spent most of my time. Drunkenness is uncommon. People are generally more temperate. The decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness proves my contention. Cases of alcoholic poisoning are also fewer.

Create Alcohol Monopoly.

The Finnish prohibition law, enacted Jan. 1, 1922, was replaced last Feb. 9 by a law regulating the sale of alcoholic beverages by the establishment of the Alcohol Monopoly company, organized on the principle of limited liability. The law conferred on this company "a monopoly not only of the production and importation of alcoholic beverages but also of all trade in alcoholic beverages, both wholesale and retail."

Under the prohibition régime lawbreaking became sport in Finland. During 1929 one out of every ten persons in the city of Helsingfors was sentenced for violations of the dry law. The Finns patronized the Esthonian distilleries, only a few miles across the Finnish gulf, as never before, smuggling barrel after barrel of liquor into their own country.

This situation has been considerably relieved by the new liquor traffic regulation, Dr. Neovius pointed out.

Bars Sale on Certain Days.

"The greatest difficulty today is encountered in that section of the law which prohibits the sale of alcoholic beverages on certain days," said Dr. Neovius. "Liquor may not be sold to be consumed away from the shops of the Alcohol Monopoly company on the days immediately preceding or immediately succeeding Sundays and public holidays. It is my understanding, however, that the president has recommended modification of this law to include only Sundays as closed days."

Profits Aid Government.

Dr. Neovius also said the abolition of prohibition is responsible for an economic reassurance throughout the country. The maximum annual dividend which the Monopoly company is permitted to pay its shareholders is seven per cent. Certain specific sums having been paid into the reserve funds, the remainder of the surplus falls to the state which is to spend it for the promotion of national temperance, combating illicit alcohol traffic, old age pensions, and current expenditures.

Taxation on alcoholic beverages has been held at a low level, according to government officials, for the express purpose of establishing an effective competition with the illicit trade.

OFFERS BILL IN HOUSE TO CREATE ILLINOIS HOUSING COMMISSION

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Senator James L. Barbour [Rep., Chicago] introduced a bill in the legislature today creating the Illinois housing commission, a body which, under a new federal law, would be eligible to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for tenement rehabilitation.

The bill was the outgrowth of a conference in the City club in Chicago yesterday, where 20 civic organizations agreed upon its form.

New York and several other states have already taken advantage of this section of the law and obtained funds with which to modernize antiquated dwellings of the poor. New York has borrowed several millions for this purpose.

Illinois, however, could not take immediate advantage of the law if the Barbour bill is passed, for it does not carry an emergency clause and would thus not be in effect until July.

Senator Barbour explained tonight that he thought it doubtful if 103 votes—a two-thirds majority in the house—and 34 in the senate could be obtained for it.

The senator also introduced a bill calling upon the Cook county bureau of public welfare to turn over to the immigration authorities the names of all aliens on its charity relief rolls. Mr. Barbour seeks, he said, to cut the burden of relief work by removing those who are not citizens.

of bonds to be paid for by an increase in real estate taxes," replied Schnackenberg. "We are trying to collect $150,000,000 in taxes in Chicago now.

"Do we want to raise the tax bills again? It is not only necessary to feed the poor; we must also collect taxes."

"I'm a taxpayer myself," said Igoe, "and I can see a lot of hungry people behind the taxes. I choose to feed the people and I'm willing to have my tax bill increased in order to do it."

Arthur Roe, [Dem., Vandalia] and Le Roy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] both favored the bill in behalf of the downstate members.

"I have no apologies for being against this bill," Schnackenberg retorted. "It came from French Lick [where Mayor Cermak, Governor Elect Horner and other Democratic leaders are now conferring] and it came with the edict that it pass without too many questions being asked."

This brought on fresh debate and when it had cleared Igoe expressed the regret that "politics had been brought into this situation."

When the measure was put to a vote it was sent to second reading without committee reference by a vote of 95 to 12. It will be called on second reading tomorrow morning.

HORNER DECIDES ON A NEW STATE UTILITIES BOARD

Plans to Cut Rates to Fair Minimum.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

French Lick Springs, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Complete reorganization of the Illinois commerce commission with a larger representation for the interests of the public than has marked that body since it was originally created as the utilities commission two decades ago was agreed upon here today by Governor Elect Henry Horner and his advisers.

The conference of Illinois Democrats determined several days ago that this commission was one of several be reduced in size and now secret talks have been started concerning the selection of a chairman and four commissioners whose aim will be to reduce utility charges to a minimum which will leave investors a fair return on their money.

This conclusion was predicated largely on the theory that reduction in utility rates would be as widespread as a reduction in taxes, constituting just as important a phase of the relief called for by present conditions.

Seek Prospective Members.

With this in mind the conferees have begun a quiet search among themselves up to this point for names of men familiar with rate making problems but not identified, now or in the past, with utility interests and who would be willing to devote their entire time to this work for the next four years.

The only name proposed in the first talk on the subject was that of Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago who is considered an unprejudiced expert in this and similar matters. But doubt is expressed that he would relinquish his university work entirely for the task; and there is an almost forgotten statutory provision prohibiting all members of the commission from engaging in outside occupations.

Will Cut Personnel.

It is believed that the conferees also will outline some changes in the powers and duties of the commissioners before they leave this subject. One definite change that probably will be proposed is the abolition of the assistance commissionership and some of their duties such as traveling to distance points to ascertain whether a railroad grade crossing should be guarded by a gate or by an automatic signal.

Judge Horner appeared somewhat offended today when, after reading the same text in newspapers, he received a telegram signd by the United Consumers and Investors association announcing a visit on the subject of utility regulation. His secretary, Arthur O'Brien was instructed to send word to the signers that if they put their complaints and proposals into writing there will be no need of sending a delegation to see him.

May Seek Warmer Surroundings.

This and similar delegations contemplating trips thither may be disappointed if they arrive tomorrow or later as it was learned that Judge Horner, Mayor Cermak, and others do not like the threats of a cold wave and are planning to return to Chicago or go further south.

Having been convinced reluctantly that there is to be no plum pudding carved here, fifty or sixty of the party workers left here last night and today carrying with them for later presentation their pleas for appointments for themselves or their friends. A few have been submitted by a squeezing process here and there, but there has been no decision concerning any of them. Judge Horner and the other state and county officials elect are unanimous in this statement.

Will Push Immunity Repeal.

With the crowd of petitioners lessening, Judge Horner has begun to outline some of the subjects he intends to give first importance in his inaugural address. By agreement with all the other men elected to constitutional offices, those of treasurer, auditor, secretary of state, attorney general, and lieutenant governor, he will stress particularly his request for immediate repeal of the Small immunity act.

This is the amendment to the quo warranto act put through a controlled assembly by Small to protect himself from ouster proceedings.

GANDHI DISCIPLE DENOUNCES NEW PARLEY IN INDIA

Vithalbai J. Patel, once lord mayor of Bombay and former secretary of the Indian national congress, yesterday told the Chicago council of foreign relations that the third Indian round table conference in London is not representative of the people of his country. Mr. Patel spoke at a luncheon in the Palmer house.

He asserted that the Indian nationalists had reached the conclusion 14 years ago that nothing could be accomplished by meetings and conferences.

"We were ready to turn to force," he said, "when Gandhi came on the scene and preached not war, but passive disobedience. He had a weapon far stronger than British arms. We are now trying to demonstrate the efficacy of non-violence."

SEEK GRAND JURY INQUIRY ON WEST PARKS' FINANCES

Citizens' Group to Plan Action.

park system listed in the auditor's report were the following items:

Accounts payable and other current liabilities	$ 3,548,332
Outstanding tax warrants	3,730,775
Reserves	1,830,710
Liabilities of special assessment fund	988,894
Loans from other funds	1,389,048
Bonds outstanding	12,450,000

The audit claims a surplus of assets over liabilities totaling $4,234,258. The excess of expenses over income for the twelve months ended Feb. 29, 1932, is given as $1,622,433. For the year ended Feb. 28, 1931, the total income was shown to be $1,807,144, while expenses and interest charges were given as $3,429,577.

For the full calendar years, the excess of expense over income was given as follows: 1928, $1,135,607; 1929, $1,002,316; 1930, $868,053; 1931, $1,236,840, all of these figures assuming that 100 per cent of net tax levy would be collected.

Warning on Pay Rolls.

The auditor showed the pay rolls, by calendar years, as follows: 1928, $2,304,16/; 1929, $2,463,873; 1930, $2,500,715; 1931, $2,867,800. The ever mounting pay roll caused the auditor to give President James this warning:

"The total income for the year beginning March 1, 1932, is estimated at not to exceed $1,900,000. Based on other years, the expenses other than pay rolls will be $450,000, leaving $1,450,000 for pay rolls. The pay roll for the first three months of this year is appro. imately $600,000, leaving only $850,000 for the nine months remaining. It is apparent that the present monthly pay roll of $220,000 must be reduced to $95,000, a decrease of 57 per cent."

Before the auditor's warning had been given, however, the west park pay rolls had become an issue in the primary campaign. It was charged that 1,000 employés who did no work were on the pay rolls, mostly as lagoon watchers or bathing attendants to the goldfish. It was charged that the officials wasted $25,000 a year on automobile maintenance, that furniture and furnishings for the 37th ward Republican club were charged to the park board, and that four Republican ward committeemen had been given parasitical jobs at $400 a month or more.

At the same time bonds were being defaulted when they came due.

DIVORCE ENDS PARTNERSHIP IN LAW AND LOVE

The legal and marital partnership of Wellman and Wellman was dissolved yesterday when Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan granted Attorney Walter C. Wellman a divorce from Attorney Helen C. Wellman, 115 Forest avenue, Riverside.

Wellman charged cruelty. He testified that on April 9, while attending a political dance at the North Riverside village hall, he entered an objection to his wife dancing with another man on the grounds that it was time they were starting home and that she overruled his objection with a slap in the face.

His attorney was Richard H. Mangold, who was the best man at their wedding on June 26, 1931. Another lawyer, Albert Summers, justice of the peace at Hollywood, corroborated Wellman's charge of cruelty.

The Wellmans maintained a law office together, he specializing in divorce cases and she in commercial accounts. Judge Finnegan was told Mrs. Wellman has now opened an office of her own in Riverside.

FATHER SHOOTS BABY TO DEATH AND KILLS SELF

Henry Nelson, 28 years old, shot and killed his 2 year old son, Daniel, last night and then killed himself. The tragedy took place in the Nelson home on Druce's lake road, one and a half miles east of Grayslake, in the western part of Lake county. Nelson was a farm hand and was despondent over lack of steady employment.

A few minutes before the shooting Nelson's wife, Florence, met him outside the house. He was carrying a new small caliber rifle. He told her he was going to the woods to hunt, but she persuaded him to return. Inside the house he threw what apparently was a farewell note into the stove.

About that time Charles Olsen, a relative, drove up to the house with some groceries. Nelson sent his wife outside to get them. While she was outside Nelson stepped into the bedroom where the boy was sleeping. He fired two bullets into the child's head and then fired one into his own temple.

BRITAIN SITS ON KEG OF POWDER IN SOUTH AFRICA

Faces Second Boer War in Dominion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DURBAN, South Africa, Nov. 15.—Great Britain is sitting on a powder keg in the Union of South Africa. Only a spark is needed to plunge this British dominion into a second Boer war.

South Africa is seething with revolutionary discontent got only among the English against the Dutch, as the former would have the world believe, but also with the Dutch against British imperialism. The first centers in Natal, the second in the backveld.

Despite the overwhelming odds against them, many Natalians are agitating for secession, which would mean a civil war.

Demand Immediate Separation.

Despite the immense resources of the British empire, which once conquered them on the field of battle and is still represented by a battle fleet in South African waters, many Boers, or Afrikaaners, as they prefer to be called, persist in demanding immediate separation from Great Britain.

South Africa is English speaking and Dutch thinking. The depression has inflamed feelings here. On the surface it appears that a civil war is the only logical conclusion of events.

Dutch nationalists, who control the government, at a convention in Pretoria in the Transvaal passed a resolution declaring that they no longer wish to be known as British subjects. British loyalists at a convention at Pitermaritzburg pronounced this an insult to the British crown and just cause for the dissolution of the union into its component parts.

Loyalists leaders are openly accusing the premier, Gen. James Barry Munnik Hertzog, of plotting to establish a republic of South Africa—that is, secession from the empire. Incidentally, the word "secession" is in common use on all sides.

If South Africa secedes from the empire, Natal has announced that it will secede from the Union of South Africa. Natal is the smallest and richest province in the union and is inhabited almost entirely by English settlers, as the Transvaal and the Orange Free State are inhabited by the Dutch, or Boers.

In Cape Colony, which is racially divided, thousands of Englishmen sympathize with Natal. Many of them have taken up military training "in case of war."

Troubles Beset Britain.

Trouble in South Africa now is peculiarly unwelcome to Great Britain. Legally the mother country no longer enjoys a right of interference in dominion affairs, even though the provocation be civil war. Besides she has enough trouble on her hands in Ireland, India, and the island of Cyprus.

The empire today rests on foundations that are none too solid and imposing. Rumblings from South Africa might shake its Canadian and Australian pillars, it is said by leaders here. Throughout the length and breadth of British Africa, between Egypt and the Cape of Good Hope, South Africa wields considerable economic, financial, and cultural influence.

Meanwhile Dutch nationalists, besides disclaiming British citizenship, are acting to strengthen bilingualism—that is, a gradual displacement of the English language by the Dutch.

Gen. J. C. G. Kemp, minister of agriculture and nationalist leader, has announced that public opinion should be prepared for a "gradual or rapid change" in the form of government. He is an avowed leader of the independence movement. During the world war he was captured in German South West Africa after leading a rebellion against the crown. His superior Gen Hertzog, also made strong utterances at Pretoria of the need of fighting for the preservation of Afrikaanderdom.

British loyalists in Natal retorted by sending a telegram to Hertzog. It said:

"The display of Afrikaander invective at the Nationalist congress and your insulting references to so-called British jingoism are deplored as being unworthy of a minister of the crown. Your policy is fast developing into open advocacy of republicanism and a 100 per cent domination by Afrikaander."

Natal Asks Separation.

To support the message, a delegation of six men was sent to see the premier and ask for the separation of Natal from the Union.

Furthermore, the South African party announced that it will table a motion in party caucus for the "restoration of independence to the former Boer republics [of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State]." Such a move would be tantamount to a dissolution of the Union because it would leave each province free to shift for itself.

The crux of the turmoil is the existence of the Nationalist party. It came into control in 1924 after forming an alliance with Labor and defeating the South African party under Gen. Jan Christian Smuts. It retained control at the 1929 elections.

Hertzog Party Czar.

Gen. Hertzog is the undisputed czar of the Nationalist party and dictates its policies. From the very first he favored the ideals of independence—political, military, judicial and economic. He forced through a series of measures to uphold political independence, among them compulsory bi-lingualism, distinctive stamps and a new flag.

There is also a project on foot to insist that the next governor general be not anybody the king may choose, but a South African citizen, born in South Africa and nominated by the South African cabinet.

Economic independence became a leading issue, only after Great Britain abandoned the gold standard. Against a hurricane of opposition, Gen. Hertzog and his finance minister, N. C. Havenga, held the dominion to gold. Anti-dumping duties were then imposed on British merchandise.

South Africa has gone even further. After Jan. 15, 1933, silver coins of the United Kingdom will not be recognized as legal currency.

In their fight for independence Nationalists depend on the support of the farmers [the aristocracy of the country] and poor backvelders. The opposition South African party draws support from English business men and English industrialists. Its leader, Gen. Smuts, is a personal friend of King George and a personal friend of King George and a personal enemy of Premier Hertzog.

RIOT IN BELFAST; PROTEST VISIT BY PRINCE OF WALES

British Flag Ripped Down; Fear Disorders Today.

PRINCE OF WALES.

A British union jack was torn down on Falls road. Republican posters protesting against the visit of the prince were removed by police. Two women were arrested.

The officials charged with the prince's safety stoutly maintain, however, that with the extensive military and police preparations they have provided nothing alarming can happen tomorrow. But several groups here have announced their opposition to the prince's visit.

In the "loyal" areas of Belfast there was an air of happy expectancy tonight. Flags waved and the citizenry wore its best clothes on the eve of a general holiday.

Police to Guard Bridge.

Precautions for the safety of the heir to the throne hardly could be more elaborate. The heaviest concentration of police will be at the bridge leading into the city from the east side. At this point Newtown road crosses the street the prince will follow. Recently this was the scene of street fights, and probably it will be packed tight with police tomorrow. The rest of the route is through "loyal sections" which today were ablaze with flags.

The prince is due about noon. The first day's program will include the opening of the buildings and a dinner at the residence of the duke of Abercorn, who will be the prince's host here.

There was such a demand for silk hats today that the supply on hand was exhausted and more were ordered rushed from London.

Prince Takes Train Controls.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The prince of Wales took a turn at the controls of an electric train today when he went with the crown prince of Sweden to inspect the control station at Three bridges of the London-Brighton main line electrification scheme.

The two princes rode in the driver's cabin of one of the new trains which after January will regularly cover the 60 miles to the channel city in less than an hour. The train was doing over 70 miles an hour in a speed test on the fastest stretches when the driver handed over the controls to the prince.

Operates Control Switch.

The princes were greatly interested in the workings of the system and spent an hour in the control station. The prince of Wales operated a switch which charged the electric line at Landing.

Wales arranged the visit to exchange one he made at a Swedish station in company with the crown prince when in Stockholm recently.

BRITAIN WARNS AFRICAN KING TO HALT MASSACRES

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Angered at the massacre of 150 Kenya tribesmen by slave raiders from Abyssinia, the British government today sent a stern warning to Emperor Haile Selassie that if he was unable to keep order in his own territories Britain would have to take "appropriate action."

The communication was not made public. It was sent to the British minister at Addis Ababa for verbal transmission to the emperor. It was provoked by the receipt of news of a raid by Boran tribesmen from the wilderness of southern Abyssinia on Galla tribesmen in British territory east of Lake Rudolf in Kenya.

In addition to the massacre by the raiders, whose rifles gave them an overwhelming advantage, a number of women and children were carried off. Villages were burned and cattle driven away while Kenya tribesmen, who were armed with spears, were killed or captured. It is estimated that 1,000 peaceable Kenya tribesmen have been killed by marauders from Abyssinia since the beginning of this year.

ABORT that Cold
(with lemon juice)
Sometimes you get colds that just hang on for days. That is because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from the system. Try cold abortion and you'll find those stubborn colds broken-up and gone within a few hours. To abort a cold, squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's cold compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the cold compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound; it is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

NASAL IRRITATION
Relieve all dryness and irritation by applying Mentholatum night and morning.

GERMANY SPURNS FRENCH SCHEME OF DISARMAMENT

Refuses to Rejoin Parley Until She Gets Equality.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—"The French disarmament plan does not fulfill the promises made for it by Premier Herriot and it is impossible to use it as a basis for new negotiations, because it fails to do justice to Germany's claim for equality."

A spokesman for the Wilhelmstrasse made this statement today in reference to the new disarmament-security plan submitted by France to the Geneva disarmament conference.

"Until this claim is recognized," the German spokesman continued, "Germany will not participate in the disarmament negotiations at Geneva. We still hope it may be possible to revise the French plan by inserting in it recognition of German equality, which would make it possible for Germany to return to Geneva."

"Plan Full of Pitfalls."

"The plan is full of pitfalls for everybody in Europe except France and shows that France continues her efforts to establish a hegemony in Europe," Gen. von Epp, military expert for the National Socialist party, commented.

The government spokesman said that "standardization of European continental armies is the only sound idea in the plan. Germany has no reason to reject either this or the allied proposal for a special league of nations army."

Control of arms factories is also welcomed, he said, but a clearer definition is called for. The proposal that heavy arms for militia be stored under control in the various countries he characterized as "grotesque."

Points to Colonial Armies.

References to colonial armies in the French plan were interpreted as meaning that these would be little affected by the disarmament proposals. It is emphasized here that the greater part of France's 250,000 colonial troops are only a few hours' steamer journey from France.

"France, in contrast to England, still fails to recognize the idea and aim of disarmament," official circles asserted. "One must wait and see what will be said by the American government, which has linked the burning problem of interallied debts with disarmament."

The Berlin press unanimously proclaimed disappointment with the French plan, although the Vossische Zeitung thinks it may serve as a basis for further negotiations. Germania, organ of the Center party, declared that "it is no actual disarmament, merely an extension of security pacts." The Steel Helmet organ Kreuz Zeitung, characterized the plan for a league of nations' army as a French private army.

Skepticism at Geneva.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—American representatives at the disarmament conference today studied hard in an effort to get at the kernel of the involved French plan for world peace and disarmament through security pacts which was presented yesterday.

Although the plan had both friends and enemies today, the general opinion was that the scheme was almost too complex. German spokesmen pointed out that the plan raised many questions likely to prove difficult of settlement, such as proposals for armed forces for the league of nations, regional security pacts, and the reorganization of national armies.

Italian commentators also were skeptical concerning the feasibility of the league as a world policeman. British comment was postponed pending Sir John Simon's presentation of a British plan. The British foreign secretary is expected to speak tomorrow or Thursday.

Britain Frowns on Plan.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Pending the exposition of the British disarmament plan by Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon the British are withholding comment on the French plan submitted to the conference at Geneva yesterday.

It is learned, however, that it is not viewed with great favor, Britain having no use for the superstate idea which is implicit in the French thesis of a league of nations army, navy, and air force to coerce offenders against world peace.

British Plan Modified.

Sir John will concentrate on a reduction of national armaments, particularly air forces. In this connection the original British plan, which called for immediate abolition of all fighting aircraft, has been slightly modified and now calls for abolition of fighting craft by stages on condition that Germany, meantime, does not re-arm in the air.

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents.

LEONID METEOR SHOWER IS SEEN BY NEW YORKERS

New York, Nov. 16 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—Placing their scheduled visit with the regularity of clockwork, the Leonid meteors, which come within the range of man's vision once every 33 years, furnished a brilliant display in the heavens in the early hours of this morning. They also are to be visible between 3 and 5 a. m. tomorrow.

The brilliant stars, so large in appearance that some of the few homeward bound night workers on the streets at the time thought they were only a few hundreds yards away, shivered into a fiery shower as they approached the earth. The show was furnished by celestial particles of iron or rock burning up as they came in contact with the upper atmosphere, but where they came from scientists do not know.

CLOUDS HIDE THEM HERE.

Astronomers and others were cheated for the second time this morning of a view of the celestial display of the Leonids, or shooting stars. Cloudy skies obscured vision as they did yesterday morning. Two more opportunities remain, tomorrow and Friday mornings. The Leonids appear every thirty-three years.

This was announced by the Rev. John R. Heyworth, pastor. Unity church became nationally famous as the pulpit of Dr. Robert Collyer.

FRANCE REDUCES MILITARY BUDGET BY $58,212,000

PARIS, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The government has pared national defense appropriations requested for 1933 to $485,766,400, it was revealed in the budget introduced in the chamber of deputies today. This represents a reduction of $58,212,000 from the 1932 appropriation of $543,978,400.

The anticipated reductions are $33,359,200 for the army, $14,700,000 for the navy, $9,878,400 for air forces and $274,400 for colonial forces.

In the 1933 budget receipts are estimated at $1,873,838,400 and expenditures at $1,872,976,000. The present deficit is estimated at $313,600,000. In an effort to balance this, among other things, civil service salaries are to be cut from 2 to 10 per cent with exemptions under 12,000 francs [$470] a year.

Old Fireman Lost; Found Wandering Near Fire Hall

James Murnane, 77 years old, a retired city fireman, left his home at 4943 Congress street late Monday and when he failed to return his relatives asked the police to search for him. Late last night Murnane was found near the fire house of Engine company No. 6, for which he was a driver in the days before motors supplanted horses in the department. He was suffering from amnesia and exposure and was taken to the Garfield Park hospital.

GUARD WRIGHT, ARCHITECT, AFTER KIDNAP THREAT

Letter Demands He Pay Sum of $5,282.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally famous architect, is to return to Madison from New York Thursday under an armed guard to protect him against authors of an extortion letter threatening the artist with kidnaping unless he pays $5,282.

William H. McCormick, chief of Madison police, revealed today that his men have been attempting since Nov. 7 to trace the authors of the letter received by Wright while he was at home in Taliesin, near Spring Green.

Wright now is in New York and is expected to return to his home Thursday, a day before he is scheduled to bring testimony in Superior court in support of his charges that a former employé, C. R. Sechrest, fractured his [Wright's] nose in a street fist fight.

The extortion note demands that Wright pay Mrs. Sechrest an alleged overdue bill of $282 for her services in the Wright household. In addition it urges the architect to leave $5,000 at a specified place, the alternative being that he will be "kidnapt" and have his fingers cut off. The note declares there are nine authors.

The letter attacked Wright's character in abusive language and was enclosed in an envelope postmarked Madison.

Killing of McKenna in Gang Ambush Unsolved

VOTE TO CENSURE DE VALERA LOSES IN IRISH DAIL

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Dail eireann refused tonight to adopt a vote of censure against the government by a vote of 75 to 70. The motion was made by former President William T. Cosgrave, and it was based on President de Valera's policy of withholding Irish land annuities from the British government.

The Labor members of the dail voted with De Valera's Republican supporters.

Since the refusal of the Dublin government to pay the annuities a tariff war with Britain has resulted.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MORE ABOUT THE RIGHT TO ALMS.

THE TRIBUNE'S recent editorial, "The Right to Alms," irritated the tender minded, as was to have been expected. The editorial started from the premise that it is the duty of every able bodied adult to support himself. This doctrine has been characterized by a number of readers as brutal. They say it is society's duty to support the individual in times of adversity.

Society is everybody, but obviously those who talk of society's duty do not mean that the duty must be shared by everybody, including the destitute themselves as well as infants, the aged, and the infirm. What is really meant is that it is the duty of the government forcibly to take the means of those who still are able to support themselves and apply the proceeds to the support of the idle.

The consequences of this policy, if carried out, will be many, but two of them may be singled out as particularly important. In the first place, idleness will be encouraged. That effect has been observable wherever the idle have come to regard the dole as theirs by right. At the same time self-help will be discouraged. Those who pretend that in times like these talk of self-help is a mockery are respectfully referred to recent bureau of census calculations regarding the numbers who have left the cities to take up life on the farms. The mass migration of those who were determined to support themselves, it might be added, was accompanied by no blowing of the trumpets, no impassioned political speeches, no subsidies and little, if any, organized direction.

The other effect referred to is the destruction of the aggregations of capital in this country. Those who examine economic problems in terms of their own envy will hail this result with satisfaction; any one who knows where jobs come from will not share the enthusiasm. The confiscation of the financial resources of corporations and individuals might yield a few loaves of bread and a few pounds of meat to the idle, but it may well mean, in addition, permanent unemployment to countless others. The man who is working today for a corporation with a comfortable cushion of solvency will not change places, even at higher wages with a man working for an employer on the brink of bankruptcy. Unless it is supposed that the minority who are out of work are worthier than the majority who are employed it is difficult to justify an arrangement which will jeopardize the jobs of those who are working for the momentary benefit of those who have lost their positions.

Moreover, the safely solvent employers are precisely those who must be relied upon to expand their pay rolls as the upswing starts. Depriving them of their resources is a certain way to delay, if not actually to prevent, any betterment. Both present security and future expansion depend precisely upon the accumulations from the past. Destroy them and the end-product is a nation attempting and, of course, failing to live off the earnings of an ever diminishing number of earners.

The doctrine of society's responsibility for the individual is the basic principle of communism. Communists can affirm it because to them the individual and his liberties are nothing. To the communist the sole right of the individual is to obey the commands of his master, the state. Under these circumstances he cannot and, indeed, he must not fend for himself. His position is that of the slave who is not expected to feed and clothe himself and provide himself with shelter.

You cannot have your cake and eat it. A man cannot have the liberty of choosing his occupation and quitting his job, if he finds a better one, without assuming responsibility for his own welfare. He cannot expect the state to support him in adversity if he does not surrender to the state the right to command his labor and reward it in the measure that the politicians in control deem right.

AMERICA'S POLITICAL PRISONERS.

States which repealed their dry laws in the election are now confronted with the fact that their penitentiaries contain numerous prisoners who are there because of offenses no longer crimes against the state. Prohibition made some brutal laws and employed brutal enforcement methods. There can be no doubt that the popular revulsion against this code has been the natural revulsion of a fair minded people against procedure offensive to all their natural instincts. Prohibition with its excessive punishment, its manslaughter, house searches and violations of old constitutional and legal rights, trial without jury, confiscation of property, double jeopardy, and a multitude of other excesses against the security of the individual, could not continue to have the moral support of such a people as the people of the United States. [illegible] few were able to dominate unscrupulous or timid politicians for a while, but it was not to be expected that such conditions would prevail forever.

W. A. Comstock, governor elect of Michigan, promised while campaigning to release state prisoners whose offense was violation of prohibition laws. This is expected to give freedom, among other releases, to Fred Palm, notable exhibit of Michigan's most savage law. As will be remembered, his sentence originally was for life, and that penalty was imposed on him because a bottle of gin was found in his home during a search conducted in his absence. Palm later got the benefit of a modification of the outrageous law, but if he doesn't find relief in executive clemency he'll have to serve seven and a half years, and that will keep him in the Jackson penitentiary until 1935.

Mr. Comstock, as governor, when he takes office can release Palm from prison, but it will not be so easy to erase this blot from the Michigan state record. It is probably true that very few of the people of Michigan, who are fair minded, good natured American folk, ever subscribed an indorsement to the punishment given Palm and several other notable victims of bigotry in the state. All were imposed upon by a savage minded coterie which obtained a strange and short lived ascendancy in the politics of Michigan.

The Comstock policy is one which could be considered by the federal government and by other states. Volstead made some criminals whose records deserve no clemency, but thousands of others are being punished for violations of a law which has been repudiated throughout most of the country in recent elections. The people have rejected the doctrines upon which these sentences were based. It will be remembered that Thomas Jefferson acted summarily in the case of another arbitrary, autocratic and unjust law, the sedition act. When he came into office he ordered United States attorneys to release all prisoners convicted of sedition under this tyrannical Federalist law. In view of the sentiment now dominant in the United States, many penitentiary inmates whose crime was nothing more than petty traffic in prohibited beverages are to be regarded as political prisoners. The political views which put them in prison have been disavowed.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

III. What It Will Cost.

The official estimates of the cost of the St. Lawrence seaway and the first power installations approximate half a billion dollars. The costs are to be equally divided, but Canada is to receive credit for the Welland canal and certain other improvements above the river, and the United States is to receive credit for the works at the Sault and lesser constructions. The precise amount of new money which the engineers believe the United States government, together with New York, will have to provide is still in doubt because no agreement has been reached with New York for the power rights, but the figure generally accepted is $258,000,000.

The engineers made that estimate on the basis of 1926 prices. Since then all prices have declined, and if the estimate then was correct it may be assumed that the cost now will be somewhat less.

A study of waterway construction suggests, however, that the original estimate is generally, if not always, considerably under the actual cost. Possibly it was with that thought in mind that the engineers added 20 per cent for "contingencies." If so, the percentage is far too small. A hundred per cent would come a good deal closer to the probabilities. The probability that the estimates are far too low is emphasized by the fact that the army engineers have had much experience in damming streams for navigation and irrigation, but have had no experience on a project of the size of the St. Lawrence development and very limited experience in building for any water power development. Their work, then, is subject to a good deal of checking.

No argument is needed to stress the importance of the costs of the project in determining whether the treaty should be ratified. The senate committee which is now conducting hearings on the question should spare no pains in obtaining the opinions of impartial experts as to the correctness of the estimates of the government's engineers.

In this connection the costs of deepening the channels and the harbors must also be taken into account. One school of critics has insisted that the harbor costs are not properly chargeable to the waterway. The theory is that port dues will pay for dredging and docks. That may be true of the docks, but it is not true of harbor improvements. Those are always a charge upon the American taxpayer, and it may be taken for granted that political influence will be used to deepen every fisherman's haven on the lakes to admit 25 foot ocean vessels.

Editorial of the Day

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

[New York Times.]

When President Washington in 1789 issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation (which has been incorporated in President Hoover's proclamation of 1932) the action was criticized "as infringing upon the prerogatives of the governors of the states." The public, however, according to a historian of this period, followed with approval the bringing of the people of all the states to recognize a common cause for thanksgiving, and the day has been continuously observed since then. Washington notes in his diary that on the day appointed, the 26th of November, 1789, he went to St. Paul's church in this city "though it was most inclement and stormy." He himself was not content with the ceremonial observance, but, as was published in the newspaper of the next day, he sent a gift to "prisoners confined for debt," who most respectfully returned their grateful thanks to the President of the United States for his very acceptable donation.

In his first official act on taking the oath of office in Federal hall as President a few months before he made fervent supplication to the "Almighty Being who rules over the universe" and proclaimed that "no people can be bound to acknowledge and adore the invisible Hand which conducts the affairs of men more than those of the United States." While in his Thanksgiving proclamation special thanks were urged for favors to this new nation, its burden was one of petition for the pardoning of our "national and other transgressions" and for rendering our federal government a blessing to the people. But it was not narrowly national in its scope. There was to be prayer for the protection and guidance of all nations and especially such as have shown kindness unto us"—and for such a degree of temporal prosperity to all mankind "as He alone knows how to give."

"Both Are Agreed That the Meeting Shall Be Wholly Informal and Personal."—Washington Headline.

"Good morning, good morning!"

"Glad to see you, indeed. Welcome to Washington. But remember your own suggestion, Franklin, our meeting is to be wholly informal and personal."

"Yes, indeed. Those were my words and you were very nice, indeed, to agree. Well, then, shall I call you Herb or Hoovie?"

"Until next March."

"Just a minute! While our meeting is to be personal and informal, may I not say that your remark is a trifle too personal?"

"Perhaps so; I withdraw it, Herbie. Let us be personal and informal, as we agreed. But, of course, there are limits."

"Quite so, Frankie."

"Please cut out the Frankie! It sounds so childish."

"All right, Frank. But now to the nation's business. Informally, y' understand, but business. The British and French have presented a plea for a revision of their war debts."

"Well, very informally, that sounds like those guys were trying to duck out of paying."

"Informally, yes. The way they phrase it formally is a 'temporary modification of the debt terms.'"

"Or, as we would say informally, they're leaving us to hold the bag."

"That's the thing we must consider. But we cannot assume this great burden with so many of our own people unemployed."

"Is that so? Why, I thought you said in your campaign speech that the number had been exaggerated and that, anyhow, they were going back to work by the thousands every day."

"I beg your pardon! I consider that remark entirely too personal."

"Well, didn't we say this talk was to be informal and personal?"

"Yes, but the thing can be overdone. Perhaps we'd better drop the debt question for a moment until we're in a better frame of mind. Let's talk about the weather, trees, flowers, grass—anything."

"That suits me. But, speaking of grass, I didn't see any growing in the middle of New Hampshire avenue or Pennsylvania avenue as I drove over here from the station."

"That's enough. I think an informal and personal conference can be entirely too informal and too personal. Good-by!"

"Say not good-by, but on March 4 bid me good-morning."

"THE MOLECULAR THEORY of Matter" is the name of one movie film produced by the University of Chicago and "Oxidation and Reduction" is another. While President Hutchins wants it distinctly understood that these two movie shows are educational and not mere entertainment, everybody expects a movie to have something of a kick in it. When they see "The Molecular Theory of Matter" they're going to be disappointed if Greta Garbo doesn't play the Molecule, while in "Oxidation and Reduction" everybody in this generation who has been brought up on the movies—and everybody has—will look for Marie Dressler to do some sort of reducing stunt that will be simply a scream. And if "The Molecular Theory of Matter" doesn't have a sugar baby crooning the theme song, "She's My Little Molly, Molly, Mollycule," the students are going to rise right up in a body and walk out. They know their movies and they've been trained to expect hot stuff.

"Gang Bind and Torture Family to Get Hidden Money"; "Hit and Run Driver Kills Two"; "Unemployed Man Starving and Homeless Commits Suicide"; "Thousands of Jobless in England Planning New Hunger March on London"; "Bandits Beat Policeman, Seize $1,500"; "Typhoon in Japan Kills Many; Makes Ten Thousand Homeless"; "Germany Declared to Be Facing General Chaos"; "Kidnapers Seize More Children of Wealthy Parents." Well, even if man is able to invent marvelous machinery and annihilate time and space, he seems, after all, still to be facing a lot of problems that he's had before him since the dawn of civilization. And he doesn't seem to be any nearer to solving them than he was two thousand years ago.

BEHIND SCHEDULE.

THE human animal grows physically, mentally, and emotionally according to schedule. In the field of physical growth much work has been done on the schedule and there is a considerable volume of information. The rate of growth in height and weight, the periods of acceleration and of slowing, seasonal variation, the rate of growth of different organs and their variations are subjects on which there is much information.

In the field of mental growth, as measured by ability to learn and progress in school, variations in interest and, therefore, of methods of learning at different ages, are well known. Teachers are experts in this field, and for psychiatrists who classify children into normals and feebleminded, with subdivisions into idiots, imbeciles, and higher grade feebleminded, this knowledge is the basis of classification.

Less is known and less use is made of what is known in the field of emotional development. Most of our virtues evolve out of our vices. Therefore, when social conflicts get into the field of the primitive vice tends to replace virtue. When the two are in conflict vice is apt to conquer.

A baby is selfish and self-centered. Unselfishness is an acquired quality and never is a natural attribute. When things are primitive unselfishness is shed and the human animal again becomes dormantly selfish. A baby knows nothing of the rights of property. That is an acquired point of view. When life becomes primitive the rights of property tend to vanish. The notion that "society owes me a living" is a return to the infantile. Thrift and a score of virtues tie in here.

The infant is amoral. Motions of morality are acquired. These educational or cultural acquirements follow each other in normal people according to schedule. There is a particular time for the beginnings of unselfishness, the first faint recognition of the rights of property, the ability to stand restraint without rage.

The program of "collecting" proceeds according to schedule, the first kind coming at one age, changing to a different one at another, and ending at a third age.

There is an infantile type of emotional reaction, a child type, pubertal type, and an adolescent type. Children are apt to get into trouble when one type carries on from the life period in which it was normal into one in which it is abnormal. Arrest of emotional development is liable to occur at any level, just as we have feebleminded folks whose mental growth has stopped at three, seven, ten, fourteen, or some other year.

A person forty years of chronologic age, but with an adolescent emotional age, may be a misfit or even a criminal because he acts at age 40 just as it is normal for a person to do at age fifteen to seventeen. It is not easy for this person to understand whence comes the harm from doing what he does from natural impulse what he was applauded for doing at a younger age.

WOMAN TOBACCO CHEWER.

Mrs. E. R. writes: I have the habit of chewing tobacco, or it has me, and I cannot escape. Can you help me? I am a married woman and I am afraid my friends would forsake me if they knew of my habit.

REPLY.

You should have no great difficulty. No other drug habit is so easily broken. While tobacco is, physiologically, one of the strongest drugs used by man, it is one which quickly loses most of its effects on man. What is more to the point, it does not cause drug hunger in the sense the term is used with morphine. Furthermore, not much of the drug is absorbed by the membranes of the mouth. In this, chewing tobacco and dipping snuff are the two more harmless methods of using tobacco.

Much of the yearn to chew is reflex from the mouth, and is satisfied by chewing gum. If one feels that he must have some tobacco effect one can switch to smoking.

All of which means that the habit does not grip one hard in the first place and, in breaking it, there are several helpful measures.

Treatment: Suck a sulfocarbolate of zinc tablet several times daily. This supplies a brassy taste which takes away the tobacco flavor. Some prefer chewing gentian root. Others use quinine internally for that bitter taste. Chew gum as freely as you wish.

If you feel you must have tobacco, smoke.

FOLLOW GOOD ADVICE.

Mrs. J. H. B. writes: I have been suffering from nervousness and a very bad heart. The heart beat is 130 a minute. The doctors advise an operation for goiter. My neck is small.

REPLY.

Why get advice if you do not follow it? However small your goiter may be it is poisoning you enough to seriously impair your comfort and well being.

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Manlius, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had a judgment note against a party. This note was put in judgment June 15, 1932. Since then the party that owed me for this judgment note gave a mortgage to a bank on his crops and personal property. I supposed that I had a preferred claim on said property. Am I right or wrong?

M. F. S.

You are wrong. A judgment note is not in itself a lien upon assets. In order to secure a lien the creditor must cause a judgment to be entered upon the note and follow it up with a levy.

INCONTESTABLE CLAUSE.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The ordinary life insurance policy contains a clause similar to this: This policy shall be incontestable after it has been in force for a period of one year after its date of issue. Does this mean that if the policy becomes a claim by death after a period of one year that the company is obliged to pay it disregardless of the manner of death or what was stated in the application even if the statements were not true?

H. H. H.

In general, yes. Ordinarily there are some exceptions to the incontestable clause, but these would be expressly noted in the policy.

NOVEMBER 16, 1916.

CHICAGO. — Suspecting "gigantic frauds," Judge Thomas F. Scully annulled for all present purposes the recent election, so far as Cook county is concerned. Judge Scully's decision means that none of the successful Republican candidates for county office in the election of Nov. 7 will be seated until investigations of fraud are cleared up and the canvass of votes completed. Following a stormy conference of the election commissioners Judge Scully announced there will be no proclamations of election issued in time for the successful candidates to take office on Dec. 4, when the terms of the Democratic incumbents expire. "There has been a mass of fraud uncovered in the election," said Judge Scully. "Until the state's attorney and the government have finished with their investigations the proclamations will all be held up. The majority of the irregularities were in the 2d, 3d, 6th, 7th, 9th, 23d, 25th, and 27th wards."

LONDON.—The Germans delivered two smashing blows at the positions won by the French in their recent drives, both north and south of the Somme. The German infantry were sent forward in two great waves. One beat against the defenses in the region of Ablaincourt and Pressoire. These attacks were delivered after three days of incessant bombardment and lasted the entire morning and afternoon. The attackers captured a few houses in the eastern part of Pressoire. The Germans made extensive use of flaming liquids and tear producing shells, but assault after assault was beaten back by the deadly accurate fire of the French guns; and when the attackers penetrated as far as the French trenches they were met with the bayonet. The French official statement describes the losses of the Germans in these assaults as terrific. The other attack was aimed at the French positions on the seven mile front from the region of Les Boeufs to the south of Bouchavesnes. At the price of heavy casualties the Germans succeeded in winning a foothold in the advanced French trenches on the northern and western outskirts of St. Pierre Vaast wood. Everywhere else the attacking forces were hurled back with greatly reduced numbers.

LONDON.—In Dobrudja, Bucharest reports, the Rumanian forces have occupied the town of Boasec. Hostile airmen dropped bombs over the palace in Bucharest. The queen and the princesses, however, were not in the structure, having left after the death of Prince Mircea. Petrograd admits the Rumanians have retreated before the reinforced enemy in the Targu Jiuly, Alt, and Jiul valleys in Transylvania, but Bucharest says that from the border of western Moldavia to the Slanic and Oituz valleys the Austro-German forces are being pursued beyond the frontier by the Rumanian troops.

ROME.—Italian troops were compelled to evacuate some of their more exposed positions on the San Marco, east of Goritz, after repulsing five Austro-Hungarian attacks on an Italian salient at Two Pines house.

PETROGRAD.—Russian troops on the Narayuvka river in Galicia assumed the offensive and forced the Austro-German troops from the positions which they had occupied.

BERLIN.—Serious Russian attacks were made on the front southeast of Lemberg along the Narayuvka river. The war office announces that all the Russian assaults were repulsed.

CHICAGO.—The pastor longest in continuous service of one church in Chicago, whose character and services have elicited universal commendation not excepting those who differed with him theologically, was the Rt. Bishop Cheney was 80 years of age Feb. 12.

REASON AND PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—While your editorial "Reason and Propaganda" applies to the resent political campaign in connection with the national election, it applies with much greater force, in every particular, to the campaign which you have been carrying on for years against prohibition, and is so pat in that connection that I have to tell you about it, although I do not understand how you can fail to see that yourselves.

Since, according to the wets, there has been as much liquor used during prohibition as before, why all this talk about putting in pipe lines to flood the country with beer, and going to so much expense on breweries, etc.? You surely should be proud of what you have done for your country, for the result will certainly be the cause of much sorrow all over the land, except to the comparatively few who profit by it.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I notice in this morning's CHICAGO TRIBUNE that Henry Murphy suggested that the Hon. Alfred E. Smith be made ambassador to the Court of St. James's. Permit me to suggest that the new President combine the four portfolios—namely, secretary of the interior, secretary of agriculture, secretary of commerce, and secretary of labor—and put Alfred E. Smith at the head of them all. This would save taxes and make the President's cabinet more compact and, of course, more workable.

An unruly crowd of 2,000 investors who lost money in the securities of the Trustees System Service company and its affiliate, the Trustees System Discount corporation of Chicago, jammed the corridors of the federal building yesterday afternoon in a vain effort to gain admittance to the courtroom where Judge James H. Wilkerson heard evidence on a motion to make the equity receivership of the two concerns permanent.

The crowd displayed bad temper when United States Marshal Laubenheimer and his deputies tried to enforce the instructions of Judge Wilkerson to allow only attorneys and others directly interested in the case to enter the courtroom.

Woman Strikes Deputy.

A woman investor struck Deputy Marshal Eric Glasser in the face when he refused to allow her to pass the temporary barricade of tables which had been hurriedly set up to hold the crowd back.

The scuffle started when Glasser admitted an attorney in the case through the barricade. The woman, whose identity was not learned, had been waiting for some time to get in the courtroom and apparently thought that favoritism was being shown by the marshal. She was finally pacified when Charles M. Bates, clerk of the United States District court, explained that it was impossible to allow any but those directly involved to enter.

The hearing was originally scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. yesterday. The case was adjourned until 2 p. m., however, because there were several hundred persons waiting to attend the hearing. Instead of dispersing because of the continuance, however, the crowd grew, and by 2 o'clock the corridors were jammed by 2,000 persons.

Deputies Guard Judge.

Judge Wilkerson was ushered through the crowd shortly before 2 o'clock by two deputy marshals. One deputy preceded the judge and another followed him through the aisle which had been cleared.

There were more than twenty attorneys in the courtroom when the hearing finally opened. They represented various groups of investors and creditors who are seeking to intervene in the proceedings.

Clyde L. Day, temporary receiver for Trustees System Service, and John J. Krause, receiver for the Trustee System Discount, who were appointed last month by Judge Wilkerson, presented preliminary reports. The evidence was taken under advisement by Judge Wilkerson, who continued the case until Friday morning.

Trustees System Service is the holding company for 27 concerns operating in the small loans and real estate financing business in a dozen states in the central west, the east, and the southeast. Trustees System Discount is controlled by the former and has operated in the Chicago area. The Chicago company owns the building at 201 North Wells street where the headquarters of the system is located.

Mr. Day told the court that the parent corporation was a tangle of "intertwined ownership." It was impossible in the short time he has been acting as receiver, he said, to reckon the true value of the company's assets.

The nominal value of the parent firm's assets, he said, is approximately $28,946,159. These assets are represented largely by stock holdings in subsidiaries and notes and accounts receivable from affiliates, he added.

Liquid Assets $5,435,000.

Eliminating the intercompany accounts, the parent firm has total liquid assets of $5,435,000 and current liabilities of $7,045,724, Mr. Day said. The assets consist of $4,839,334 in notes and accounts receivable, $770,680 in Liberty bonds, and $323,703 in cash.

In addition, the company has $7,302,875 in assets due from affiliated concerns which Mr. Day indicated are of doubtful value.

The report of Trustees System Discount submitted by Receiver Krause listed total assets of $8,587,000. Of this total only $95,000 was cash. The company's building in Wells street is carried on the books at $3,500,000, against which there is mortgage bond issue of $1,387,000 outstanding. Liabilities include $2,980,000 in "gold" notes and $3,000,000 in capital stock. Of the stock outstanding $2,000,000 is preferred stock held by the public.

APPROVE PLANS FOR VAN BUREN STREET BRIDGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Plans for a new bridge to replace the present West Van Buren street bridge across the south branch of the Chicago river were approved today by the war department. The existing span was approved by the department in 1893.

Efforts to alter the present bridge to provide necessary clearance for navigation were begun in 1913 when the war department ordered the city to effect the needed changes before April, 1915. Several extensions of the time limit finally brought the date up to December, 1922.

Meanwhile, however, the department had sought to enforce in court an order requiring the Metropolitan West Side Elevated Railroad company to make similar alterations on its bridge across the South Chicago river near the Van Buren street bridge. The court held that the department had no authority to enforce such an order, whereupon the department decided that "action to enforce alteration of the bridge of the city of Chicago at West Van Buren street," as required by the order of 1913, "would be futile."

The new bridge then was proposed. The department said today that clearances provided in the plans for the new structure are "substantially" the same as those ordered in its alteration notice of 1913, and are "considered adequate for both present and prospective navigation."

BRITISH PROFESSOR ASSAILS WIVES WHO WANT TO BE "PETS"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Dr. J. A. Hadfield, London university lecturer on psycho-pathology, condemned petted wives before the British social hygiene council today.

"A petted girl goes on wanting her husband to treat her like her father did and make a pet of her," he said. "She may succeed for two or three years, and then responsibilities arrive which she is not only unwilling but unable to meet. She is jealous of children because she wants to be the only child in the house."

Another controversial case came before the public today when Ronald Pancoast-Bliss, who lost $50,000 in a business failure, was summoned to court to face a suit filed by his wife for maintenance. Pancoast-Bliss said he is penniless and were it not for his mother supporting him he would be forced to the poorhouse.

"Women of today are in a more privileged position than ever before," Pancoast-Bliss' counsel argued. "Privileges which the law has conferred upon them are in grave danger of being abused. It is common knowledge that girls in the poorer districts of London regard the marriage rite as a means of getting a pension for life at the police court."

LONDON, Nov. 15.—On the eve of the third round table conference on Indian affairs, which meets here Thursday, official London was dismayed today at the news that Burma had voted against separation from India. Yesterday it had been reported that the separationists had a plurality of two seats.

Rangoon dispatches today announcing the result of the Burmese general election said the anti-separationists had won thirty-nine seats in the provincial legislature, the separationists twenty-nine and neutrals nine.

This result runs directly counter to all British policy and expectations since the Simon report in 1930, which recommended that Burma, hitherto a province of India, should be separate. The recent London round table conference on Burma worked out a constitution for Burma on the assumption that the voters there would give an overwhelming decision in favor of separation. On the same assumption, neither of the two previous Indian round table conferences made any provision for Burma in its plans.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY HIT AT SENATE QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Officials representing the leading shipping and commercial interests of the cities along the Atlantic seaboard loosed an avalanche of hostile criticism against the projected St. Lawrence seaway development. They appeared at today's hearing before the senate committee investigating that project.

Witnesses for the railroads, port authorities, cities, and world shipping interests united in asserting that the development of the St. Lawrence river for navigation and power would disrupt the national transportation system, peril vital American industries, injure lake shipping, jeopardize the coal and ore business of great lakes, and magnify the unemployment problem.

Among other attacks on the waterway development as proposed in the Hoover-Bennett treaty, now before the senate, were charges that completion of that seaway between the great lakes and the Atlantic, via Montreal, would jeopardize billions of dollars worth of railway bonds held by the public and insurance companies. It was said further the plan would be likely to bring about government ownership of the railroads.

Calls Plan Gold Brick.

John P. Magill, mellow, white haired, a veteran representative of the Maritime association of New York, provoked outbursts of laughter when answering Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.]. Mr. Magill referred to the St. Lawrence project as a "gold brick." He predicted that it would be another force drawing the railroads into government ownership and as such "would be the greatest gold brick we ever bought."

That waterway, he said, "will totally disrupt and disorganize the transportation flow in this country." He gave these reasons:

"The general transportation scheme of the country at present is between the east and west, north and south. The bulk of the exports east of the Rocky mountains moves through the north and south Atlantic ports. The southwestern production and the southern moves through the gulf ports.

Follow Flow of Traffic.

"The railroads and other facilities are all largely directed towards following what has seemed to be a normal flow of traffic in the United States; that is, from the interior to tidewater, and in the reverse direction.

"We believe construction of the waterway will tend to radically dislocate this flow, and that dislocation will bring a readjustment in values, in earning capacity and in service of the various facilities now available in the trade. It will divert from the gulf and south Atlantic as well as from the north Atlantic, a substantial flow of tonnage in both directions.

"The flow from the great manufacturing centers of what is known as the Central Freight association territory, that is the territory west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh, and east of Chicago, is largely through the north and south Atlantic ports, from Portland, Me., down to Jacksonville, Fla.

"With the construction of a waterway such as is contemplated by this treaty, obviously the flow would be toward the nearest available ports for the railroads or water carriers—I mean inland water carriers—which would naturally diminish the earning capacity of these various instruments which are privately owned and would revert seriously to the detriment of the private investors in these enterprises."

Fears Blow to Shipping.

Mr. Magill added that ships now move wheat eastward and coal west and northward on the great lakes, but with construction of the St. Lawrence canal, ocean boats capable of long hauls would take the wheat business away from the lake carriers, causing them to boost their westward coal freight charges, while ocean carriers would flood the lakes with soviet, German and British coal, competing by means of cheaper initial labor costs and freight rates based on the greater capacity of ocean going ships.

Railroads have similar grain and coal movements, he said, and the canal would make the roads lose coal and grain business in favor of the ocean going ships. Canada would be the sole gainer, he said. He added that the northwest might get cheaper coal from Europe than from Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio mines, but at great cost to labor and investment in those fields.

Express Fear of Canal.

During the testimony the charge was placed in the record that the construction of a huge canalized waterway through both American and Canadian territory would involve the United States in a new international relationship with Canada and Great Britain which "might lead to disaster." It was asserted also that with such a large portion of the waterway in Canadian territory it would be impossible for this country adequately to protect its shipping via that route in event of war in which Britain was a participant and this country a neutral.

Up to date, the opposition to the treaty has come mainly from eastern shipping and national transportation interests controlling billions of dollars worth of railroads, ships and port facilities. Tomorrow officials representing shipping interests on the great lakes will appear to oppose the treaty. Later it is understood Chicago interests will appear to fight the treaty which provides for construction of the seaway by the United States and Canada at a cost variously estimated at from 500 millions to in excess of a billion dollars.

Gives Names of Witnesses.

At the close of today's hearing, Chairman William E. Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho] announced that tomorrow's witnesses will be Adam E. Cornelius and A. E. R. Sneider, directors of the Lake Carriers association, an organization which only recently came out flatly against the proposal to connect the great lakes with the Atlantic by a 27 foot channel waterway. Officials representing the port of Buffalo and shipping interests there also are scheduled to appear.

Today's witnesses included G. H. Pouder, executive vice president of the Baltimore Association of Commerce; E. T. Butler, assistant to the president of the American Short Line association; Fred N. Oliver, general counsel of the Security Owners association, composed of owners of railroad securities; Frank S. Davis of the Boston Maritime association, and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railroad Executives.

In addition Chairman Borah placed in the record, after some objection had been registered by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], a copy of a letter from Edward E. Barthell of Barthell & Rundall, Chicago attorneys, with offices at 208 South La Salle street. Mr. Bartell urged the Borah committee reject the treaty. He asserted that it would increase the national tax burden, send more bureaucrats to Washington, benefit Canada much more than the United States and allow Canada to interfere in American domestic affairs to an "intolerable" degree.

More Costly Bureaus.

After calling attention to the fact that engineers of the two countries estimated the cost of the project at 543 million dollars, Mr. Barthell said: "These expenditures will not stop with the enormous sums required for construction. Administration will have to be provided for. More bureaus will be set up, more politicians will be put on the public pay roll. More negotiators with Canada over this and that—more waste from the public treasury—all in perpetuity and all paid for by taxes—more taxes."

In his testimony Mr. Oliver, representing the owners of railway securities, asserted that the St. Lawrence would constitute a "waste of resources of appalling proportions."

Appearing in behalf of Baltimore interests, Mr. Pouder declared that construction of the waterway would be an "improper, unwise, unjustified, and uneconomic expenditure of public funds." He declared its construction would disrupt the railroads of the country and thus jeopardize the holdings of savings banks and insurance companies which control seven billions in railroad bonds.

Fear Blow to Lake Ships.

The burden of the argument advanced by Attorney Thom and Mr. Butler was that opening of the great lakes to ocean shipping would have a disrupting effect on lake shipping, the ore and coal industries, and the railroads, especially the eastern roads. Mr. Butler asserted that with the completion of the canal ten million tons of coal now sold by Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia would be displaced by Canadian coal, which could be brought from eastern Canada into Canadian industrial districts at a cheaper transportation cost.

"The effect of this loss of an outlet for American coal," he said, "would be to deprive the railroads of 200,000 carloads of revenue producing coal, cut the production of the mines, and increase transportation costs."

Republican Is Kansas Winner

CHICAGO LEGION SESSION DATE IS OCTOBER 2 TO 5

Reports Veterans' Bureau More Strict.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The American Legion national convention next year in Chicago will be held Oct. 2 to 5, it was decided by the national executive committee at the closing meeting of its two day session at national headquarters here.

Plans for presence of outstanding guests from foreign countries at the convention were announced by Phil Collins, Chicago, chairman of the convention committee.

An invitation for the legion to hold its national convention in Paris, France, in 1937 was read without official action being taken. The message, addressed to Louis A. Johnson, national commander, was from Marcel Blanchard in Paris. Blanchard is chairman of the French section of Fidac, association of veterans organizations in the allied countries.

Compensation Rules Tighten.

Watson B. Miller, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, asserted that in the last few months there has been a tendency on the part of the United States Veterans administration to make settlement of veterans claims more difficult. Cases supported by the same sort of evidence as in the past are harder to get adjudicated satisfactorily, he said. Compensation claims averaged $64,000 a month for twenty-two months, but for the last five months have averaged only $37,000 a month, he said. Death claims that averaged $33,500 for twenty-two months averaged only $23,000 the last five months.

Members of the committee pledged to continue the fight in behalf of veterans' compensation and hospitalization legislation.

Opposition to hospitalization and compensation legislation, said John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the national legislative committee, has arisen from persons who desire to "shift the cost back to local communities because at present 42,000 big federal income taxpayers are paying four-fifths of it."

Americanization Report.

Hugh T. Williams, Danville, Va., newly appointed chairman of the Americanization commission, presented a report outlining that group's activity, and urging closer contact with schools and other educational institutions in a program of patriotic instruction.

Vincent A. Carroll, Philadelphia, national executive committeeman from Philadelphia, urged that government hospital No. 49 in Philadelphia, "contrary to health regulations and laws of Philadelphia," is placing mentally ill veterans on "parole" and then discharging them with "improper and arbitrary power." The object, he said, is to reduce the number of inmates in the hospital.

More than 3,000 children of veterans were aided in their homes, and some received necessary medical care through ministrations of the Legion national child welfare division during the last year, Mrs. Emma A. Puschner, director, reported.

SEAWAY AND WORLD TRADE PARLEY OPENS IN DETROIT; 700 ATTEND

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—More than 700 delegates were in attendance here today at the opening meeting of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway and international trade conference. Claims of Detroit, Chicago and the midwest industrial area for a sea outlet were compared with international problems. This area, it was claimed by Edward S. Evans, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, forms the only industrial area in the world which is 1,000 miles from the sea.

Mr. Pelouze advocated the construction of compensating works in the St. Clair and Niagara rivers to stabilize lake levels for all time.

O. E. Fleming of Ontario, member of the international joint commission, says the dominion regards the St. Lawrence treaty as a completed transaction so far as Canada is concerned.

Resolutions urging congress to ratify the treaty with Canada for the development of the seaway are expected to be acted upon by the delegates before adjournment.

2 IN SAILBOAT RESCUED FROM STORM ON LAKE

Adrift on storm tossed Lake Michigan in a 28 foot sailboat, two residents of Grand Rapids, Mich., were rescued three miles southeast of the mouth of the Chicago river yesterday morning by coast guardsmen. They are Charles Burbach, 25 years old, and his brother, Donald, 23 years old.

The Burbachs told Capt. John O. Anderson of the coast guard that they had sailed from their home town a week ago for Chicago. They intended to sell their sloop here. All went well until Monday night, when the weather grew stormy.

During the night the blow became so heavy that Donald was washed overboard. His brother seized one of his feet and drew him back on the boat. Shortly before dawn they displayed signals of distress. When the coast guardsmen reached them they said they could get in if given sailing directions. The guardsmen piloted them in. Both men were hungry and cold, but recovered after being warmed and fed.

BOSTON TRADE GROUP ATTACKS WATERWAY COST

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Frederic S. Snyder, president of the chamber of commerce, announced tonight the board of directors had voted to oppose at this time the development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

The project with a cost estimated at $800,000,000, the chamber held, must be justified by the expected return of that sum. They said they felt it apparently will be necessary to add large expenditures to deepen harbors and channels in the lakes.

The chamber held that with foreign countries producing grain in increased quantities and our own population growing and consuming more grain, a decline in exports appears more probable than does an increase.

BEWARE Half-Cured COLDS!

A half-cured cold is not only apt to recur again and again, but it is a constant drain on your vitality and exposes you to more serious trouble.

When you catch cold, be sure to treat it quickly and decisively. Don't depend on mere local or outside applications. Remember, a cold is an internal infection and requires internal treatment.

Don't put your trust, either in a preparation that's good for a dozen things besides colds. Remember, a cold is a specific condition calling for a specific treatment. Many preparations that people commonly take for colds actually make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

Fourfold Action Important

Because it does four things all at one time, the remedy to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine!

First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—an important step in the relief of a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Absolutely Safe to Take!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. It's action is swift and certain, but harmless. Thousands, in every civilized country on the globe, look upon it as their sure relief for colds and grippe.

In the form of dainty tablets, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped, and sold by every drug store in America. To have Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine handy is to be forearmed against colds. Taken immediately at the first sign of a cold, a few of the tablets will usually expel it overnight.

DR. KALISCHER, one of the greatest doctors in Germany, describes a very typical case—

A SEVERE SKIN DISORDER . . . that had defied all previous treatments.

"I was forced," states this great authority, "to assume that a poisoning existed in the patient's digestive system. Yet purgatives . . . gave only temporary relief.

Constipation . . . there's where specialists now look first for the cause of a faulty complexion . . . as of headaches, indigestion and many other common ills.

Cleanse your System with Yeast!

A food, fresh yeast has the power to stimulate and literally strengthen the action of the stomach and bowels. At the same time, it softens the body's accumulated waste, so you can get rid of it easily.

Thus Fleischmann's Yeast acts to clear away the poisons, make eliminations regular. And as your system is gently cleansed and purified, better health, appetite and energy are yours . . . and above all a bright, smooth complexion and a clear, lovely skin!

Each day eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast—plain, or in water (a third of a glass)—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime.

*Just ask for Fleischmann's Yeast—in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It's yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind doctors advise. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. (Remember, it's rich in vitamins B, G and D!)

DR. OTTO KALISCHER, of Berlin, shows X-ray of intestines kept active with fresh yeast. By ridding the system of impurities, yeast acts to clear away ugly pimples, etc.

POISON CREEPS THROUGH BODY, SCIENCE FINDS

BY WALDEMAR KAEMPFFERT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Blood and lymph are not the only liquids that circulate through the body, Dr. G. H. Parker of Harvard university informed the National Academy of Sciences at a meeting given largely over to the biologists, physiologists, geologists, and botanists.

He has discovered that soluble oils, probably lipoids, also pass through the tissues. Thus he explains how some discolorations, as well as some poisons, seem to creep through a finger until they affect a whole arm.

Some fish have the property of changing their color to match their surroundings. Dr. Parker cut the nerves in the tail of the live portion, though slowly. He also injected the juice of a light colored fish into a dark colored one and produced a light spot. The change occurs so slowly that the blood circulating system can play no part in it.

Thinks System Is Primitive.

Dr. Parker therefore assumes that what he calls "neurohumoral substance" passes from cell to cell, the word "humor" being used in its old sense of "state" or "condition." Apparently this neurohumoral substance is discharged by nerve terminals and is conveyed from cell to cell, it was stated.

In Dr. Parker's opinion the neurohumoral system is far older than that of the veins and arteries which carry blood. In low marine animals, such as corals and sea anemones, there is no blood, but there is this neurohumoral transference of liquid.

Theory of Sleep.

Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, colloid chemist of Cornell university, elaborated his now familiar theory of sleep and summarized the results of experiments made with morphine addicts who had been deprived of drugs and with epileptics and lunatics afflicted with dementia precox.

In the centers of consciousness are proteins. When these proteins are agglomerated or thickened by some substance designated as "X," because it is still unknown, we lie awake. When they are thinned we go to sleep. Dr. Wilder finds that sodium rhodonate has the proper thinning effect.

It does not bring about sleep directly, but reduces the irritability of the sensory nerves which keep us awake when they are overexcited. Why do we awaken after sleeping? Because we produce another unknown substance provisionally called "Y" and partly composed of adrenalin.

This substance "Y" irritates the sensory nerves and wakes us up. It is also produced in excessive quantities when, as we sometimes say, "We are too tired to go to sleep." Sodium rhodonate overcomes the action of "Y."

Tells of Deep Sea Life.

On behalf of William Beebe, who was unable to attend the meeting, Dr. C. Kinsley Noble of the American Museum of Natural History read a short account of the scientific results obtained by watching fish at a depth of two thousand two hundred feet off the southern coast of Bermuda. Dr. Beebe sealed himself in a steel globe which he called a "bathysphere" and looked out of quartz windows, occasionally playing a searchlight on the creatures that swam into view.

Although all sunlight disappeared at 1,700 feet, Beebe was able to see and identify many fish by their own lights.

Beebe also had himself dragged in the bathysphere by a tug at depths that varied from fifty to three hundred and fifty feet. After a sudden drop he discovered a long sloping beach of water-worn pebbles and stones and ending in wide stretches of rippled sand. He believes that this is the last low ocean level of the ice age.

FUND FOR FOOD HELPS PUPILS TO FIGHT DISEASE

Winter Increases Need of School Lunches.

From now until spring the Hungry School Children's fund becomes the first line of defense in a bitterly unequal battle of helpless childhood and lurking germs. Yesterday's sharp winds and soggy snow were the season's first real warnings of the dangers of that relentless foe, pneumonia, as well as such lesser maladies as bronchitis, tonsilitis, laryngitis and the like.

Stout shoes and galoshes, warm coats and woolly caps won't avail much against the attacks of these diseases unless the boy or girl has normal health. Sufficient proper nourishment is the only thing that can assure such resistance. So long as there are thousands of Chicago children going to school every morning without breakfast and going home to little or no dinner, the school rooms will be points of attack for germs.

Greatest Need Is for Food.

Where the Hungry School Children's fund serves best is in the classrooms in poorer sections of the city these days. Wraps may be too light, shoes may be broken and torn, and the clothing under the coats entirely insufficient. But the greatest need is for hot, nourishing food.

When shivering youngsters go from their own comfortless homes to the school as though to a refuge, certain that a full, savory meal will be awaiting them at noon, the dollars that go into the fund cannot be misdirected. When wan little faces turn up hopefully to the staff behind the counters in the lunchrooms, and little noses sniff gratefully at the aroma of vegetable soup and beef stew and recently completed puddings, a minor skirmish is being fought and won with some of the lurking forces of disease. It's well worth while.

New Gifts to Fund.

Gifts yesterday to help the children of needy families included two in memory of deceased relatives. One was mailed from a large New York hotel, and others accompanied the cheapest type of stationery, but all were sent in the same spirit of helpfullness, and will aid the youngsters equally. They were:

Brookhart's Condition Much Better; Fever Gone

The condition of Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who is ill of pneumonia at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Pope, 89 North Madison street, Hinsdale, was reported "greatly improved" yesterday. Dr. Carl E. Schultz, the attending physician, said that the senator's temperature had returned to normal during the day. If the improvement continues, Dr. Schultz said, Senator Brookhart will be able to leave at the end of the week for Washington and his last session in congress. He was defeated for renomination in the primaries.

ARREST EMPLOYE OF CLOSED BANK IN $31,759 THEFT

Rudolph Mourek, former assistant cashier of the closed Southwest Trust and Savings bank, Archer avenue and 35th street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzling $31,759 of bank funds. He was taken into custody at his home at 5157 South Francisco avenue shortly after an indictment was returned by the Cook county grand jury.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson said Mourek used the money in stock speculation. A shortage of $8,000 in Mourek's books was discovered in November, 1930, in an audit by the National Surety company, the prosecutor said. At that time Mourek made a satisfactory arrangement with the bank. A later audit disclosed the larger embezzlement, according to Prosecutor Thompson.

The prosecutor said Mourek obtained the money by forging the names of depositors to checks, and covered the shortage by juggling cash and securities from one account to another. Mourek's thefts had nothing to do with the closing of the bank on Oct. 9, 1931, the prosecutor said.

VIRULENT GERMS ALWAYS PRESENT IN COMMON COLD

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Surgeon proves other are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

A PROMINENT medical research laboratory, after two years' experiment, has found that Vapex kills dense concentrations of germs always present during a head-cold. While many other inhalants have slight effect.

This is a good reason to always insist on Vapex when you need an inhalant. At the new reduced price of 75c, you'll find that it doesn't pay to bother with cheaper substitutes. These tests prove that they are seldom "just as good as Vapex."

See how pleasant Vapex is to breathe . . . how easy to use . . . how sure and swift in relieving your distress. Moreover, it's safe to use for children. Sold at all druggists.

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

No other coffee is roasted the same way... Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros' patented process

GROUND RIGHT TO TASTE RIGHT

No coffee, however good, can be uniform in taste unless uniformly roasted and uniformly ground. Hills Bros.' patented, continuous process — Controlled Roasting — and correct granulation insure this uniformity. Hills Bros.' granulation will give best results by the drip process or any other method.

The instant Hills Bros. Coffee touches your lips, you know why it is such a tremendous favorite. For you're tasting the flavor of flavors! No other coffee has such satisfying goodness . . . such delicious, mellow smoothness.

That's because Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, by Hills Bros.' patented Controlled Roasting process. Other coffees are roasted in bulk.

Controlled Roasting is the perfect way to roast! For it offers positive protection against under-roasting and over-roasting. But ordinary, bulk methods don't. Every berry in Hills Bros.' blend is done to the exact degree necessary to develop the finest flavor! And the flavor never varies.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Make some Hills Bros. Coffee. Take a taste of that hearty, rich flavor. By the time you've finished the cup, you'll know a warmth, a contentment, and a satisfaction that no other coffee can give. Order Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

"We Count on the Tribune not only for Thorough Coverage of Chicago and Suburbs but also Beyond These Limits"

NATIONAL BISCUIT, great advertisers that they are, know that advertising and marketing must go hand in hand!

When they put more money into the Chicago Tribune than any other newspaper, they know that they can not cover the great Chicago market in any other way.

It is vitally clear to them that their Chicago advertising must help all of the many thousand outlets for Uneeda products—not only in the city and its suburbs, but throughout the entire domain of Tribune Town.

National Biscuit advertising in 1931 appeared in the Tribune and four other Chicago newspapers. The appropriations for two of these papers in 1931 exceeded that for the Tribune, one by 56%, the other by 45%.

For the first ten months of this year, the appropriation in the Chicago Tribune has exceeded that in the nearest Chicago paper by 46%. The lineage has been increased in the Tribune and reduced in the two papers that led in 1931.

The third newspaper on National Biscuit's Chicago schedule in 1931, the Tribune is now first . . . and has received this year more money from this successful company than any other newspaper in the country.

Why National Biscuit concentrates so strongly in the Chicago Tribune is readily understood when circulation figures are studied. Here are the six months' averages for the period ended March 31, 1932.

Circulation	Tribune	2nd Paper	3rd Paper	4th Paper
All other	174,683	34,251	19,025	89,785
Total Circulation . . .	809,461	501,899	423,942	409,275

In Chicago and suburbs the Chicago Tribune gives you 55% daily coverage—far greater than the coverage of any other Chicago newspaper. And throughout the rich surrounding territory the Tribune is read, quoted and shopped as is no other Chicago newspaper. As Chicago is the hub of this great market, the Tribune is the most influential advertising medium in it . . . supplying a circulation highly effective in building sales and merchandised with definite results by National Biscuit and scores of other advertisers.

Manufacturers like National Biscuit, who are daily in comprehensive touch with the entire Chicago market, know that the Tribune is a dominant factor in any plan to develop sales here.

When you make your sales plan for 1933, simply say the word—by mail or wire—and the authentic data on the entire Chicago situation will be promptly placed in your hands.

Mary Austin Presents Her Own Life Story

First Part of Volume Is Most Interesting.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Earth Horizon," by Mary Austin. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

THE autobiography of Mary Austin has been awaited with almost tingling eagerness by those who consider her one of the great prophets of the American scene. Its final appearance has been hailed by her admirers as one of the great literary events of the year. And it has been chosen by the Literary Guild as the November offering to its subscribers. All of which means that it will have a good start toward the the best seller lists. Whether it will achieve nation-wide popularity remains on the knees of those very fickle gods, the reading public.

MARY AUSTIN.

"Earth Horizon" seems to me to divide itself into two distinct parts, differing in the author's attitude toward and her emotional freedom with her subject. The first part—much the longer of the two—deals with her childhood and her youth against the pattern of the America of her day, and is set down without emotional restraint, with a definite eagerness to make all of the details of the scene against which her own drama was played as interpretive as possible of the period, and in a more generalized way to picture the wider American scene of her day, emotionally and socially.

She succeeds with a rare intensity in giving the pulse, the rhythm of the period, and especially the geographical and emotional roots in which she had her being. The middle west [Carlinville, Ill.], California, especially the rural homesteader life, she portrays with such reality as to make "Earth Horizon" a vastly important contribution to America.

The last part of the book, which deals with her years as a successful writer, is in a wholly different emotional tone. Neither the author nor her time nor her emotional reactions to the rhythm of her day live as vividly as they all live in the record of her youth. The keen penetration, the essential rootedness in her material, the élan of the first part of the book is lost. The book might have been finished when it was three-quarters through. By that time the author has made a whole of it. Circling it up to date merely makes a chronological whole of the book, adds Spencerian curves to a writing pure and vivid and unadorned.

Mind you, I do not mean to say that the actual writing of the narrative is different in the two parts. So far as style and literary method are concerned the book is a unit. But what makes the first part of the book memorable—and important—is the life which is breathed into the style through the author's emotional honesty and emotional enchantment with her material. THAT really interests her passionately, and the same style with which she writes the last part is tinged with that passionate interest.

Latterly that interest has dwindled or has been made self-conscious perhaps by the fact that the things and people which have filled it are still alive and currently in a state of growth, and her judgments can not have the perspective which her judgments on her early life and its background have. Or perhaps the pattern of her life became too complex for the simple, pure setting down which the solitariness of her early days made possible. At any rate, the early heroine of "Earth Horizon" and her background and her perception of her day is of deep fascination and deep interest to the reader and the heroine of the latter part is just another writer whose reminiscential pages are filled with the well known names of fellow craftsmen and women and events, set down, but not interpreted.

"Earth Horizon" is the kind of book which impresses you deeply with its importance (the part that IS important), the kind of book that makes you feel certain at times that you are reading something of great moment, something that will live. There are observations in it which strike you all of a heap, they are at the same time so understanding and so interpretive.

And yet, in some inexplicable way, "Earth Horizon" wholly lacks charm. I have had the experience before—rarely—of reading a book which gave me an undeniable sense of occasional stupendous power, a book which made me feel that at times the author was touching the live nerves of life, a book which I felt I must not, under any circumstances, read lightly or allow others to miss, but a book which was just as undeniably without allurement, like a person whom you respected vastly and profoundly, but one whom you could not, no matter how much you wished to, love. Such a book to me is "Earth Horizon."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A mammoth ruby on the engagement finger of Barbara Hutton today sparkled the news that the betrothal of the Woolworth heiress to Prince Alexis Mdivani, of the muchly-wed Georgian royal family, is all but ready to be announced.

The glittering ring was first noticed when Barbara, beautiful daughter of Franklyn Hutton and granddaughter of the late Frank W. Woolworth, appeared at her 21st birthday party yesterday.

Before the engagement can be anything but tea table gossip, however, Prince Alexis must obtain his divorce from Louise Astor Van Alen, whose socially prominent family is said to be arranging the matter.

The prince is the brother of David and Serge Mdivani, husband and ex-husband, respectively, of Mae Murray and Pola Negri. And Barbara has many times been reported engaged to Phil Plant, ex-husband of Constance Bennett.

New Perfumes a Delight to Wise Buyers

Some Boxes Follow World's Fair Architecture.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New perfumes from Paris—fresh, beguiling floral scents that have been captured and retained in some of the fanciest and most fascinating bottles the sniffing shop hound will ever have the luck to locate.

And the descriptive names alone will make you stand and gloat over such fine imagination. Some wag has named a haunting new scent "the last word." Of course he says it in French.

This crisp, delightful perfume will be found in the velvety depths of a stunning black and gold trimmed modernistic box that is a triumph. In fact some of these clever new boxes that hold these perfumes are stunning enough to be breathtaking.

One shop is pardonably elated over a special perfume boxed and bottled in the exciting manner of the spectacular buildings at the World's Fair. Clever round modernistic bottles of clear crystal hold a lovely spicy scent that seems to be a special mixture of garden flowers. A brilliant red glass guard cover is the only color contrast.

A gorgeous black and gold leather box that fastens as intricately as a jewel box is also copied from the same buildings. You can buy this very new scent in two sizes, a small and a large.

A container collector, the gal who likes the boxes almost as well as the perfumes, will have a grand time trying to make up her mind among all the intriguing new ideas. One silver cylinder box holds a round bottle of new perfume with a wide round stopper . . . the silver box has a sapphire blue velvet rose on the top and the bottle itself is anchored to a sapphire blue base. All this blue and silver splendor is tugged with an unbelievably low price mark.

Patou, the famous French dress designer, dabbles most successfully with individual scents when the dress designing palls . . . his latest fragrant presentation is a persuasive scent, and how he does dress up the stuff with an eye-filling container of about the brightest red imaginable. However, he uses a base section of black that makes the entire ensemble a most dramatic affair.

Lelong is another designer who turns his back on frocks and coats every once in a while and spends a day or two in his laboratory and emerges with a new formula that will create as much of a sensation as any of his gowns. This time he presents a disturbingly different perfume that will linger long in the memories of perfume connoisseurs. A very simple crystal bottle in one size is featured, as well as the usual ivory and gold box used by Lelong for his other perfumes.

Decorative flacons for your handbags come in compact small sizes, holding enough of your favorite scent to last you a month or more. These small glass containers look like quaint old fashioned tear bottles, but are fitted with stoppers that stick tightly.

You can choose between black, jade green, topaz, blue, and clear crystal. The very small sum on the price sticker will surprise as well as tempt you to seriously start your Christmas shopping.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932 By News Syndicate Co. Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE VILLAGE BANK ROBBERY.

Rrrrrr. Brrrrr. Prof. Fordney heard the ringing of the door bell as he pushed the button of Mike Carr's summer cottage.

"Just a minute," called a voice and then the door was opened by Mike as he hurriedly slipped his arm into an elaborate purple dressing gown, wrapped it around his powerful frame, and tied the cord. . . but not before Fordney caught sight of the lavender silk underwear. His black hair was as highly polished as his shoes and the thought passed through Fordney's mind that he had yet to see Carr when he wasn't immaculate. The dandy of the underworld!

"I didn't come here to talk about the weather, Carr. Thirty minutes ago the village bank was robbed."

"And you think I did it? Sorry. You're barking up the wrong tree. I was walking home from the village half an hour ago and if you ever trudged that old dirt road, you'd know it couldn't be done in less than forty-five minutes. I've been here only long enough to prepare myself this far," indicating his apparel, "for a shower."

"You were in the bank about an hour ago."

"At which time I made a deposit."

"I loaned it to Morton."

"O . . . that's who drove off with the loot, eh? Well, Carr, my visit has confirmed my suspicions. Forty-five minutes, indeed! Come on get dressed. You're going with me!"

WHY DID FORDNEY ARREST CARR?

The Misses Helen and Marietta Gillette are two of the most faithful and most expert of the volunteers at the Red Cross workroom on Wacker drive and Wabash avenue where five hundred garments a day are being made for the Emergency Relief commission. The Misses Gillette, who made their debuts last year, have been making their own clothes ever since they were very young girls, and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, one of Mrs. George A. McKinlock's lieutenants at the workroom, says they are among the best seamstresses who work there. Marietta made all the costumes for "The Secret Garden," the Junior League Children's theater play now being given on Saturday mornings at the Playhouse.

Good Morning!

"The Old Dark House" [I keep wanting to call it "The Old Dark HORSE"] is a weird and terrifying number. It was adapted from J. B. Priestly's novel, which was known in England as "Benighted."

Most of the action occurs in the gloomy Femm household, situated in the Welsh mountains. Here a driving storm forces several people to take refuge. They are Philip Waverton, Margaret, his wife; Roger Penderel, their week-end companion; Sir William Porterhouse, and Gladys Du Cane, a chorus girl.

A mad butler admits the refugees. The servitor is dumb, looks like Rasputin, and his gutteralities are truly bloodcurdling to hear. He is none other than Boris Karloff, so successful in depicting the sort of life that peoples nightmares.

The visitors soon meet their host, a slim, oldish man who talks like George Arliss and looks as if he smelled something bad, and his deaf, fanatical sister, who is three-quarters of the way over the border line of sanity. And later they are to encounter two other uncanny inhabitants of this eerie mansion mid the mountains.

This exciting and unusually well acted photoplay keeps you thoroughly jittery through most of the footage. Its first reels—starting with a storm that wears down your nerves even as it does those of the three passengers in a certain car plowing along a dangerous road—are hair raising. Your terror gains momentum as the action proceeds—to be suddenly doused with a cool climax that, on account of what has gone before, fails to satisfy. We'll probably sleep better because of it, but I don't care so much about that. When they start out to scare me I want them to make a good job of it.

You will note that Charles Laughton is in the cast. He hasn't much of a rôle, but plays the one he drew for all it's worth. Great actor! You'll be intrigued with pretty, clever, human Gloria Stuart as Margaret Waverton, nod approval over the work of Raymond Massey [he played Sherlock Holmes once, remember?] as Waverton, and be much taken with the performances of Eva Moore as Rebecca Femm, Brember Wells as Saul Femm, and John Dudgeon as old, old, old Sir Roderick.

Staging and scenery are exceedingly atmospheric, direction by James Whale was of the best, and the production reeks with suspense.

THE STAGE

Announcement of the early reopening of two Chicago theaters suggests that the legitimate stage is beginning to recover from the acute effects of the depression. The Majestic theater will swing into line next Sunday night with a revival of Franz Lehar's celebrated operetta, "The Merry Widow," headed by Donald Brian. The Apollo theater, which had one week of Walter Hampden's "Cyrano de Bergerac" recently and then switched to feature films, will offer the latest edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" on Dec. 4.

"The Merry Widow," an operetta that never seems to grow old, will appear at the Majestic under the auspices of Robert McLaughlin, the Cleveland, O., impresario, interpreted by a company of sixty players. Donald Brian, who was the original Prince Danilo of Lehar's gay Viennese composition, will have Virginia O'Brien as his opposite in the rôle of Sonia. Others in the company are Ruth Altman, Allen Rogers, Detmar Poppen, Nat Burns, William H. White, Howard Quigley, and Paul Flood. A "popular" scale of box office prices is announced.

The "Vanities," due for a première at the Apollo Sunday night, Dec. 4, in competition with Ed Wynn's opening at the Grand Opera house in "The Laugh Parade," is Earl Carroll's ninth and latest production in this series of revues. It has had an eight months' run in New York and is now on tour with a company of 100 performers and 55 stage settings. Among the contributors to the entertainment are Al Trahan, Mitchell and Durant, Lucille Pake, Youkona Cameron, Betty Veronica, Sylvia Nelson, Emily Von Losen, Harry Stockwell, Ray Sax, Claire Curry, Fern McAllister, and Dedon Bluniere. The engagement is limited to two weeks.

The showboat Dixiana, now under construction at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., will arrive in Chicago, according to present prospects, Nov. 29, or a few days later. Capt. Ralph Emerson, Mississippi river showman, has a troupe ready to act "No Mother to Guide Her" and other old fashioned melodramas whenever the Dixiana ties up at the Dearborn street dock. . . . Meanwhile Billy Bryant, whose showboat troupe is giving a burlesque on "Hamlet" at the Cort theater, is planning to change his bill to "The Fatal Wedding" on Nov. 27.

The American Theater society promises a spring series of five plays in addition to its autumn series of five now in progress at the Erlanger theater. The play to follow "There's Always Juliet" three weeks hence will be chosen from four productions which are at the command of the organization. Its title will be announced this week.

Katharine Cornell will give her new play, "Lucrece," its first acting in the Hanna theater, Cleveland, O., on Tuesday night, Nov. 29. After a week there the production will move to Detroit for a week, and then to Buffalo for another week. The date and scene of the New York première have not yet been decided. Miss Cornell's company includes Robert Loraine, Blanche Yurka, Brian Aherne, Charles Waldron, Joyce Carey, Pedro de Cordoba, Brenda Forbes, Harriet Ingersoll, Kathleen Chase, Portia Morrow, George Macready, and William J. Tannen.

"Carrie Nation," the play that Impresario Arthur Beckhard staged in New York recently in hope of repeating the success of "Another Language," ended its career last Saturday night. It lasted only seventeen performances.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

By giving a room carefully chosen, effective window shades, charm is added to the house—its interior and exterior as well. These shades add beauty in proportion to their usefulness and, whether they are simple or formal, of inexpensive chintz, of washable materials, of plain or ribbed fabrics of various sorts, their range of color is wide. Harmony is possible no matter what the type of color scheme of the room. One should make certain in selecting shades that the roller is substantial, with strong spring tension correctly adjusted.

More Dances for Students During Holiday Season Are Announced by Mothers.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT looks as though the school girls and boys of society were going to be about as busy and have as good a time as ever during the Christmas holidays, for every day we hear of new parties that are being planned for them. On Wednesday, Dec. 28, there is to be a subscription dance at the Saddle and Cycle club arranged by a quintet of mothers, Mrs. Francis P. Butler, Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf; on Friday, the 30th, the Junior Fortnightly, which held its first dance of the season last Friday, will have its Christmas ball, and on Saturday, the 31st, New Year's eve, the annual Junior assembly will be given.

Mrs. Butler has two children of the ages to be included in these festivities, Hermon B. III. and Deborah; Mrs. Crossett has one daughter, Carolyn, who is at the Shipley school; Mrs. Reid has one daughter, Margot (her elder daughter, Nancy, also is a sub-deb, but she is abroad at school this winter); Mrs. Thomasson has two sons, Nelson III. and Gardiner, the elder at Princeton and the younger still in prep school, and Mrs. Wolf has two sons, Walter J. Watson, in his first year at Harvard, and Hathaway Watson Jr., who is still at St. Mark's.

A smaller party that will be given for a member of this jolly younger crowd is a dinner dance that Miss Frances Whedon will give on the night after Christmas at the Drake hotel for her niece, Frances Jeffery, who has lived with Miss Whedon since she was a tiny girl. Frances went to school abroad last winter, but this year she is at Miss Hall's at Pittsfield, Mass., from which she will return on Dec. 21 to spend the holidays with her aunt. Miss Whedon hasn't been back long in her house at 101 Bellevue place from Annisquam, Mass., where she and her niece spent the summer.

The Henry B. Babsons of Riverside, who again have the Ernest H. Noyes apartment at 1242 Lake Shore drive for the winter, are planning some sort of a party for their daughter, Betty, who also goes to Miss Hall's, but they haven't decided yet what they will give or when they will give it.

Mrs. Shedd to Give Musical.

Invitations are in the mails for a musical Mrs. John G. Shedd is giving on Saturday, Dec. 3, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the ballroom of the Drake hotel for her debutante granddaughters, the Misses Mary Reed and Jean Schweppe. Edward Johnson is to give the program at this party,

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill-bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half-Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. Silas Betests the Tilburys. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search. He suspects Albert Stokes, attendant at the garage where Caroline's car was kept, of stealing the lost bag, which Neil knew contained papers Tilbury might be anxious to recover. Natasha disappears. She is found, unconscious, in the bottom of a cave in the abbey ruin, where Tilbury had thrown her, wounded, in the battle to find her Tilbury is killed. When Natasha recovers she tells her experiences. Tilbury's wife confesses.

INSTALLMENT LVII.

A CHARLATAN'S METHODS.

Alfred Tilbury was on the brink of financial failure when at a charity performance in the town hall he first set eyes on the woman destined to be his victim. There was nothing in the dowdy, unimpressive person of Caroline Bundy to excite interest, but hearing some one whisper that the old girl in front of them was one of the rich landowners of the district, he began to study her with respectful attention.

She had with her the lady later known to be Miss Emily Braselton. The two friends chatted, and Alfred, seated behind, listened with all his ears. The conversation he overheard was prompted by the program, which consisted of pageants illustrating the famous Glastonbury myths. In the interval after St. Joseph of Arimathea was seen placing the sacred cup in a spring, Miss Bundy remarked hesitatingly, as though violating a confidence: "I don't suppose you know my father's private theory about that, do you? He seldom spoke of it, but it was his belief the Grail was hidden in the underground passage which used to run between our old Glebe house and the Abbey here. I've often wondered if there were anything in it."

The handsome friend was sceptical, but Miss Bundy, on the defensive, gave reasons for the idea. Miss Bundy argued that Theodore Bundy was too sound a thinker to have embraced any cause unworthy of investigation.

"I don't suppose you know my father's private theory about that, do you?"

Several times in his photographic career Tilbury had superimposed the ghostlike form of a dead husband on the likeness of a living widow. Occasionally he had conducted mild seances and supplied alleged spirit communications from the departed, always with remunerative results; moreover he possessed remarkable skill in imitating handwriting. This elderly woman had no husband, but she did have a pet idea which could be played upon. After hard thinking and discreet inquiries, he paid a call at Stoke Paulton, and humbly obtained leave to photograph the ruin.

After this it was a mere matter of preparing his combined negatives and rephotographing the result on new plates. The cup, cut from cardboard, was shown hovering over the hillside, diaphanous, but distinct enough for recognition. The effect was eerie and arresting. He then waited patiently for his dupe to make the initial move.

At last the hoped-for event happened. The old lady came into the shop and asked if the pictures had been finished. After a slight demur, he displayed them with apologies. She put on her glasses and looked spellbound. She questioned the photographer closely, got out of him a reluctant admission of his mediumistic powers, then took the views away with her. A week later she returned to suggest a tentative seance, but was met by stubborn objections, which showed Tilbury's understanding for her character. Eagerness on his part would have roused suspicion; diffidence stamped him an honest man. When the meetings ultimately began, both Alfred and his wife seemed to be giving way against their scruples, and both insisted they had no faith whatever in the phenomena evoked.

Connie remained throughout a passive adjunct, completing the circle and assuring the proprieties. Alfred, simulating a partial trance, held a pen in his limp hand and transcribed messages previously prepared. The trio sat in the darkened study, chosen because of its associations with the deceased Bundy. When the lights were finally switched on, Miss Bundy would seize the written page, consign it to her handbag, and devour its contents in private. The conspirators then partook of an excellent meal, pocketed their pay, and departed.

For a short time things went comfortably, but presently difficulties arose. Miss Bundy was openly dissatisfied with the nondescript handwriting and chafed at the total absence of the intimate allusions she would have expected from her father. She longed to believe, but ingrained caution restrained her. In short, she was unwilling to spend a great deal of money on an enterprise which might only bring down ridicule on her head, unless she had something better to go on than passages like these:

Jan. 2d—[Date in her own hand.] Have waited long to reach you . . . Ten years by your count . . . Cannot rest till my earth work is completed . . . A. T. my chosen agent . . . Be guided by me . . . I send A. T. to you as my mouthpiece . . . I always believed but was afraid to mention idea . . . That's finished now I've seen great light . . . Your father speaking.

Jan. 4th—Spring. H. G. buried in spring by Joseph . . . Why not found because under ground . . . Hills . . . Tor Hill direct line from house . . . H. G. still there waiting to be revealed . . . Photographs my doing . . . Remind you duty . . . Sacred trust . . . Why doubt . . . Dig.

True, the references to the Grail were startling. Alfred Tilbury, an ignorant stranger, could not possibly know what she herself had never told to any living being save Emily Braselton. However, she had heard of telepathic thought transference, and could not be certain whether or not the medium was unintentionally reading her own mind. Was it really Theodore Bundy who guided the man's hand? The question haunted her day and night, but if she complained Tilbury instantly threatened to give up the seances—the last thing she wanted him to do.

The writings, still noncommittal in the essentials, took on a scriptural tone, scattering biblical quotations, and always emphasizing the fact that A. T. was the author's unconscious channel, the only suitable one Bundy had been able to find. The power was not yet strong and consequently could not give the wished for results, but faith and perseverance would conquer all obstacles.

Tilbury, of course, was stalling. Unable at this stage to lay hands on so much as a scrap of Bundy's writing or any private details whatever, he could not better his present efforts; but to make up for this deficiency he found another method of consolidating his position. He resorted to flattery, made his employer see herself as a great woman hitherto unappreciated.

Probably it was about now that Miss Bundy's personal ambitions were definitely stirred. First of all, she wanted to prove herself right and her old friend, the vicar of Bishop's Paulton, wrong; but soon she regarded the idea of finding the Grail as much more her own than her father's. Thanks to Tilbury, she saw in it a means of achieving fame.

Tilbury was deliberately steering a cautious course, trying to keep his dupe interested, but at the same time holding her back from any decisive move. Once she started in to dig and found nothing, he and his wife would be shown the door. He had not as yet any intention other than to get what he could out of the living woman. It was only when he found himself gaining more and more influence over her that a new and bigger purpose began to form. Then it was that he said to himself: "Old ladies sometimes leave their money in strange ways. What's to hinder this one from making a will in our favor and popping off at the right moment?"

What, indeed? There were two reasons in direct opposition to the project. First, the old lady's health was excellent, promising at least another twenty years of life, in which time her sycophants' hold on her would come to an end. Second, what likelihood was there of her making so preposterous a will unless she herself could benefit by it? Serious barriers, but Tilbury saw a possible means of surmounting both.

Into the automatic writings, two strong motifs were introduced—one warning the daughter of an early decease, the other impressing on her the means by which she could attain permanent glorification. Nightly these themes interlaced, and soon, in an uncanny fashion, Miss Bundy received confirmation of the former. Her heart began to behave queerly. She had spells of breathlessness, lost flesh to an alarming extent, and altogether became such a wreck of her former self that she was at last persuaded [by the Tilburys] to see her physician. Graves diagnosed high blood pressure and prescribed accordingly. How could he guess what the patient herself was far from suspecting—that gigantic quantities of thyroid extract were being added to her soup, tea, coffee, and even the medicine she was ordered to take?

Hollywood at War Over Issue of Broadcast

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 15.—The conflicting schools of Hollywood opinion—to broadcast or not to broadcast—are at it again. The Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science will hold its annual awards banquet Friday night, at which time the medals and plaques designating the best performances of the year by actress, actor, director, writer, art effects, and sound effects will be announced.

All Hollywood will be there in tall coats, ermines and silk, and it was thought to be a great occasion to cut a national broadcast chain in on the event, to give the other cities of the United States a chance to hear moviedom's swellest eat, drink, and chaff each other.

But Fred Beetson, head of the coast offices of the Hays organization, sent word that the broadcast ought to be called off because for the evening the event would hit the nation's film theaters an awful wallop, because all film fans would want to stay home and hear the banquet. That's the way it stands today—they'll make up their minds definitely either to go on or stay off the air tomorrow, I expect.

Sidney Bracey, who played the butler in that famous old thriller of 1914, "The Million Dollar Mystery," is now playing what he says is his three hundred-and-somethingth rôle as a film butler. He is in "Air Hostess."

Homer Croy, humorist, essayist, playwright and magazine author, who has perhaps the most satisfactory sense of dry humor in Hollywood, is signed by Universal to write the next Charlie Murray-George Sidney vehicle.

Many Brave Snow to Attend Opening of New Art Gallery

Several hundred persons braved the snow yesterday to attend the tea which marked the opening of the large sales shop for Chicago artists at 9 West Washington street, which space Mrs. Frank G. Logan has engaged to enable artists hit by the depression to sell their wares.

Mrs. Logan, hostess at the tea and sponsor of the exhibit, said that she intended to continue the exhibit for the entire winter.

"It was most encouraging to see the large crowd which attended the opening," Mrs. Logan said last night. "It had been said I had issued invitations to every one in the social register. As a matter of fact, my friends are not all in the social register by any means and I did not issue invitations according to the register's membership. I do have friends whose names happen to be included there, and I have many whose names are not. The word 'elite' to me has another meaning entirely than to be classified in the social register."

Mothers Tell Party Plans for Holidays

Miss Reed's mother, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, is giving a dinner dance for her daughter and her niece on Dec. 23 at the Casino, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe are planning to give a luncheon on New Year's day at their Lake Forest residence for the two young buds.

Invitations went out yesterday for the teas that Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins will give on Dec. 2 and 9 to introduce to society Mrs. Hopkins' daughter, Miss Marjorie Goodman, at their residence, 1530 State parkway.

Mrs. Potter Palmer was reëlected president of the Antiquarian society of the Art institute at the annual meeting held yesterday morning, and Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson was reëlected vice president. Miss Marie Josephine Rozet takes Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer's place as secretary, and Miss Florence D. Bartlett succeeds herself as treasurer.

The new board of directors — all served last year except Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, who takes Mrs. Waller Borden's place—are Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Philip Miller, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

Friends of Opera Concert.

Rain or shine, the Friends of Opera will be out en masse today for the memorial concert for Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. The program, which will start at 3:30 o'clock, will be given by four distinguished artists, Mme. Claire Dux, Mme. Claudio Muzio, John Charles Thomas and Charles Hackett.

Mme. Dux will leave tomorrow for Poland to be with her father, A. T. Dux, when he celebrates his 90th birthday.

Despite the fact that the annual ball of the Chicago Private Chauffeurs' Benevolent association at the Aragon ballroom will deprive a lot of families of their customary means of transportation tonight, a great many north siders are planning to go south tonight to hear Julian Huxley's illustrated lecture on "A Scientist in Soviet Russia."

Mr. Huxley, who has been the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Lillie, will be introduced by Henry Field, who was a pupil of his at Oxford. The lecture is the second of a series sponsored by the student lecture service for the benefit of needy students.

Mrs. Parmalee J. McFadden of 219 Lake Shore drive has asked a few people to a dinner party tonight for her daughter, Miss Frances McFadden, who has come home for a Thanksgiving holiday from her job on a New York publication.

Needlework Guild Tea Tomorrow.

Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge is opening her residence in Lake Forest tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for a tea and exhibition of garments contributed by the members of the Lake Forest branch of the Needlework guild of which she is president.

This is an annual affair and the cider, doughnuts and similar seasonable refreshments that Mrs. Trowbridge serves make the party one that the one hundred and fifty members always are anxious to attend, aside from their interest in the guild, which furnishes garments to be distributed through hospitals, social agencies, etc.

Each member gives two garments each year. In years past when Mrs. Trowbridge's mother was president of the Lake Forest branch the women used to make their donations, but now they usually buy them or have them made. Mrs. Randolph Owsley is secretary of the Lake Forest branch and Mrs. Corwith Cramer is acting secretary.

The annual meeting of the Society of Midland Authors will be held Friday night at the Hotel Sherman. Mrs Cecil Barnes [Margaret Ayer Barnes to the literary world] will preside, as she is president, and will introduce Mrs. Herbert Bradley [Mary Hastings Bradley] and James Taft Hatfield, who will give short talks. The board of directors includes Arthur Meeker Jr., Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell [Marion Strobel Mitchell], Miss Harriet Monroe, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Miss Fanny Butcher, Edgar J. Goodspeed, David Hamilton, Baker Brownell, and George Dillon.

Invitations are out for a dinner dance the Contract Whist club will give in the ballroom of the Drake hotel next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock to mark the formal opening of the club's new rooms in the Drake.

Bazaar for Grant Hospital.

Mrs. Frank S. Porter and her sister, Miss Katherine Lefens, are opening their apartments which adjoint at 60 Scott street, on Tuesday, Dec. 6, for the annual bazaar of the women's board of Grant hospital. Utilitarian articles are being featured this year.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane and her daughter, Miss Florence Crane, arrived at home yesterday and are at their residence at 1550 Lake Shore drive, after having spent the summer at their Ipswich, Mass., estate.

Of particular interest to the many members of the Crane family living here is the engagement announcement of Miss Mary Lee Logan, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Howard F. Noble of Shreveport, La., to Charles Crane Leatherbee, son of Mrs. Frances Crane and grandson of Charles R. Crane of New York. The young man was graduated from Harvard in 1929, after which he went to Russia to work with the Moscow Art theater. Since returning from there he has been a director of the Theater Unit, Inc., which has summer quarters at West Falmouth, Mass., and winter ones in Baltimore. Miss Logan's brother, Joshua L. Logan, is co-director of it with Mr. Leatherbee. No date for the wedding has been set.

Travel Notes, Winter Plans.

Mrs. Francis B. Carter has returned from a summer in Hamilton, N. Y., and is at the Drake hotel for the winter months.

The Henry L. Gliddens of Highland Park are coming to town for the winter, as usual, and have taken the Alfred H. Shotwell apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive for the season. They expect to move in this coming Saturday.

The George Moseleys have closed their attractive old farmhouse at Wayne for the winter and have moved into a house in the village for the cold weather.

Mrs. Armin Brand has returned from New York, and with her sister, Mrs. Frank Rehm, is at Lake Geneva again. They plan to spend most of the winter there. Miss Jane Brand still is in New York, but she plans to sail for Europe shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Warren Parsons of 312 Grant place announce the birth of a son, Lucius Jr., on Nov. 12.

Arts Club President

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who was elected president of the Arts club last week to succeed the late Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, received congratulations of club members and guests yesterday at the tea to open the club's first exhibitions of the season.

Open Exhibitions

The Arts club tea to open its first exhibitions of the season yesterday afternoon lived up to the club's tradition in gayety and informality. The rooms resounded with the animated chatter of the guests who roamed the galleries in tireless fashion and then sought a quiet corner in which to chat some more over a cup of tea.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the new president of the club, was surrounded most of the afternoon by a constantly changing group of members, who rushed up to congratulate her on her new office. Always one of the best dressed women at any gathering, Mrs. Goodspeed looked particularly lovely yesterday in a soft gray dress and a beret of matching felt.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, in a black satin dress and a black turban with a band of red, carried out her duties as chairman of the hospitality committee by greeting and introducing newcomers and seeing that her twelve assistants alternated pouring at the tea tables. Among those dispensing tea and coffee from two round marble topped tables decked with calla lilies and white tapers were Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, in a bright green dress with wool embroidery on the bodice; Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, in dark red wool; Mrs. Frederic C. Bartlett Jr. in a mustard colored dress with a black scarf collar; Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, in black velvet, and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, in brown crêpe.

BY MARY MEADE.

Recently Miss J. T. sent in the following suggestion: "Why wouldn't it be helpful to a great many of us cooks to have an article on sauces to be served with plain cakes — lemon, hot fudge, cold chocolate, butterscotch, caramel, fruit, brandy, etc.? Then we could have plain cake one day with a sauce and the next day with a simple frosting, and it would seem like quite a different dessert. These sauces could also be used on puddings, ice creams, or with cake served à la mode."

Thank you for the thought, Miss T. The following sauces, which must have been waiting in my files for just such a time as this, should vary the service of many a plain cake:

HOT LEMON SAUCE FOR GINGER BREAD.

1 cup sugar
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons corn starch
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of one lemon

Blend the dry ingredients and add the water, stirring until dissolved. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and clear (about five minutes). Add the lemon juice, butter, and grated lemon rind and serve on ginger bread, steamed pudding, or fruit betties.

HOT FUDGE SAUCE FOR SIMPLE BUTTER CAKE.

2½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon butter
Dash of salt
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt the chocolate, stir in the sugar and water, add the butter and salt, and cook until the mixture is sirupy (about seven minutes). Add vanilla. This may be served at once hot over simple butter cake, ice cream, or ice-box puddings, or you may serve it cold. This sauce may be kept for several weeks in the refrigerator and reheated in the double boiler before using.

MARSHMALLOW SAUCE FOR CHOCOLATE CAKE.

2 tablespoons boiling water
¼ teaspoon maple extract
¾ cup sugar
Dash of salt

Add the boiling water to the sugar and stir until dissolved. Pour the sirup over the marshmallows which have been dissolved in a double boiler. Beat with an egg beater till well blended and fluffy. Add the maple flavor and a dash of salt. Then cool. Serve this sauce over chocolate or devil's food cake, ice cream, or chocolate pudding.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE FOR SPONGE CAKE.

½ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup coffee cream

Blend all ingredients and cook in a double boiler until thick and sirupy. Serve hot or cold. This is equally delectable on puddings and as toppings for home made sundaes.

BRANDY SAUCE FOR STEAMED PLUM PUDDINGS.

4 tablespoons butter
1 cup powdered sugar
Brandy flavoring to taste
2 eggs, separated
½ cup cream

Cream the butter to a smooth paste, add the sugar gradually and the flavoring, the beaten yolks, and the cream. In a double boiler cook until it thickens. Then pour over the beaten whites.

"We are making the announcement officially on Thursday," Mr. Benson declared tonight. Mrs. Nast at present is staying at the Dorchester hotel. Her fiancé served with distinction in the world war. Mrs. Nast is the former Leslie Foster of Lake Forest, Ill.

H. B. Wagoner Paints Beauty of a Desert

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two exhibitions have opened within a few steps of each other. An exhibition of paintings of the American desert by Harry B. Wagoner may be seen in the Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan avenue, and the Society of Chicago Artists is holding a members' show in the Knoedler galleries, 622 South Michigan avenue.

The desert paintings are magnificent. They are gorgeous. The beauties of the desert are unrolled before you with a skill and charm, a deftness of touch that is irresistible. The purple hills rise through thin, crystal air into an azure sky at noon, and in the evening are veiled with mist before the glories of the sunset.

The desert flowers make a radiant carpet over the sands, now brilliant yellow, now deep blue. The evening folds into night and in the stillness, an obvious stillness, the desert takes on new strength and greater wonder.

Mr. Wagoner gives us such an hour of beauty in the contemplation of his work as would be difficult to duplicate. He loves the desert and paints it in all its enchantment. He sees no tragedy there, nor loneliness, nor too great silence. It is for him the most beautiful of countries; in this guise he introduces it to us.

The Chicago Society of Artists have a far different exhibit. This group is made up of many of our modernists, and modernism runs riot through the Knoedler gallery.

String Quartet Gives Concert in 2 Numbers

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The Philharmonic String quartet offered comforting and melodic haven in their concert in Orchestra hall foyer last evening from the windswept streets outside. In a program of but two numbers there resulted a full evening of splendidly contrasted quartet music.

The first number played was a first performance in Chicago, the quartet numbered 3, opus 67, by the Russian composer, Gliere. Better known as a composer of symphony and orchestral music, Gliere has written for the smaller form of chamber music a work of extreme interest. It is melodic and vital, and blends nicely the melody of yesterday with the technical involvement that is the composer's birthright today. The first movement was pure melody, the second and third uncompromisingly of today, and the fugue in the last movement was a technical feat both for Gliere and the quartet.

The performance of both was beyond reproach. This quartet of members of the Symphony orchestra have not only the assurance and fine tone of the routined orchestral player but have acquired a tonal balance that is both vigorous and fine. Listening to such music performed in such a manner one can well accord with the theory that the string quartet is the purest means of music making. The audience was both large and appreciative.

Wedding

The marriage of Miss Katherine Selz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram K. Selz of 20 Cedar street, to Frank D. Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Mayer of Glencoe and Chicago, will take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Drake hotel.

The marriage of Miss Irene Adler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Adler of 5004 Woodlawn avenue, to Oscar S. Rome, son of Mrs. Julia Rome of Boston, will be solemnized at 6:30 o'clock this evening in the drawing room of the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Max Adler, at 4939 Greenwood avenue. The ceremony will be followed by a wedding dinner for the families and later in the evening there will be a reception. The bride and bridegroom will reside in Chicago after a three weeks' wedding trip.

Fellow Fears Girl's Past May Hurt His Future

Hesitates About Plans for Wedding.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been going with a girl of 23 for two years. I love her and she loves me. She confessed to me that she is the mother of an illegitimate child of 3. The girl is from a well educated family. Her past trouble is unknown to the outside world. The child passes for her sister.

"As soon as I get my degree our plan is to marry. But what worries me is: What will our friends say when they find out the truth? How would my marrying the girl under the circumstances affect my future life? Am I foolish to continue going with her? Would we be happy?

HANDY."

I wonder if you would be happy, "Handy!" I wonder if your concern over what people would say, your interest in what affects your future life wouldn't overshadow the scene. I wonder if you have enough of that love that can rise above the mistakes of poor human clay for the girl to entrust her future life to you?

Of course, happiness is there for you if you're man enough to stand by the girl, come what may. But if what people say is going to prove your pattern of emotions you'd better let the girl have her chance at happiness elsewhere.

It's unfortunate, I'll grant, that a youthful mistake must ever enter into the great romance of a lifetime. But if it is something that has to be faced, it has to be faced. If there is fear and trepidation in the heart, if one is going to be haunted by fear of disclosure—better withdraw from the picture entirely. You're not the man for the responsibility. You are not the man to make the girl happy.

Perhaps it is a large order to ask of a young man to cast aside all personal reaction in such circumstances. It may be a good deal to expect him not to view his future from the angle you present, "Handy.

Manners Good as Ever, Writer Tells Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Children nowadays are so ill-mannered," I've heard several people say lately.

I don't find it so. In one way or another I have contacts with children of these various sorts: Children who go to public schools and play in the street a lot; children who go to public schools, but who have special plans made for their leisure at home; children who go to formal, city and private schools; children who go to the more informal progressive schools in the city; children who live in the suburbs and go to suburban public schools, and children who live in the country and go to a rural one room school or to the nearest town school by bus, bike, or car.

That presents quite a variety of children, doesn't it? And I can't see that they do anything so dreadful. I can't see what is so ill-mannered about them.

Most of them meet you freely and easily—look you in the eye when they shake hands, or merely say hello—and observe the amenities of general courtesy and the special ones of caps and doors and "pleases" and "thank you's" very well. As I look back for comparison it seems to me that children's manners now are much more pleasing and accustomed than those of the children I knew as a child.

Another thing you hear is: "Their parents don't seem to care whether they have any manners or not."

That's another experience I haven't had. In fact, I think parents are quite as concerned about children's manners as they ever were.

We must bear in mind when youth is criticized that there has always been this cry from the older generation about the younger—ever since the times of long ago—even hundreds of years before Christ. Except for the chaotic years right after the dreadful war, for which no young person can be blamed because the aftermath of war has been for ages marked by a violent reaction, our children do not merit these criticisms. There's nothing the matter with the children and won't be if the grownups do their part.

Noted Sculptor to Model Child's Head at Library

Anthony Vozech, internationally known Czech sculptor whose work is now being exhibited at the Art institute, will model a child's head and speak at the John Toman branch of the Chicago public library, 27th street and Crawford avenue, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Children's book week is being celebrated this week and many other interesting features are scheduled. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Complexions of Film Stars Prove Rouge Is Harmless

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In answer to your query, "Mabel," good rouge will not injure the skin. If it did there wouldn't be a stage or movie professional who could face the light of day, and you know and I know that they face it very, very beautifully indeed. They use cosmetics daily, and to me are proof that the talk of damaging complexions with makeup is just plain hooey.

I've seen and talked with dozens and dozens of celebrities, and the one thing these stage and movie stars boast is a fine quality of skin. I claim this is due to the daily massaging they give their faces with the creaming undergone both before and after putting on the coloring, to the good cleansing creams used, and to the removal of the makeup with creams.

In answer to your other question about rouge, "Mabel," there are four kinds: Paste, cream, liquid, and powder. To my way of thinking the paste and cream rouge are the neatest to use. You can blend them into the skin more cleverly, I think. For dry skins the cream rouges are best, for they lend a certain needed "dampness." If the skin is dry it is well to put the rouge on over a surface upon which is left a faint film of cream. I think many girls and women lose the natural, under the skin glow by refusing to mind this little detail of softening the skin first.

When this is done the eyelids come in profitably for a bit of this fine film. Just try seeing what this very light creaming or oiling of an eyelid will do for you. It imparts that fresh, moist charm of a young child's appeal. And where you use rouges you do want that foundation good.

The liquid rouges are good, of course, but they require a swift and artful finger to mold into the skin. They last longer than others. A good idea here is to wet the cheek first with a little tonic, or even cold water, and spread the liquid rouge on with its help. The powdered rouge is how generally accepted as the pick-me-up for away from home use.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, cut down on fatty meats and starches—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. E. Griffiths Hughes, Rochester, N. Y.

Keeps Age a Secret
Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 60c.

NURSES BUILDING "SUPERIOR RACE" IN HILL COUNTRY

Kentuckians Respond to Scientific Care.

Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, founder of the Frontier Nursing service, revealed yesterday that a research is now under way which may prove that the service, operating in an isolated mountain region of Kentucky peopled by descendants of early American pioneers, is building "a superior race."

Mrs. Breckinridge arrived from Kentucky yesterd " to meet with the Chicago committee this morning at the home of Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and to visit the Chicago office at 106 East Oak street, directed by Mrs. John C. Gardner. Mrs. Breckinridge founded the service in 1925, so that modern maternity and child care methods might be introduced in hitherto neglected areas. Since then a corps of nurses on horseback has penetrated the almost inaccessible hill country.

Lower Mortality Rates.

"We have accomplished the first of two things we set out to do and next summer we expect to know where we stand on the second," Mrs. Breckinridge said. "We have proved that our prenatal care has lowered both the maternal and infant mortality rate. Now we are showing what becomes of the babies five to seven years later.

"We believe that we are building a superior race. Our pediatrician is making extensive examinations of 200 of the first children under our care, and the records, which we expect to confirm our hopes, are being tabulated. Next summer, when school opens, we will select sections in the mountains where nothing has been done toward the health of children. Our pediatrician will make similar examinations of these neglected children and the results will be compared. This work is being done by a statistician from the Carnegie Foundation."

The old barter system is still widely used in place of money in this region of Kentucky—a portion of the Smoky mountain territory, where pure Elizabethan English is still a part of the mountaineer's vocabulary. The folk almost entirely pay their medical and dental fees in labor or forest and garden products.

A bulletin just released by the Frontier Nursing service discloses that the service has performed "1,000 deliveries without a single maternal death resulting either from pregnancy or labor; has had a third less still births than occur usually in the general population of this country, and a third less infant deaths within one month of birth than occur in the general white population of Kentucky."

More than 46,000 inoculations and vaccinations have bene given against typhoid, diphtheria, and smallpox, 10,000 persons have been given home care, wells have been chlorinated, hookworm studied, and combatted, hundreds of persons sent to physicians and hospitals in distant cities, traveling clinics arranged in the mountains for visiting specialists, and dental care given. The service has nine nursing centers covering 700 square miles, thirty nurses, and an 18 bed hospital.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The avocation of collecting, which has proved its fascination for the historical minded since the height of Alexandria's civilization, will bring many visitors of similar tastes to the Hotel Sherman this morning when the Hobby, Collectors, Antiques exposition opens. More than 70 exhibits of antiques and collections worth many thousands of dollars have been arranged.

"Perhaps one of the first important colections was that of Alexandria," O. C. Lightner, director of the show explained yesterday. "The library, which was really a historical museum, contained collections from many other lands. When this library was destroyed by Omar the caliph in the sixth century, there went with it the records of an ancient civilization.

England Is Pioneer.

"England was probably the first to realize the importance and value of collecting," he continued. "At the time of the Renaissance, the English began taking treasures out of Egypt, Assyria, and Italy, before those countries realized the value of their own antiques."

And even Chicago, Mr. Lightner added, is beginning to place a value on its own antiques, now that it is passing the century mark, and is preserving relics the pioneers brought with them.

"An antique," he explained, "must be at least 100 years old to be an antique. That is accepted not only by the trade, but also by the government in its tariff regulations."

In a different class, however, fall stamp collections, which have been in vogue only since 1847, the year the first United States stamps were made. Several booths of valuable collections will be visited by many collectors in this rapidly growing hobby.

Women Exhibit Stamps.

The first woman's stamp club in the world, the Chicago Woman's Stamp club, now three years old, has an exhibit. There are collections of madonna stamps, Lincoln, Washington, ships, airplane, and weapons. The women are proud to display the largest and smallest stamps in the world, these being a modern Chinese special delivery stamp which is the largest, and the minute stamp of the Colombian republic of 1863-'66. Mrs. Eveleen W. Severn is president of the club.

In another stamp booth is a collection of the first stamps in the world, those of Great Britain in 1840, and the first in this country—those of New York state in 1845, and the federal stamp two years later. There is also a map of the United States with different colored stamps used for the states. One dealer reports that stamp collecting is growing rapidly, adding that "every depression has seen an enormous increase in this line of hobbies."

Old and Rare Coins Shown.

Among other exhibits are rare coins including Chinese knife and bell, money used from 1122 to 255 B. C., and key money 7-22 A. D. There are also exhibits of shells, cheese, bread, and brick tea once used as money.

There is a map of North and South America made in 1572, fans in the Madame de Pompadour fashion, hand painted with ivory sticks, collections of clocks, prints of the Chicago fire, jewelry of other days, Indian relics, autographs, books, rare tapestries and paintings, miniatures, period furniture, old glass and silver.

In some booths, hobbies have gone modern. There are several exhibitions of airplane models, and one exhibitor proudly displays 50 different varieties of cactus, and knows the botanical name for each.

The show opens at 11 a. m. and continues to 11 p. m. It is being run on a nonprofit basis, according to Mr. Lightner.

HONDURAN ARMY DEFEATS REBELS IN FIGHT FOR CITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 15.—The government tonight announced that its army had been victorious in several encounters with revolutionary forces. A government communique said that 300 men had been killed or wounded in a 12 hour battle for the possession of San Pedro on the north coast.

Gen. Francisco Martinez Funes was reported to have recaptured San Pedro. Dispatches from the city said that the civilian population, both native and foreign, was safe. It was also stated that order had been restored.

According to the government, the insurgent liberals, who were defeated in the presidential elections two weeks ago, were routed today after they had assaulted the important city of Trujillo. A group of 300 rebels, under the command of Vidal Casco, looted the small towns of Saya and Tocoa in the Trujillo banana district.

Following their defeat at Trujillo, the rebels were forced to retreat toward the interior town of Olanchito. The revolting forces were still reported to be in control of La Esperanza and other western towns.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 15.—The unsuccessful Paraguayan attack on Fort Saavedra last Friday cost the enemy 1,300 casualties, including dead, wounded and prisoners, it was revealed in additional details of the battle received here today.

Army officers describe the encounter as the "greatest of the war" over possession of the Chaco wilderness.

They'd Fill Many an Empty Stadium.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Princeton and Yale drew only 35,000 customers for their football game at Princeton last Saturday afternoon and, with no desire but to help the boys sell out their house on future occasions, I think I can suggest a change of emphasis which would bring in occupants for the empty seats.

The trouble at Princeton was that they stressed in the billing a comparatively weak attraction, which was their football game, and quite ignored the open fight around the southern goal posts at the conclusion. Now, this fight and the last previous Princeton-Yale fight on the same grounds were really magnificent brawls and I am sure that with a little exploitation from the office of the university press agent they could have been built larger in the public imagination and in the box office statistics than any of the annual amenities between Jack Starkey or Max Schmeling and whomsoever.

This One Was Built Up.

The 1930 fight, which centered around the northern goal posts, seemed to be spontaneous, and if it was, of course that would absolve the management of any neglect or failure. Obviously no showman can be expected to sell tickets for an accident. But this year's fight was not only expected but impatiently awaited, and I seemed to catch moments as the football teams were chasing punts back and forth when the crowd was thinking to itself, "Come on, get through and let the fights begin."

The fights began with very little delay. A number of young men converged on the left leg of the southern goal posts and started to push and yank. Other young men came tumbling down from the Princeton side and raced up to the spot, winding up their big, special punches as they ran. As soon as they came within throwing distance they let fly—blam. Now other parties came running up from every which way, also cocking their big specials on the fly, and when they came within effective socking range, why, also blam.

Then other parties followed these parties and before you could even remember Jack Robinson's name, much less put tongue to it, there were parties tumbling all over the ground and standing straight up on their cervical vertebrae and getting up and throwing more of those big specials.

No Seeded Punchers.

At a distance it looked as though there were no accepted pairings because one party with his hat smashed down over his ears would draw a bead on some other party who might be engaged in drawing a bead on some one else and before the first party could let go his punch a fourth party would step in and cork him one—smack on the chin—and send him tumbling. And some one else would hit that one a belt alongside the ear, and so forth for half an hour.

I do not know whether there are any formal rules of eligibility for these fights, but I infer that personal introductions are not required. You may see a young man come legging it up to the pleasure, waving his big special with no apparent individual in mind until he reaches the fringe of the pack. Then he just picks out the carest one and puts it among his features.

Moreover, a ticket of admission to the football game, price $4.40, seems to admit the bearer to the fighting afterward without extra charge, because in the excitement it is quite impossible to check up and rule a man off for deficiency in English or nonattendance at chapel. In fact, how can they be sure that a candidate for the fight is in any way connected with either university?

Even Strangers Have Fun.

He might be a Harvard party improving a glorious opportunity to smack down a few Yales and Princetons, too, or just some west side boy from New York with a repressed desire to do some work on a few college people who go around yelling rah-rah-rah, and therefore are a lot of mamas' boys and, in round numbers, not a bit of good.

There is an honest difference of opinion as to whether it improves the tone of such fights to include a few policemen. Both schools of thought have their points and I would say that it is strictly a matter of individual preference. They invited the Cambridge policemen to take part in the big Harvard-Princeton fight on the day of the great disagreement and I thought the gallant officers lent a distinct tone to the battle. For one thing, a policeman provides a common enemy. If a party isn't quite sure whether the person standing with his chin exposed is on his side or the other side, he need not puzzle himself about the man in the blue uniform who is wrestling with a squirming object in a fuzzy coat. "When in doubt, hit a cop," was the motto in that fight, and the action was enriched by just that much.

Cops Have Good Record.

However, the Cambridge police possess special qualifications for this duty as their corps history is full of happy free for alls between their side and the Harvards. I clearly recall the arrest years ago of a young Harvard man, the son of a great American statesman, and now, himself, a public

PRIZE FOR EACH STAR NAMED BY BIG TEN TEAMS

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for eight years has presented a silver football [actual size] to the Big Ten football player adjudged of greatest value to his team during the season. The ninth silver football, symbolic of what has come to be regarded the greatest individual honor of the conference, will be presented as usual this fall. Now come additions to that award.

Under the present plan of picking the most valuable player there are ten candidates, one from each conference university. These ten players are chosen by their own teammates as most worthy of the honor and the silver football which goes with the ultimate selection. Because each of these ten boys must have played great football, must have been a good sportsman, and must have been an outstanding leader to merit this recognition it has been decided that tokens will be awarded to all so chosen.

White Gold Prizes.

Therefore, each player picked by his team as its most valuable player for the season will receive a white gold football, watch fob size. These footballs are white gold to distinguish them from the yellow gold footballs usually awarded by athletic departments to members of a championship eleven. There will be appropriate lettering on the white gold footballs.

When the silver football competition was first announced in 1924 there was no restriction on the ballots cast by the board of award, consisting of 23 members. These members are the ten conference coaches, ten officials who work in conference games and therefore observe the players at close range; John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, and Wilfrid Smith and Harvey Woodruff, TRIBUNE football reporters.

With the choice originally open it frequently happened that one or more players of the same eleven received votes from some member of the awards board. This voting, by the way, is first and second choices, with 2 points and 1 point, respectively, allotted, the highest total winning the trophy. While this division of votes between players on the same team never determined a result it was feared such a contingency some time might prove a factor.

Conditions Are Amended.

Hence conditions affecting those eligible to receive votes were amended in 1930. The field was limited to ten and ten were picked by those in the best position to judge of their value—the boys who played on the same team with them. These selections are made by the respective elevens at the end of the schedule, usually at the football banquet. This fall the selection will carry additional importance because each boy will receive the white gold football, watch fob size, when named as a candidate for the silver football.

1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1927—Ken Rouse, Chicago.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1929—Bill Glassgow, Iowa.
1931—Clarence Munn, Minnesota.

Glancing over the list one notes that no college ever has produced more than one silver football winner. If it were not for the makeup of the board of award—ten coaches, ten officials, and three others—and the method of balloting one might raise his eyebrows and say "ring-a-round-a-rosy." Yet comparison of those chosen with contemporary players of the same years would dissipate any such thought. Furthermore, the balloting is secret and by individual letter to this writer, who originally suggested the plan.

Fairest Possible Method.

Both composition of the awards board and the method of balloting have been widely adopted in principle by chambers of commerce or other civic bodies which have undertaken projects along the same line for high school organizations. Conference authorities regard the procedure as the best and fairest possible.

Looking at the winners' list again it is disclosed that Wisconsin and Purdue never have been represented. What a happenstance of possibilities. Purdue's Boilermakers have not lost a game this fall, although tied once. Wisconsin is an eleven which consistently has taken to the gridiron all the football which its most optimistic followers expected. It has lost one game, that to Purdue by the extra point after touchdown.

As soon as team choices are made by the players they will be announced. After these ten candidates, each of whom will receive a white gold football watch fob, are named members of the board of award will be asked to cast their ballots for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team for the season of 1932.

Ripley Nearly Became Hog Caller; Now He Sells Gas

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Vic's pa used to be superintendent of the stockyards in Calgary, and when Vic was a small lad he was undecided as to whether he would become a champion hog caller or an expert hockey player.

The young man's voice never rounded out sufficiently for the best in hog calling. So he became a great hockey player, a tennis champion and a golfer who moans if he doesn't break 76.

It is just as well that Vic gave up hog calling early in life, for even now he has a squeaky voice that belies his rugged character. When he talks you'd think you were listening to Jack Dempsey and the piping words are just as surprising as those of Jack, for, like Dempsey, Vic is a tough, fightin' guy.

So Vic Becomes a Biscuit Baker.

While he was superintendent at the Calgary stockyards Ripley père had a hockey team and the red headed son played on it to get his earliest experience in regular competition.

He first won widespread recognition as a member of the Kitchener, Ont., team as a center and before he turned pro was the most sought after amateur in Canada.

As a member of the Minneapolis Millers, Ripley, like other Millers such as Taffy Abel, Ching Johnson, Cooney Weiland, Herb Lewis and Tiny Thompson, became a standout. The Hawks won out in the bidding for his services and the 25 year old star now is starting his fifth year under the Chicago banner.

Unlike many professional athletes, particularly those who excel in several lines of sport, Ripley never has been afraid of work. For a time he labored in the Calgary stockyards, but when his father left the stockyards and set up a bakery Vic learned the baker trade.

He was willing to toil, but the paddles which bakers use to shove bread into the ovens proved a terrible distraction to the spirited youth. He found that by taking one of the paddles and a biscuit he could get a lot of swell juggling practice, all of which stood him in good stead in his hockey stick handling.

He Sells Some Gas in Summer.

Though a hockey enthusiast himself, the sight of his son chasing a biscuit all over the bakery with an oven paddle exasperated the elder Ripley and he disposed of the bakery. Vic then opened a bakery of his own, but the lure of the paddle and biscuit was too much for him and eventually he was obliged to close the establishment.

Last summer Vic, in partnership with Herb Lewis, now with the Detroit Red Wings, ran a gas station in Calgary, but managed to get away for plenty of golf, including competition in the Minnesota open, in which he finished third. His best round was a 71.

Ripley has continued to play tennis, but has not engaged in tournament competition since he won the Alberta championship in 1924 and 1925.

Ripley is married to a Windsor girl. Aside from sports, Vic's greatest pleasure is to dash about with the missus in his baby blue sport sedan, which carries more glittering chromium than a half dozen other cars.

BOSTON'S THREE GOALS IN FIRST PERIOD WIN, 3-2

Maroons Score in Final Minutes of Play.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins defeated the Montreal Maroons, 3 to 2, before 12,000 fans tonight in the opening game of the season at the Boston Garden.

DETROIT WINS, 6 TO 2

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Detroit's Red Wings won a bruising, battling 6 to 2 victory over the New York Americans tonight, their second of the National league hockey season, on home ice.

It was a bumping, hard checking contest that wound up in a 12 minute banishment of one player, and a fist fight between two others that brought each a major penalty.

Johnny Sheppard drew a minor penalty as well as 10 minutes when he charged Walter Buswell, Wings' defense man, into the boards. Larry Aurie, diminutive Wing forward, and Keating, little American wingman, teamed in a free hitting fistic match.

Johnny Sorrell scored three of the Wing goals, crashing into the backboards for a temporary knockout in his final effort. Emms, Goldsworthy and Carson scored the remaining three, while Sheppard and McVeigh tallied for New York.

The lineup:

Flurries Fail to Halt Drill at Englewood

Members of the Englewood football team, who will attempt to lead the south side school out of a 12 year football depression, found yesterday's heavy snow fall no handicap as they went through an hour's drill on the muddy Normal park field. Englewood plays Morgan Park Saturday afternoon at White City stadium for the championship of the Chicago Public High school league.

There was little evidence that the absence of Clifford Adkins, veteran left tackle, who was injured in the victory over Harrison, will be greatly felt Saturday, for in Adkin's place will be Joe Candela, 205 pound junior. Candela has gained the confidence of Coach Chuck Palmer by his stellar work in several games this season.

Morgan Park Stays Indoors.

Farther south, practically on the outskirts of the city, Coach Bob Antonides refused to defy the elements and called the Morgan Park squad together in a classroom and outlined Englewood's plays on a blackboard. Another skull drill will be held today if unfavorable weather conditions continue, Coach Antonides said. All regular members of the squad were present at yesterday's drill, and are expected to be in the starting lineup against Englewood.

Morgan Park's five consecutive victories in league competition have aroused the interest of the far south side, where predictions are being made that Morgan Park will win its first league championship. Morgan Park's last championship drive was halted by Tilden in the semi-final round in 1927.

Englewood Backs Rarin' to Go.

Englewood's back field, which has gone places in every game, is intact and ready for the game. It includes Capt. Pete Rozgus, quarter back, who will be playing his last prep game; George Appel, full back, who also will end his prep career; Steve Garbler, right half back, and Albert May, left half back.

Against these ball carriers Morgan Park will offer Capt. Dick Bowlin and Walter Kleinman, half backs; Tommy Tompkins, quarter back, and Clyde Pendleton, full back. Pendleton started the 17 to 0 rout of Schurz when he broke loose and raced 25 yards for a touchdown last Saturday.

Mount Carmel and St. Mel will meet for the Chicago Catholic High school league championship at White City stadium Sunday afternoon. The site of the game was definitely decided on last night at a meeting of officials and coaches.

Soccer Head Balks at Decision; Shoots Referee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LA PLATA, Argentina, Nov. 15.—Because he refused to permit a penalty kick, Leon Arismendi, soccer referee, was shot in the head and critically wounded during a game today. The shot was fired by Augustin Celadilla, president of the soccer football club.

In the Wake of the News

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

DEAR WAKE: As a close follower of football, my choice for the Silver Football for most valuable player in the Big Ten would be Paul Pardonner for Purdue, Gil Berry for Illinois, Vin Sahlin for Chicago, Greg Kabat for Wisconsin, Harry Newman for Michigan, Jack Manders for Minnesota, Carl Cramer for Ohio State, Gene Opasik for Indiana, Pug Rentner for Northwestern, and for Iowa, I give up.
Albert Martinelli.

HTW: Recent statement of a Helper regarding lack of intestinal fortitude of a Notre Dame team not composed of Irishmen is very ridiculous, unfounded, and a slam at the fighting qualities of other nationalities. I am of Croatian parentage, as is Meilnikovich of Notre Dame, and cannot allow such statements without speaking my piece. Our people are gifted with as much grit as the Irish and in addition possess that quality known as modesty. We do not continually remind the world of our fighting qualities, but nevertheless those qualities are there.
John A. Kellanj.

Harve: Purdue '10 should live in Milwaukee if he thinks Chicago papers do not give Purdue due prominence. Why, I always buy THE TRIBUNE to get comprehensive reports of Boilermaker games. As to Michigan Pete, Michigan is lucky not to be on the Purdue schedule this season.

However, I have a hunch that Minnesota, which Purdue has beaten, will turn the trick Saturday. F. T. Roe, Purdue '11, Michigan '12.

Sir: I do feel Michigan deserves all the space it receives this year. Purdue rates equal mention, since the Purdue eleven is as smooth running an aggregation as it has been my privilege to see ever.

All this rot about Michigan luck, however, seems so unnecessary. A glance at the Wolverine defensive record ought to prove something. When a smooth running bunch like Purdue lacks a scoring punch consistently, except against weak opposition, it hardly sounds logical to attribute their close games to tough luck.

Michigan always seems able to produce a score somehow, and the regularity of this phenomenon removes it in some degree from the luck category. Anyhow, Harve, any team which plays the breaks deserves them.

Keep up this "College Letter Box." It is instrumental in airing many views. Wolverine Willie.

Gypsy Song.

Charm me with lilt of the mandolin,
Woo me with gems of a mountain linn—
Rapturous voices, oh, lead me far!

Singing, to Arcady, now I go.
A silken bandana confines my hair.
Blossoms and butterflies wait, I know;
Rapturous lyrics I fain will share!

Fays lightly dance to my tambourine;
The muses proclaim that a land, long dead,

13 MAROONS TO FINISH CAREERS AGAINST BADGERS

Six Starters in Line Saturday Are Seniors.

An entire football team, coach and all, will be appearing for the last time at the Midway Saturday when the Maroons close their season against Wisconsin.

Thirteen members of the varsity squad will be taking their last official leaps and bounds on Stagg field. Coach Stagg himself will be pacing in front of the players' bench for the 391st and final time, so far as formalities go, though he still is eligible for reappointment.

With one exception the line from end to end probably will be composed of seniors. Outstanding among these will be John Spearing and Bill Cassels, Stagg's competent tackles, both of whom have played the greater part of every game for the last two years. Four senior ends, Pompeo Tolgo, Carl Gabel, Frank Thomson, and Warren Bellstrom; Ray Zenner and Bob Shapiro, guards; Keith Parsons, center; George Schnur, reserve tackle, and Hugh Mendenhall, Allan Summers, and Capt. Don Birney, back field men, are the others who will be playing their last game.

All to Get Chance.

If Stagg follows his custom all of these men will see action. Ten of them have been starting players most of the season. Only one underclassman is likely to start in the line. Wayne Rapp, a junior, or Ell Patterson, a sophomore, will start at guard in place of Walter Manelkis, a junior, whose charley horse will keep him out of the lineup. Two juniors, Vin Sahlin and Pete Zimmer, will be in the starting back field.

The Maroons will be meeting the Badgers for the 36th time since 1896. Wisconsin has won 17 games, Chicago has captured 14, and 4 have resulted in ties. Wisconsin has piled up 445 points to 245 for Chicago. The last Maroon victory occurred in 1927.

No preceptible change in the attitude of Coach Stagg, the team or the student body, which might be due to the impending retirement of the coach, has been apparent in the weeks since the announcement of the appointment of T. N. Metcalf as athletic director.

Stagg Carries On.

Stagg went about his daily chore with his usual vigor yesterday, while the team was cheerful and businesslike, despite three consecutive defeats. Even if the Maroons should lose to Wisconsin, which they do not propose to do, the feeling persists that the team is improved over last year and that Chicago football fortunes are on the upgrade.

BADGERS HALT FROSH

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin football team practiced this afternoon in the steam heated university fieldhouse on a floor covered with sawdust. It was the first session in preparation for the game with Chicago Saturday.

The temperature outside the fieldhouse was less than 15 degrees above zero and the field was spotted with ice.

All men injured in the Minnesota game were in uniform but none participated in dummy scrimmage. Bill Fallon, trainer, said he is confident they will be in condition to play against Chicago.

Frosh Use Maroon Plays.

With the freshmen team enacting Chicago plays, the first team was coached on defense. Only two teams could be on the fieldhouse floor at one time because of cramped quarters.

Freshmen coaches had difficulty working out a weak side cross buck used by Chicago in previous games. They did the best they could with the maneuver, but the varsity squad held the yearlings to small gains.

Coaches believe they have convinced members of the varsity squad that they will have difficulty defeating Chicago.

Ayton, Veteran Pro, Quits Evanston for Scotland

Laurie Ayton, professional of the Evanston Golf club, will leave Chicago today for Montreal, whence he will sail for Glasgow on Friday. The veteran golfer is going back to St. Andrews after teaching at Evanston since 1919. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Ayton, their daughter, Helen, and Laurie Jr., who won the Illinois junior championship at the age of 15.

KINCSEN, LAST TO GET STARTED, IS FIRST AT BOWIE

BOWIE.

1—Learoyd, Colonist, Shapfell.
2—Knight's Gal, Welcome Gift, Nituma.
3—Pompeius, Cabezo, Finite.
5—MAD FRUMP, Microphone, Masked Knight.
7—Tuffy G., Impeach, Gloria Maris.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The 5 year old mare Kincsen, which races for Mrs. F. A. Carreaud, came from last place to first in the featured race here today to win by half a length. The 2 year old Espinetta was second, half a length back of the daughter of Cudgel and Buckwheat and six lengths before Seven Veils, which landed the show.

Kincsen was a 2 to 5 shot and was one of two public choices to win on an afternoon marked by the victories of long shots. The day began with Oldfield scoring at $146.10 for $2, one of the longest prices in the history of Bowie racing. The 7 to 10 favorite, True sentiment, was second, beaten by a neck.

Drombo Wins Third Race.

The next long shot to win was Drombo in the third, returning $40.80 to $2, and piloted by Johnny Gilbert. Gilbert gained a triple with Drombo, Try It, and John F., all of them at substantial prices.

Jockey J. Leyland was rider of Kincsen in the feature and had to do some hard finishing to save the day. Getting off last, as was expected, for Kincsen is a very slow beginner, the mare moved up steadily on the outside. She assumed command rounding the bend and appeared headed for an easy victory until Espinetta made her charge.

Leyland Drives to Victory.

The 2 year old raced up almost to even terms with the favorite and held on strongly. Leyland, far from being able to coast home, had to go to a drive and even to use the bat; but Kincsen is a great finisher and outgamed the younger racer. The time for the mile and seventy yards was 1:45 3-5 over a fast track.

U. S. Retains Jump Trophy at Horse Show

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—After jeopardizing the United States' chance of victory in the team competition last night, Tan Bark tonight carried Lieut. E. F. Thomson to victory over eleven other officers and their mounts from four nations in the international individual military jumping championship at the national horse show.

With two clean performances Tan Bark kept in the United States the trophy won last year by Ugly with Lieut. C. W. Raguse in the saddle. Ugly managed to get into the jump-off tonight, together with Joe Aleshire, a stablemate; Cezar of the French army, and Shannon Power of the Irish Free State, all of which equaled Tan Bark's faultless exhibition the first time over the difficult international course of ten jumps.

Ugly Places Third.

The defending champion could do no better than third, however, finishing behind Cezar with Lieut. Pierre Cavallie up. Fourth went to Joe Aleshire, which had the leader of the United States team, Maj. Tupper Cole, in the saddle, while Shannon Power, with Capt. Daniel Corry up, finished fifth.

Cezar, Ugly, and Joe Aleshire each were charged with four faults in the jump-off, but the French horse made better time, covering the course in 49 4-5 seconds, as compared to 46 1-5 seconds for Ugly and 47 3-5 for Joe Aleshire.

Seaton Pippin Best in Show.

Seaton Pippin, Paul Moore's American bred Hackney mare from Morristown, N. J., won the championship for single harness horses over 14.2 hands and under 15.2. After going undefeated for six years the famous mare is to be retired. The reserve ribbon went to Preston Envoy, shown by William Cox of Cohasset, Mass. Seaton Pippin was later judged the best in the show. It was her 201st victory. Seaton Sappho, a former stablemate from the Woodridge farm of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., won the reserve ribbon.

Flashing American, climaxing a rise from the novice to the championship class within six days, gave Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana farm of Lexington, Ky., the tri-color rosette for three-gaited saddle horses over 15 and not exceeding 15.2 hands. The 3 year old chestnut gelding defeated the highly regarded Likely Lady from Miss Jane Bancroft's Massachusetts stable.

Chicago Pony a Champion.

Following up his stake victory of the afternoon, Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr.'s King of the Plains of Chicago was judged the champion harness pony of the show. The reserve rosette was won by Easterntide, representing J. Macy Cassilis' farm of New Marlboro, Mass.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney won both the $2,000 stake and championship class for hunters, finishing one, two in the first event with Bon Diable and Two Leggins, and accounting for the tri-color rosette with Two Leggins. Mrs. Rigan McKinney, wife of the amateur steeplechaser rider, was in the saddle on both of the winners.

Spencer Girls' Quintet Wins Third in Row, 38-6

The Spencer Coals girls' basketball team defeated the Kelvyn girls' squad, 38 to 6, at Kelvyn park last night. Mary Fandell led the victors, scoring nine baskets. It was Spencer girls' third consecutive victory of the season.

NEW TEAMS PLAY IN OPENING OF K. OF C. SCHEDULE

A new alignment of teams in three of the four divisions, insuring keener competition, will feature the new season of the Knights of Columbus basketball league, which opens Sunday afternoon with sixteen games.

The west division, playing at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street, has been augmented by the addition of Hughes council, which meets Damen, the sectional champion on Sunday's card. Lafayette and Cardinal will make their bow in the north division, which will play its games this year at Loyola gymnasium, while Quigley and Fort Dearborn will play in the south end division at Calumet High school. The south division, which is continuing at White City, will stand pat on the nine teams which competed there last year.

Twenty Grand Through with Race Tracks

BY FRENCH LANE.

Twenty Grand isn't coming back to the race tracks. His comeback this year has been most disappointing, and when he arrived at the Greentree farm in Kentucky a few days ago the weak leg, which sent him into retirement soon after he won the 3 year old championship last year, was causing him more trouble than ever.

Twenty Grand is to become the head sire at the Greentree farm. There probably will be a mating between Twenty Grand and Nea Lap, a sister to the sensational Phar Lap. Nea Lap, imported from New Zealand, arrived at the Greentree Kentucky headquarters a few days ahead of Twenty Grand.

When great American horses are mentioned, most folks class Man O' War, Reigh Count and Twenty Grand as three of the best ever to race in America. Twenty Grand could run fast and far. So could Phar Lap. Breeding experts agree the mating of Twenty Grand and Nea Lap is ideal.

They imported Sherab as a 3 year old from England at a cost of $40,000. He represented the most famous English blood lines. They expected great things of him. He didn't take to our dirt tracks and other American racing methods and was always beaten.

Despite the numerous failures of Sherab the Rockford sportsmen have nominated him for the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap to be run next March and expect him to win the rich prize which Phar Lap ran away with last year.

Sherab can run. His sensational workouts on Chicago tracks last season frequently caused the clockers to think their watches were deceiving them. However, he couldn't run back to the workouts when sent into competition and often was at the eighth pole when his American rivals galloped up to the winning post. He's down in Maryland now and goes in the Somerset purse at Bowie this afternoon.

The management of the Havana Cuba track apparently has become jealous of Agua Caliente's $50,000 handicap. They will run a handicap advertised as worth $50,000 in Cuba on March 12, which is the tentative date for the running of Agua Caliente's rich stake.

The Cuban press agents are more active than those in Mexico. Every day from the Havana press headquarters come reports that a great eastern horse has been named for the Havana stake. Tred Avon, the Maryland champion, is the latest reported entrant for the Cuban race.

CHARITY GETS $28,000 FROM BOWIE TRACK

Bowie, Md., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Closing the charity day programs at Maryland race tracks this year, the Southern Maryland Agricultural association, which operates the Bowie track, today turned approximately $15,000 over to the state and welfare organizations for relief of the unemployed.

A total of about $28,000 has been raised at the track as $13,000 was realized yesterday in the first welcome day races.

The eight days of racing for charity in the state this year netted about $252,000 from 5 per cent of the money wagered in the pari-mutuels, admissions, programs, donations, and concessions.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Outdoor fans who go into the country during November will find it an interesting month. It is the month when nature and many wild creatures put the finishing touches to preparations for winter.

November with a cold, hunter's moon in the sky. . . . The month when the deer hunter goes northward where the fleet pronged bucks run with their mates . . . the month when the first swirling snow flakes tell wild creatures to beware, winter is at hand . . . wild Canadian geese in the sky hurrying from frigid temperatures and snow banks in the north country . . . duck hunters in the marshes where the waterfowl are abundant . . . black bears getting all the food they can in order to store up generous layers of fat for the long hibernation . . . juncos in the weed thickets ready to stay with us during the winter and fill the void caused by the departure of our summer residents.

This is November—the month that leads up to winter, with rabbit hunters and their beagle hounds carrying music into the cornfields and the weed thickets of Chicagoland, while in the north the big snowshoe hare puts on his white coat to be better protected against his enemies.

To one group of wild creatures November is just one more month of the "long sleep." This group is the snakes. They are cold blooded and do not wait for November to come to hibernate. At the first approach of cold weather during October the serpents seek shelter to escape freezing temperatures. Cold weather proves fatal to the reptilian scheme of life. If our memory is correct the temperature of a snake's blood is just about one degree higher than its environment. When the thermometer goes down to 40 degrees or so Mr. Snake is just barely making a go of it. This is why many quail hunters in the south have practically no trouble with their dogs running into reptiles when the winter brings cool weather down there. During a hot winter more snakes are abroad.

When autumn brings a hint of cold weather reptiles seek winter quarters. Deep fissures or crevices are especially favored as places to escape frosts and enjoy the long winter's sleep. In the west in the rattlesnake country one may find a fissure or small cave that has been used by snakes for countless years. In winter there may be scores of reptiles sleeping in such a shelter, every one almost lifeless until warm spring days revive them.

Jim McMillen Throws Dusek in 31 Minutes

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, threw Rudy Dusek, Omaha heavyweight, in a one fall match at the Coliseum last night after 31 minutes and 33 seconds of interesting wrestling. Thirteen hundred and ninety-one paid $2,173 to see the bout.

McMillen and Dusek were disqualified after an exhibition at the Coliseum two months ago for slugging and were suspended by the Illinois athletic commission. They were reinstated by the commission and allowed to go through with the bout last night by promising to wrestle cleanly. The promise may have held down the attendance, but it didn't prevent McMillen and the Omaha Pole from using every rough tactic available to subdue the other.

McMillen was the aggressor during the first 10 minutes of the match and seemed an easy winner, but then Dusek settled down to his job. He dropped the Antioch, Ill., wrestler heavily with a series of body slams and punished him severely with toe holds and body scissors. At the 20 minute mark Dusek apparently had evened the match. From then on, however, McMillen weakened Dusek with flying tackles and eventually threw him with a body slam.

George Zaharias, Pueblo, Col., 248 pounds, and Everett Marshall, La Junta, Col., 214, wrestled a half hour to a draw. Zaharias used his usual rough tactics throughout the bout and Everett was the sentimental favorite to win. When the decision was announced the crowd booed. Other results:

Jack Smith threw Sun Jennings.

INJURIES FORCE MONMOUTH TO REBUILD FOR KNOX

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Monmouth set to work today to rebuild its football team for the final game against Knox on Thanksgiving day. With seven regulars probably out of the lineup, injuries sustained in Bradley game and those suffered in former games have wrecked first string lineup. The coaching staff is trying out substitutes to find a new combination to stop the Knox running and passing attack. Both York and McDaniels, regular tackles, must be replaced and a substitute must be found for Grills at end. The back field is without the services of Bell, Speer, Boothby and Bouxsein. Bell, whose work in early games was outstanding, has failed to recover sufficient from injuries, while Speers again suffered an injury to his ankle at Bradley.

The outstanding game is between Wabash and De Pauw at Greencastle. It will be their thirty-sixth clash since 1891, Wabash having won 20 and three having been ties. De Pauw routed Franklin a week ago, but Wabash went scoreless to tie Franklin in October.

BUTLER STUDENT LEADER DEPOSED FOR GRID RIOT

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Harry Weaver, president of the senior class of Butler university, was barred from student activities and removed from office by the deans' council today. He was said to have been the leader of a mass demonstration in which free entrance to downtown motion picture houses was the goal, following Butler's football victory over Franklin college on Oct. 31. Penalties were imposed on more than 100 other students who engaged in the riotous celebration.

officer high in the national service, for engaging in a pleasure fight with the Cambridge police one evening.

In the days before the adoption of the uniform cap, a policeman's tarkettle was a precious trophy at Harvard, but etiquette always required that the young man who carried off the trophy should send the officer a check for a new helmet and a case of beer the next day, as the Harvards were generally well to do and the policemen's pay was small. The check was the gentlemanly amend, and, as the police were gentlemen and sportsmen themselves, the late adversaries in often cases became firm friends, with mutual respect, over a few saucers of sedative upder legal conditions.

Say Cops Spoiled Party.

But that last Harvard-Princeton fight, with the Cambridge police involved as an extraneous element, left the Princetons resentful. They said the policemen were a disturbing factor and brought rancor into an otherwise cordial and intimate pathetic party. Princeton challenged the social taste of the Harvards in inviting them in.

At Princeton, now, I have seen only one policeman in the last two fights and he seemed to be only a rooter.

Yes, I think they have a big thing there and if they will just say the word I will take the matter up with the Garden firm and see what can be done toward building up the interest and selling the show to the public for $25 per head.

MINNESOTA CUTS SEAT PRICES FOR MICHIGAN GAME

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Prices for the Minnesota-Michigan game in Memorial stadium here Saturday were reduced today. Seats in the curved end of the stadium, which heretofore have sold for $2.75 for Big Ten conference contests, will be placed on sale at $1.65, it was announced.

More than 30,000 are expected to attend. The cut is the third this season. However, the other reduced prices were for nonconference games. The reduction for the Michigan game is the first for a conference attraction since the stadium was built in 1924.

LEVINSKY SIGNS FOR FIGHT WITH CARNERA NOV. 30

Fronton Winner on Friday to Meet Griffith.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, and Primo Carnera, 265 pound Italian boxer, will meet in a 10 round match at the Chicago Stadium on Nov. 30. Mrs. Lena Levy, sister-manager of Levinsky, signed for the bout yesterday. Carnera had accepted terms previously. The huge Italian scored a decision over Levinsky at the Stadium last year.

Levinsky has started training at Trafton's gymnasium. Carnera is in New York where he boxes José Santa on Friday. Primo will arrive in Chicago to begin workouts next week.

The winner of the Biff Bennett-Buck Everett 10 round contest at the Rambo Fronton Friday night will meet Tuffy Griffith, Chicago heavyweight, at the Fronton next month, Grant Kromenaker, promoter, announced last night.

Everett boxed four rounds yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium, two each with Max Marek, Catholic Youth middleweight champion, and Seal Harris, south side heavyweight. Bennett is drilling at Fort Sheridan. He is a member of the Illinois National Guard.

Irving Goldstein and Georgie Franks will clash in a feature bout of an amateur show Friday night at the 24th Ward club, 3242 Roosevelt road. Seven other matches will be arranged by Matchmaker Harry Weiss. Proceeds from the show will be distributed among poor families of the ward.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, accompanied by his father and several Chicago friends, will leave today for Hot Springs, Ark., to rest for two weeks. Canzoneri said negotiations for a match with Jimmy McLarnin at New York late next month are temporarily halted, due to McLarnin's refusal to weigh less than 147 pounds.

Dick Sisk boxes at Detroit next Wednesday night. . . . Billy Henry, former south side junior lightweight, was buried at Brooklyn last Thursday, it was learned yesterday. Henry fought Sammy Mandell, Mike Dundee, Sid Terris and Frankie Schaeffer in Chicago before going to Brooklyn eight years ago. . . . Charlie Belanger, Canadian heavyweight, will head a show at Pittsburgh Nov. 25. . . . Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, and Prince Saunders will headline a card at Detroit Nov. 25. Retzlaff will meet Frankie Wine and Saunders will fight Tracy Cox of Indianapolis. . . . Max Marek, who is entered in the light heavyweight division in the Catholic youth organization boxing tournament, will enter Notre Dame after he is graduated from Lindblom high school next February.

Quarter-Finals Near in C. Y. O. Boxing Tourney

Quarter finals in the Catholic Youth organization's amateur boxing tournament are scheduled for next week. The winners will qualify for the semi-finals and finals on Dec. 2 at Chicago Stadium.

The first quarter final card will be held Monday night at De La Salle academy gymnasium in Joliet. There the 32 sectional champions of Will and Kankakee counties will trade punches.

On Tuesday night north section fighters will clash at the new C. Y. O. athletic center, 31 East Congress street. The following night the C. Y. O. center will be host to the boys of south side parishes. On Friday night the west side fighters will be on display.

Packy McFarland, who since the start of the tournament some weeks ago has been referee, godfather, and boxing adviser to 1,534 boys who entered competition, last night declared that never before in his long career as a ring general and boxer has he seen such spectacular fighting as that which is taking place almost nightly in various sectional preliminaries.

So far the tournament has yielded 96 district champions with 32 more to qualify tomorrow night when the amateurs from the west suburban districts mingle at Fenwick High school in Oak Park.

HORSE TRAINER, OWNER SHOOTS SELF IN HEART.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—William R. Midgley, owner of a small stable and a trainer of thoroughbreds, who was suspended at Empire City track, was found dead in his home today. His body was found by his wife, who said she heard the report of a gun, ran to the bathroom and discovered he had been shot through the heart.

Midgley, prior to the shooting, was reported to have lost a stop watch, valued at $175 in a holdup. Police were investigating the holdup and had arrested two men when the report of Midgley's death reached them.

Midgley, who trained the stable of C. J. Eisenhardt, was suspended when he sent Portam to the post in a race at Empire City in what the officials said was "an unfit racing condition."

ILLINOIS HOLDS LENGTHY INDOOR DRILL FOR OHIO

Team Confident It Will Win from Buckeyes.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A heavy snow drove the Illinois varsity football squad indoors today, but did not lessen the conviction prevailing here that Ohio State will be listed under the category of Illini victims after Saturday's game. One of the hardest practice sessions of the year was meted out, despite the handicap of a sawdust underfooting.

Chuck Bennis continued to fill in at right guard as an understudy to Ack Bodman, who was to have been the regular starter all season. Bodman is nursing injuries which are not expected to keep him out of the Ohio game, his last as an Illini.

Howard Johnson was the other guard in the absence of Hal Petty, who with Joe Van Dyke has been waging a nip and tuck battle for the assignment. Bart Cummings and Red Cragg were again the tackle choices and seem to be fixtures in these positions.

The veterans Casey Straw and Ivan Schustek were the ends. Coach Bob Zuppke seems to be set on the backfield which started against Indiana with Jack Beynon calling signals, Johnny Snook at full back, and Capt. Gil Berry and Frank Froschauer at the halves. Jack Cravens was groomed as a possible alternate for Froschauer and ran signals part of the time with the first string.

Notwithstanding the comparatively hard floor of the stadium hall, an abbreviated form of scrimmage was held with a picked freshman squad using Ohio plays. Defense against pass formations attracted the bulk of the play.

BUCKEYES RESUME DRILLS.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Practice activity was resumed in the Ohio State football camp today with the varsity scrimmaging the reserves, the latter demonstrating Illinois pass plays.

A few members of the Buckeye varsity were under the lamps, various slight injuries being treated, including Hinchman, Varner, Oliphant, and Cramer, although none was seriously hurt.

The Buckeye team has come through its eight consecutive games in unusually good physical condition and will be able to present full strength against the Illini Saturday.

May Play Case, Western Reserve.

The possibility of a game with Case or Western Reserve in the Cleveland stadium was renewed today when L. W. St. John, Buckeye athletic director, admitted that challenges from either of the two schools would be considered favorably. The Buckeyes played Case last in 1918 and Western Reserve last in 1915.

Ohio State will leave for Illinois Thursday morning, a day earlier than usual, for an out of town trip.

NUSS RETAINS SECOND PLACE IN CUE TOURNEY

George Nuss of Atlantic City retained second place in the all star pocket billiard tournament at the Bensinger Randolph room yesterday when he defeated Walter Franklin of Kansas City, southern sectional champion, 100 to 88, in 23 innings. Nuss had a high run of 32 and Franklin a 38. In the other games Joseph McCann of Detroit defeated Coy Julian of Springfield, Ill., 100 to 72, in 17 innings. McCann had a high run of 54 to 32 for Julian.

Two more games today will wind up the tournament. At 3 o'clock this afternoon Major White of Chicago meets Pasquale Natalle of Chicago, northern sectional champion, who leads the standing with six victories and no defeats, and at 8 o'clock this evening Natalle and Nuss will play the final game. The standing:

	W.	L.	High run
Natalle, Chicago	6	0	37
Nuss, Atlantic City	6	1	60
McCann, Detroit	5	3	54
Julian, Springfield	4	4	48
Allen, Kansas City	4	4	57
Franklin, Kansas City	3	5	38
White, Chicago	2	5	42
Collingwood, Asheville, N. C.	2	6	46

JACK PARKER GETS DECISION OVER MICKEY O'SHEA

Jordan Withdraws from World's Title Cue Tourney

Charles Jordan, Hollywood, Cal., who won the western sectional pocket billiard championship, will not compete in the world's title tournament at New York next month. Business affairs have forced Jordan to withdraw from the meet. James F. Mills, San Jose, Cal., who was runner up in the sectional tournament, will replace Jordan.

Training Season Is On; Simmons at Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Al Simmons, Chicago White Sox outfielder, formerly with the Philadelphia Athletics, is getting ready here for a big season. Simmons arrived here today with Ralph Shinners, Milwaukee player, and will begin training tomorrow.

"I am 20 pounds overweight, but it will be an easy matter to get rid of the excess in the baths, hiking over the mountains, and playing golf and tennis," Simmons said. "That is what I am going to do for the next three weeks. I'll be in first class condition and my one ambition is to give the White Sox my best efforts.

"BALLISTICS" IS THE SCIENCE OF DETERMINING WHAT GUN A BULLET CAME FROM BY THE MARKINGS MADE ON THE LEAD AS IT LEAVES THE GUN-BARRELL, UNDERSTAND? I SHALL COMPARE THAT BULLET WITH THIS ONE TAKEN FROM MY BACK AND IN THAT WAY DETERMINE IF THIS IS THE GUN THAT SHOT ME.

Lund Learns He Has Broken Rib; Out a Day

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—X-ray pictures today revealed Francis [Pug] Lund, Minnesota's triple threat backfield star, has been playing for the last four weeks with a fractured rib. Lund complained of pain after the rib was smashed in the Wisconsin game last Saturday.

Lund, as well as medical experts, believe he will be at his usual left half back position against Michigan here Saturday. Lund watched today's practice, but expects to be in uniform tomorrow.

Champlin continued to play left half today with Proffitt at right, Hass at quarter and Tengler and Manders alternating at full back. Bruhn's left guard position was taken over by Dennerly. Most of the day's practice was on new plays.

MICHIGAN BUILDS DEFENSE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The annual game between the freshmen from the literary college and those taking physical education was played today in three inches of snow, the Lit freshmen winning, 6 to 0. David Hunn of Elkhart, Ind., scored the touchdown on a 30 yard runback of a punt.

STADIUM GIRDS FOR SUIT; DENY COMPROMISE TALK

Arthur Dixon, attorney for the Chicago Stadium corporation, said last night a legal technicality and not a reopening of negotiations with the Blackhawks had prevented filing of the Stadium's contemplated suit against the hockey team on grounds of breach of contract.

Reports circulated yesterday indicated Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawks, and Sidney N. Strotz, Stadium president, had resumed negotiations to reestablish the Hawks in the Stadium. The Hawks opened the season Sunday night at the Coliseum.

Dixon said he had not been informed of any conference between Strotz and McLaughlin and that he was going forward with plans to start suit for $150,000 in Superior court Friday.

McLaughlin was quoted as saying he would gladly return his team to the Stadium if the Stadium would make him a proposition whereby he could operate the club at a profit. The lease, which McLaughlin contends has been broken by the Stadium, and which the Stadium in turn declares McLaughlin has ignored, calls for a straight rental of $4,500 per game, against $900 per game at the Coliseum.

Bears Battle St. Louis in Night Game

The Chicago Bears football team will play the Mound City Gunners tomorrow night in St. Louis, the game taking the place of the regular two scrimmage sessions for this week.

The squad will return to Chicago immediately after the game and practice Friday for the game with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Wrigley field Sunday.

While Benny Friedman, who has promised to be present Sunday, is the chief concern of the Bears, they are not forgetting Jack Grossman, the new Dodger half back who stepped from Rutgers to stardom as a pro.

Grossman Grabs Passes.

Grossman is one of the most effective pass receivers in the league. The Friedman to Grossman combination will be seen by Chicago fans for the first time Sunday.

The Bears sprung a surprise on the fans last Sunday in the person of John Doehring. John probably can throw a pass farther than any man in the league and with accuracy, too.

Doehring came to the Bears on his own and was allowed to work out with the team. Finally Coach Ralph Jones began to take notice of him and from then on the husky lad showed signs of real ability.

Doehring played football in high school in Milwaukee, but never had the advantage of college training. Despite that, his natural ability has won him a berth on a club.

Semi-Pros to Meet.

The game between the Monarchs and Austin Bears, which will precede the National league game Sunday, involves two of the best semi-pro clubs in Chicago. The Monarchs have lost only seven games out of 44 and the Austin Bears are undefeated this year.

The rivals have met three times. In 1931 the Monarchs won the first game, 14 to 0, and the second game was a scoreless tie. This year the Bears won, 6 to 0.

The kickoff for the Brooklyn-Bears game will be 15 minutes earlier than usual, or at 2 o'clock.

Allison, Van Ryn Advance in Sydney Net Tourney

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 15.—Rain today failed to halt the marches of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn of the United States to the South Wales tennis championship. Allison defeated A. Willard, 6-3, 6-8, 7-5, 6-4, while Van Ryn won from B. Moore, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 before rain stoped the day's second round play.

A. A. Chiefs to Meet in Indianapolis Today

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the American association will meet in the offices of Norman Perry, owner of the Indianapolis club, tomorrow to make plans for the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, which will be held in Columbus, O., next month.

Wisconsin Will Present Plaque to Stagg at Game

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A. A. Stagg, University of Chicago football coach, will be presented with a plaque when the University of Wisconsin meets the Maroons at Chicago Saturday. The Milwaukee "W" club is handling details of the presentation. Walter Alexander, former Badger athlete and a member of the Wisconsin athletic board, will present the plaque to Stagg.

Snow Saves Purdue from Hard Drill

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—A snow storm that started at noon today following an all night rain forced Coach Noble Kizer to substitute a comparatively light drill for the hard scrimmage session which had been planned for the Purdue football team. In an effort to build a defense for Indiana's end running and passing attack, the varsity was given a lengthy workout against a freshman eleven using Crimson plays.

Weather conditions provided added worries for Kizer as he directed the drill for the Crimson eleven which always has been a thorn in Purdue's side. "If this weather keeps up," Kizer said, "Indiana's 200 pound line will knock our running attack to pieces, for the backs will not be able to find any firm footing.

One note of cheer was provided with the return to uniform of Doxie Moore, right half back, who had been shelved for five weeks with a broken collar bone. Moore may get into shape by Saturday to bolster the reserve back field.

Jim Carter, fleet half back, who has been ill since the New York university game, will be unable to play against the Hoosiers.

HOOSIERS GO INDOORS.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Indiana's football squad escaped the rain this afternoon for drilling in the fieldhouse with freshmen elevens demonstrating Purdue plays. The varsity took the defensive most of the time in scrimmage.

The Indiana line stopped the thrusts of the frosh, with Dustin McDonald and John Kechich doing the best work. On offense Indiana worked on off-tackle drives and a few end run plays.

GRID LOSSES TO DELAY BADGERS' MINOR SPORTS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Because football receipts have fallen about $45,000 below estimates of University of Wisconsin ticket officials, minor sports which were stricken from the institution's athletic program probably will have no chance of being reinstated.

Several minor sports were eliminated last May when plans for the school year were formulated. Among them are crew, swimming, water polo, golf, wrestling, hockey and gymnastics. If football receipts were sufficiently high some of these sports might be recreated, officials said, but under the circumstances there is virtually no chance of this.

If the attendance at the game with Chicago Saturday exceeds anticipations the loss may be reduced to $40,000, it is said. Only the game with Marquette drew a larger attendance than was expected.

SEVEN DE PAUL MEN PLAY LAST GAME SATURDAY

All will appear in the starting lineup against the Dakotans with the exception of Butcher, who is suffering from an injury to his wrist.

The Dakotans have two fast backs in Pierce and Knauf and yesterday's practice was designed to stop this pair, who have been important factors in making North Dakota's record of only three defeats in three years.

North Dakota, which has won the Central Intercollegiate conference championship for the last five seasons, uses the Warner double wing back system. De Paul employs the Notre Dame style.

Frank Walsh, Pro at Bryn Mawr, Weds in New York

Frank Walsh, professional at the Bryn Mawr Country club, and Miss Mabel Donaldson of White Plains, N. Y., were married last Thursday at St. Bernard's church, New York City. This was revealed yesterday by Tom Walsh, his eldest brother, who is professional at the Westgate Valley Country club. The latter said that the news came as a surprise, although Frank and Miss Donaldson had announced their engagement recently. They are now motoring from New York to San Francisco where the bridegroom will compete in the match play tournament Dec. 7. Walsh will continue along the coast in the regular winter golf campaign, including the Los Angeles and Agua Caliente open tournaments.

Frank is one of the leading professionals of the central states, having just completed his third year at Bryn Mawr and one of his most successful as a competitor. He was the sensation of the National P. G. A. tournament at St. Paul, where he went to the championship match before losing to Olin Dutra. His bride is an accomplished golfer. Her talent comes naturally, for her father is Jimmy Donaldson, veteran professional.

79,403 to See Stanford Play California U.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—With nothing more at stake than the settlement of an annual rivalry, Stanford and California will meet at Berkeley Saturday in a football game that will draw the largest crowd and the most money of any contest thus far this season.

The crowd of 79,403, which is all Memorial stadium holds, will pay approximately $389,000 to watch the thirty-eighth annual encounter. Taxable tickets will net the government around $35,400.

The game, played alternately at Stanford and California, has been a sell out since 1923. In the Stanford stadium it draws 88,000.

This season for the first time in nine years tickets were put on public sale, but there were only 4,000 of these and half of the allotment had been snapped up today. Officials anticipated no trouble getting rid of the rest before Saturday.

Besides the seats in the enclosure, space will be sold on Tightwad hill, overlooking the stadium and the Saturday mecca of small boys and others not able to meet admission prices. This space will cost 40 cents per foothold. Perhaps a thousand rooters will clamber up the hill.

Each team has been kicked around the gridiron this season, with Stanford losing three conference games and California two, to date. But despite the unimpressive season, the old grads are hiking home from all parts of the world. Ticket applications were received from Switzerland, Honolulu, Argentina, Brazil, and many other sections of the world.

SWEENEY, GOLF STAR, TO MARRY BRITISH HEIRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The engagement of Charles Sweeney, young American amateur golfer, now living in England, to Miss Margaret Whigham, young London heiress, was announced tonight.

Sweeney is 22 years old and a former student at Oxford. He has played golf frequently with the prince of Wales.

Miss Whigham, who is 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hay Whigham of Ascot. Whigham belongs to a famous banking and military family and only recently returned from America. Announcement of the engagement had been delayed until his return.

Miss Whigham was the central figure in a romantic engagement to the young earl of Warwick and Brooke, whom she met while touring Egypt. The engagement was announced last March, but was broken off within a month.

Brocardo and Guimbretiere Win Paris Six Day Race

Purple Worry Over Defense Against Passes

Yesterday's snow made it impossible for Northwestern's football team to work outside, precluding the coach's plans to work on pass defense. Pug Rentner was a key man in this department and when he left the lineup it became necessary to drill Harry Leeper.

With Leeper not thoroughly schooled in aerial defense and Jakie Sullivan physically handicapped against taller opponents, Iowa may find its passing attack unusually effective Saturday in the final game at Dyce stadium.

Rentner's absence also will cripple the Purple offense, since many of Northwestern's plays were built especially for him.

Al Kawal's play as a guard in the Notre Dame game has earned him a regular position. This works out nicely, as George Potter has returned to take over the quarter back position, which Kawal filled from time to time.

Ten men will be playing their final game for Northwestern Saturday. This number does not include Capt. Rentner, who is definitely out of the lineup. They include George Dilley, guard, and Bob Gonya, tackle, both of Chicago; Paul MacDonald, center, Evanston; Harold Weldin, center, Peoria, Ill., and Dick Fencl, end, of Cicero, all varsity men.

Others who will make their final appearance are Clif Kender, guard, Anna, Ill.; Jimmie Pindrich, half back, Paw Paw, Mich.; Joe Larocque, guard, William Lehnhardt, half back, and Edwin Dubsy, full back, all of Chicago.

COLD HAMPERS HAWKEYES.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Defensive work against Northwestern plays on the frozen University of Iowa practice field occupied the Hawkeyes' time today.

Only touch scrimmage against a freshman team was ordered as a precaution against injuries. Wilmon Hass, former guard who played full back in the last two games, was sent back to the line, and Francis [Zud] Schammel, first string tackle alternated with Bernard Page at full back. Teyro was at quarter back, Joe Laws at left half. Herman Schneidman and Howard Masden shared the other half back position. Schneidman is badly bruised and may not start against Northwestern.

29 Horses Bring $3,140 Total at Lexington Sale

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Twenty-nine of 40 horses owned by the late W. S. Dudley, Lexington, were sold for $3,140 at today's sale. Herbert Woolf, Kansas City, purchased Stitches, chestnut mare, for $250, and Paul Mayo, Denver, bought Normana, bay mare, for $175.

IRISH SQUAD IS SNOWBOUND IN GYM THESE DAYS

Cover Cleveland Field

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A huge tarpaulin, hauled in two trucks, arrived here today from the Notre Dame fieldhouse at South Bend, Ind., and was immediately placed on the playing field of Cleveland stadium to insure dry footing for the Notre Dame-Navy football game next Saturday.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Six inches of snow on the campus will force Notre Dame to make all its preparations indoors for Saturday's game with the Navy. A defensive dummy scrimmage indoors against Navy plays occupied the squad today.

The team will leave Thursday. Meanwhile, fair skies in Cleveland sent the ticket sale booming and a crowd of 60,000 seems assured, with an outside chance of selling the 23,000 additional seats available.

Coach Heartly Anderson said today he believes the Notre Dame players have finally come to realize their own shortcomings and that they may be expected to play better football from now on.

The Boys Must Learn.

"Pittsburgh, Kansas, and Northwestern showed them that they have a lot to learn and that they have to fight every minute to win ball games," Anderson said.

Anderson said Navy scouting reports show that the Middies allowed a net gain of only six yards to Maryland Saturday, in winning a 28 to 7 victory over practically the same eleven which beat Navy, 6 to 0, last year.

The game will be in the nature of a homecoming for five members of the Irish squad, four of them regulars, and Capt. Jim Reedy of Navy. Coach Edgar [Rip] Miller of Navy, a Notre Dame tackle in 1924, played his first football at McKinley High of Cleveland.

Anderson said there will be no changes on his lineup this week, but that showings in Saturday's game will have important bearing on the alignment against the Army and Southern California.

Thousands of Homes Razed by Terrific Storm.

TOKIO, Nov. 16 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—Fifty-three known deaths were listed today as caused by Monday's typhoon, but the total was expected to be much larger with belated reports showing 300 to 350 persons missing.

The death toll was increased with reports from Ibaraki prefecture that 20 persons were killed there. The new totals given out by the home office included 43 seriously injured and 62 missing, including fishermen at sea. Newspaper dispatches, however, indicated maritime deaths were likely to exceed official estimates with fishing ports along the Pacific reporting 40 boats with crews totaling 250 men unreturned.

In addition, 58 men were reported missing after two freighters foundered. The freighter Genchu Maru, 3,200 tons, was reported to have sunk off Izu peninsula. Seven of the crew were rescued and 36 were missing. The freighter Unkai Maru went aground on Oshima island. Nine men were rescued but 22 others aboard were feared lost.

15 Die in Landslide.

The typhoon zone included the prefectures of Tokio, Chiba, Kanagawa, Shizuoka and Fukushima. In Kanagawa prefecture, which takes in the cities of Yokohama and Yokosuka, there were 15 deaths, and in Tokio proper there were three. Landslides accounted for most of the victims.

In Tokio prefecture more than 760 houses were destroyed and 2,000 were badly damaged. In the city of Tokio 40,000 houses were flooded.

The main strength of the Japanese navy, anchored off Yokosuka, felt the fury of the gale, which lasted all night. The air carrier Hosho and the destroyer Asagiri broke their anchor chains and collided. Both were slightly damaged.

Destroyer Blown Ashore.

The destroyer Ikazauchi was blown ashore but was refloated later with only minor damage. The cruiser Nishin drifted into contact with the unfinished aircraft carrier Ryujo. The Ryujo was damaged.

Several launches and other small craft at the naval base were swamped and foundered, and the aviation and other naval establishments ashore nearby did not escape unscathed.

The battleship Nagato and other capital ships were so buffeted that they threatened to break their anchor chains. They prepared to steam to sea but found it would be unnecessary.

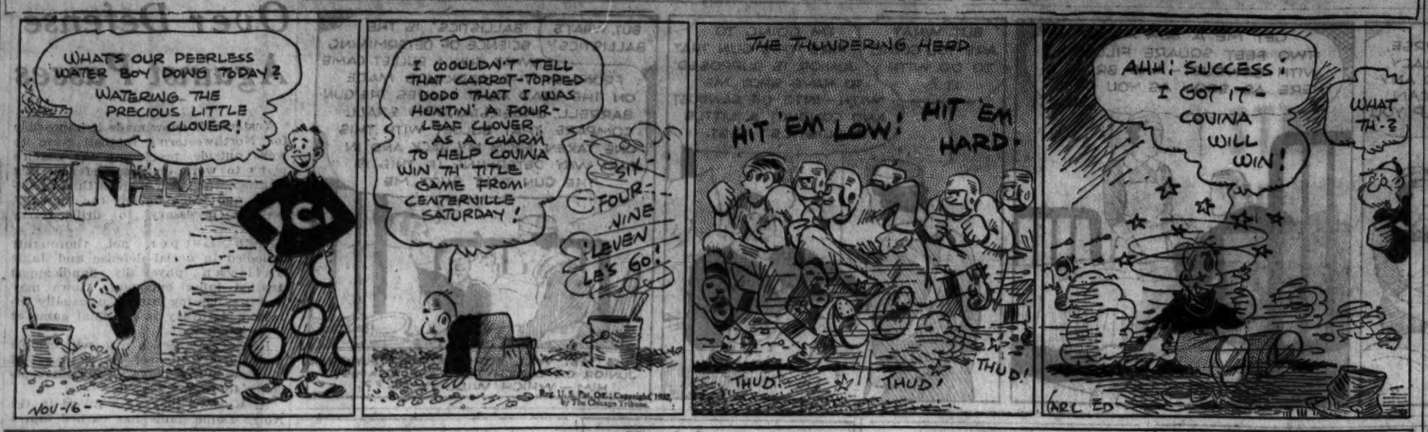
HAROLD TEEN—THE GAME IS IN THE BAG



NAVAL OFFICER ENDED LIFE WITH POISON, CORONER'S DECISION

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A verdict of probable suicide was returned by the Norfolk city coroner following an inquest today in the death of Lieut. [J. G.] Jack W. Ames, U. S. N.

His body was found in a downtown hotel here on Nov. 2. Dr. C. D. J. MacDonald, coroner, said the naval officer died of a poison, the character of which at this time "is unknown to the coroner."

A pint flask found beside the body of Lieut. Ames contained an amber fluid which when analyzed by experts in the Norfolk Health department laboratory was shown to be composed of whisky, paregoric, aromatic spirts of ammonia and another element, baffled all attempts at identification.

Coroner's Investigator Leon Nowitzky testified an investigation conducted by him revealed that Ames had a wife living on the Pacific coast, was recently married to another woman living in Washington, D. C., and was keeping company with a third woman, living in Norfolk.

Nowitzky said that Ames had carried a large amount of life insurance and that recently he had made his second wife his beneficiary instead of his legal wife on the Pacific coast.

He had applied for a 30 day leave of absence in September, and was to have reported for duty at the naval base here the day before he was found dead in the hotel room.

H. F. M'CORMICK IN HOSPITAL FOR AN EXAMINATION

Friends and associates of Harold F. McCormick, who was reported yesterday from Baltimore to have entered Johns Hopkins hospital there, yesterday professed to have no information about his health. The physician who attends him in Chicago was reported to be out of town, and neither his office at the International Harvester company, which he heads, nor his residence at 675 Rush street, appeared to have any information.

To Baltimore newspapermen who made inquiries from him personally Mr. McCormick said that he had entered the Marburg building at the hospital, under the care of Dr. Hugh H. Young, merely for observation and a general examination. He added: "There is nothing wrong. I came here alone yesterday from New York—just wanted to rest up for a few days." He appeared to be in excellent spirits, but declined to add anything to the brief explanation he made.

Mr. McCormick was formerly the husband of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. He subsequently married Mme. Ganna Walska, from whom he is divorced.

Guardians of Stanley McCormick, heir to harvester millions, who was declared incompetent to manage his affairs in 1906, filed their report of expenditures for the year 1931 yesterday before Joseph J. Lisack, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Expenses of the estate and reinvestments consumed all but $6,728 of the $2,844,201 gross income received during the year.

The largest item in the account, listed as general expense, was $1,847,096. This included the legal fees in the expensive court fight which Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of Mr. McCormick, conducted to be declared sole guardian of her husband. It also included her own allowance of $300,000 a year, a large part of which goes to charities and institutions engaged in research into mental ailments.

The personal expenses of Mr. McCormick, who is under the care of nurses and physicians at Riven Rock estate, Montecito, Cal., were $126,645. Improvements to that estate, and taxes paid upon it, were $484,549. The remaining expenditures consisted of $358,869 in taxes and improvements on other properties held by the estate, and $50,311 reinvested in securities.

W. A. JONES DIES; STANDARD OIL SALES VETERAN

The oil industry gave Mr. Jones, who was known to his friends as "Commodore," credit for revolutionizing the kerosene lamp business. From 1927 to 1930 he was the advance agent for the Standard Oil company's first airplane on good will tours through the middle west.

Mr. Jones is survived by his widow and one daughter. Funeral services will be held at the chapel at 730 East 62d street tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

An acquaintance who called at the office to accompany Kater to St. Genevieve's church found him dead in his office chair. Heart disease apparently was the cause.

ROBT. BROOKINGS, SCHOOL FOUNDER, DIES AT CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Robert Somers Brookings, 82, who as an orphaned youth of 17 went west to begin a career which brought him international eminence as a business man, philanthropist, and educator, died shortly before noon today at his home here after an illness of two weeks.

The life of Mr. Brookings, who was born in Cecil county, Maryland, Jan. 22, 1850, divided itself into three periods—his active business career in St. Louis from 1866 to 1897, his educational activities as president of Washington university in St. Louis, and his work and subsequent educational and research activities in the capital. His only formal education was received at West Nottingham academy.

Mr. Brookings went to St. Louis as a youth of 17, with a letter of introduction to Samuel Cupples, head of a wooden ware firm there. Before he was 22 he was a partner in the firm and for the next 18 years devoted himself to business in such a matter that he amassed a fortune. His activities extended to banking, transportation and real estate as well as manufacturing.

He was the founder of the Brookings institution and the Brookings school of economics and government. His honorary degrees included LL. D., A. M., M. D. and others from such institutions as Yale, Harvard, University of Missouri and Washington university.

BROKERS JOIN CORD'S GROUP IN PROXY FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—The proxy fight for the control of Aviation corporation continued unabated today, with the E. L. Cord interests jubilant over winning the backing of R. F. Hutton & Co. Alan J. Lowrey, a partner in the Hutton company, joined the Cord proxy committee.

Some idea of the intensity of the fight between Mr. Cord and his associates against eastern bankers, directors, and management of the Aviation corporation was found in the fact that the stock loan dealers on the New York stock exchange were lending at a premium of $1 per 100 shares. This indicated that the floating supply is being exhausted.

Directors Hold Meeting.

At the same time directors of Aviation corporation met this afternoon to prepare for a board meeting next Tuesday, at which time a vote will be taken to decide whether the 33 additional directors demanded by Mr. Cord will be added to the board.

Today's board meeting had been scheduled as the one at which ownership of Aviation corporation would be decided, but a Delaware court decision restrained the directors from voting until Nov. 22, at which time Mr. Cord will have arrived from California to conduct his own fight. Members of both factions said today's meeting considered only routine matters.

Mr. Cord objects to the proposed purchase of most of the assets of North American Aviation, Inc., by Aviation corporation through issuance of 1,997,776 shares of new stock.

Predict Widespread Effect.

Mr. Cord's tilt with the eastern banking group has aroused wide interest in financial communities and is expected to have far reaching effects on the aviation industry.

L. B. Manning, executive vice president of the Cord corporation, said the Nov. 22 meeting would determine definitely whether the 33 Cord directors would be added to the board. The Cord forces claim they have more than 850,000 shares of Aviation stock out of a total outstanding of 2,770,000 shares, and that many large stockholders have pledged full support.

"North American will not be purchased," said Mr. Manning. We mean business. And we can put it over."

Plan to Fly Freight.

Mr. Manning said the Cord interests planned to fly freight just about as cheap as the railroads could haul it and that they would meet the railroads at their own rates.

"That's the kind of aviation we're going to give this country," said Mr. Manning.

"We've got 5½ million dollars invested in Aviation corporation and only two million dollars in Stinson Airplane company," said the Cord executive. "We are not trying to take over Aviation corporation to sell it our own airplanes. We are not that kind of business men. We want the corporation to buy its equipment where it can get it cheapest and best, regardless of the source.

In other words, Mr. Manning explained, the Cord interests propose to put the airplane industry on a self-supporting, mass production basis.

Discuss Bylaws' Effect.

The question arose today as to the ruling of Aviation corporation bylaws regarding the holding of stockholders' meetings. Representatives of the Cord interests said that ten days' notice to stockholders was necessary. It was further held that stockholders who vote at the meeting must be of record 20 days before the meeting. Thus a stockholders' meeting could not be called before the Nov. 22 directors' meeting.

"Inasmuch as North American Aviation, Inc., undoubtedly will not go through with the deal in case the Cord interests become dominant," the Aviation corporation stated, "in the affairs of Aviation corporation, the date of the stockholders' meeting to consider North American Aviation's acquisition probably will be set at a date after the stockholders have voted on the proposed increase of Cord interests in the board.

Proxy Battle Rages.

Individual ownership of Aviation corporation shares runs from one to 83,000 shares, and there are 28,000 shareholders, it was learned. More than 4,000 cities are represented on the shareholders' map, and today telephone, telegraph and postal services were being used to in the proxy battle despite an agreement by counsel at the Delaware hearing that no further effort to secure proxies would be made until after the Nov. 22 meeting.

The support of the Hutton company for Cord in the ownership contest was outlined in a 16 page booklet. It sketches Mr. Cord's background, the record of his corporations and the outlook for Aviation corporation should the Cord interests succeed to the management. Attention is called to Mr. Cord's larger investment in Aviation corporation than in any of his aircraft manufacturing companies.

A.T.&T. EXPECTED TO PAY REGULAR $2.25 QUARTERLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share by the American Telephone and Telegraph company directors at the meeting tomorrow now is confidently predicted by well informed interests, although up until the last few days it was admitted that more uncertainty clouded this week's action than any other previous declaration of the year.

U. S. Assailed as Banker and Manufacturer

New York, Nov. 15.—The federal government's increasing activity in the manufacture of materials which it consumes, in competition with private manufacturers, and its entrance into the banking field through loans to industries were criticized today before the National Association of Manufacturers at the annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Calling upon "the business men of the entire country" to protest to their congressmen "so earnestly that not only will they prevent the further enlargement of government competition, but will recall the production and service of government departments to their appropriate limits," B. L. Winchell of Remington Rand, Inc., made the following recommendations:

The government ought not to engage either directly or through subsidies in the manufacture, production or purchase of commodities or supplies for sale or resale in competition with private enterprise.

It ought to procure commodities and supplies for all its uses from the commercial and industrial world.

Raps Farm Board.

Herbert L. Bodman, former president of the New York Produce exchange, criticized the federal farm board for its activity in the grain business through the Grain Stabilization corporation and the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania said that one of the principal causes for the government's intrusion in business was the adoption of the 16th amendment to the constitution which is responsible for the federal income tax.

Other causes of increasing government cost, he said, were the transformation of the American people's philosophy from an individualistic to a collectivistic character, the great war and its resultant debt burden, and the gradual breakdown of a dual form of government through which he said the states have abandoned many of their privileges and powers to the federal government.

Since 1913, when the income tax amendment was adopted, total expenditures have increased from $721,000,000 to the current year's budget total of $4,700,000,000, he stated.

Case of Small States.

"In the mad rush to get power in the senate," he continued, "both parties have been guilty of the treason to the cause of the union by bringing into the union little states like Nevada and Idaho, some of which haven't as much population as one ward in my congressional district.

"The power to make the wealthy states support the little states was established when the 16th amendment was passed. As a result, the smaller states take out of the national treasury two or three times what their citizens contribute. For every dollar that Pennsylvania puts in, it draws out fifty cents; for every dollar that Texas puts in, it draws out $7.

"When states such as Idaho, Nevada and South Carolina, which contribute little to the federal government, and get wholly disproportionate benefits, drawing out in subsidies sometimes three or four times what they have contributed, why should they care two straws for economy in public expenditures when they have such an opportunity to make their neighbors bear their burdens?"

CURTISS-WRIGHT REPORTS QUARTER LOSS OF $408,664

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The net loss for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1932, was $376,306, against a net loss of $2,139,838 in the corresponding period of last year.

Chicago Bank Turns Back Postal Savings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Reduction of the interest rate now paid by bank depositories for postal savings funds loomed as a distinct possibility today. Another big Chicago bank officially withdrew as a postal savings depository.

Officials of the postal savings system declined to reveal the name of the Chicago bank which notified of its intention of relinquishing six millions of postal savings funds in a letter received by the director of the system this morning. It was said, however, that the institution is one of the largest in Chicago.

Bank Turns Back $5,000,000.

Recently the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, now a national bank, turned back five of its thirteen million dollars of postal savings deposits. While officials of the system stated that this withdrawal was made only pending reorganization of that institution, it was learned today that the bank has not yet sought to regain that five millions.

While officials declared they have perceived no concerted move on the part of large urban banks to withdraw from the system, it was admitted that such action was easily possible in view of the cheap federal reserve money now available to banks. Just how many big city banks have relinquished their postal savings funds since the low federal reserve rediscount rates became effective officials would not disclose.

Pay 2½ Per Cent on Deposits.

Bank depositories now pay 2½ per cent for postal savings funds. When federal reserve money was expensive there was a great demand for this comparatively cheap cash. With the lowering of the federal reserve rediscount rates to 1¼ and 1½ per cent, however, banks naturally turned to the less costly source of cash funds and away from the postal savings system.

Postal savings money can, under the law, be put out as low as 2¼ per cent, but officials of that system have been able heretofore to place as much as they desired at 2½. It is considered possible that the postal savings directors might lower the interest rate a quarter of a cent to bring it down to the lowest legal figures.

Expect System to Grow.

Postal savings officials said no fear is held for the security of the postal savings system. They said applications for postal savings funds will more than offset relinquishments unless the move to withdraw becomes far more serious than they now anticipate.

The 855 million dollars held by the postal savings system at the end of September was secured by collateral valued today at more than 860 millions, according to the officials. Of the collateral 68 per cent was federal securities and 32 per cent state, municipal, territorial, and miscellaneous securities.

BRITISH IMPORT DUTIES GO INTO EFFECT TONIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—New import duties carrying empire preferences under the Ottawa agreements' act becomes effective at midnight tomorrow. The bill passed its final stages in the house of lords today and received royal assent tonight. The treasury immediately issued the first statutory orders carrying out the provisions of the act.

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and Southern Rhodesia having implemented their parts of the agreements by tariff changes, the new order covers new duties and preferences arranged with these dominions.

India and Newfoundland have not yet implemented the agreements and the order accordingly makes no provisions for them. The only dominion not participating in empire preferences is the Irish Free State.

U. S. HOME BANKS HAVE NOT MADE A SINGLE LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Not a single dollar has been loaned by the federal home loan banks, it was learned today. The twelve institutions, set up to meet an "emergency" in the home mortgage situation, have been officially open for business for exactly one month.

Capitalized at 134 million dollars, the home loan system has potential resources of a billion and a half dollars through the issuance of debentures under authority of congress. Three months ago the act was passed setting up a central board. Two months were absorbed in establishing the twelve regional banks and completing personnel and internal machinery.

Exactly a month ago it was announced that the regional banks and their branches were finally ready for business. Yet reports reaching headquarters today indicated that during the thirty days not a single loan has been made.

Officials said today that the work of organization is still going on. They refused to predict when the work of making loans to home financing institutions will begin.

While no statement of the amount of private subscriptions has ever been made by the home loan bank board, it is generally known that the treasury was forced to subscribe its full quota of 125 million dollars to the capital of the system.

NATIONAL BANKS OF U. S. REPORT RESOURCE GAINS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The comptroller of the currency reported today that the 6,085 reporting national banks in continental United States, Alaska, and Hawaii had resources of $22,565,995,000 on Sept. 30, an increase of $198,284,000 over the previous quarter, but a decrease of $3,180,069,000 from the same quarter of 1931. It is the first time in two years resources have shown an increase between calls.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on Sept. 30 amounted to $9,919,662,000 and showed decreases for the three and 12 month periods of $362,014,000 and $2,560,273,000, respectively.

Deposits on Sept. 30, 1932, aggregated $17,681,917,000, showing an increase since June of $221,004,000, but a decrease in the year of $2,697,467,000. Total deposits on the date of the last call included balances due to correspondent banks and bankers and certified and cashiers' checks outstanding of $2,221,081,000, United States deposits of $374,150,000, other demand deposits of $7,848,753,000, and time deposits of $7,237,933,000.

RINGLING TAKES OLD ALLY, SAM GUMPERTZ, INTO CIRCUS BUSINESS

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—John Ringling, last of the five showmen brothers, has taken his old friend, Sam Gumpertz, into business with him, and for the first time the Ringling circus interests are going to have a boss who isn't a member of the family.

Gumpertz today confirmed reports he had been named vice president and general manager by the board of directors last Friday. John Ringling, who always traveled with the show until last summer, when he was laid up with an infected foot, remains president.

Gumpertz owns 10 per cent of the stock of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Combined shows, an organization which also controls the Sells-Floto, Hagenbeck-Wallace, Sparks, John Robinson, and A. G. Barnes circuses. John Ringling owns 30 per cent, and the rest is divided among the heirs of his brothers. Widows of two of his brothers and his nephew, Robert, traveled with the Ringling circus after his foot became infected last summer and remained with it until it went into winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

The Ringling show is said to have had customary annual earning power of $2,000,000, cut about in half last summer, while the subsidiary circuses were losing money.

WALL STREET IDLES THROUGH A DULL SESSION

Stock Price Changes Are Small.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Nov. 15.—News of definite import was scarce today and the stock exchange idled through a listless day. The leaders moved ahead somewhat in the early trading, fell back around noon, and rebounded slightly toward the close to wind up about where they had started.

For lack of a better reason the early bulge was attributed in brokerage quarters to payment of the Roumanian debt, while the midday reaction was set down to uncertainty over the outcome of a number of impending dividend meetings, particularly that of the American Telephone and Telegraph board tomorrow. In similar easy fashion the diagnosticians decided that the late recovery was due to short covering by traders who had sold short on the dividend uncertainties earlier, and later changed their minds on guesses that the Telephone rate would be maintained in spite of the fact that it has not been earned. One explanation sounded about as logical as the others.

Trading Extremely Dull.

Boardroom talk had to do with such things as the pending meeting between President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt, the war debt question as raised anew by the election results, and the market possibilities suggested by the various log rolling projects

Steel Concern Heads Sued on Stock Deal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Suit was filed in the Supreme court today against the Bethlehem Steel company and its officers charging that more than $20,000,000 of the corporation's fund was used in the purchase of its stock presumably for distribution among employés and officials.

The suit was brought by the Standard Investment company and Irma W. Jackson, as stockholders. Among those named as defendants are Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board; Eugene G. Grace, president; Frederick A. Schick, controller, and Alvin Untermyer, Grayson M. P. Murphy, and Percy A. Rockefeller, directors. Half a dozen other officers and directors also are named.

"Ulterior Purposes."

The complaint sets forth that the stock was bought for "ulterior, concealed and undisclosed purposes," but pursuant to "certain resolutions claimed to have been adopted by the board of directors."

Apparently, the suit states, it was the intention to sell the securities to officers and employés under the terms of these resolutions. The complaint declares that the stock was purchased "from persons to the plaintiff unknown."

The plaintiffs charge that the resolutions, which authorized the sale of stock to officers and employés, specified that the stock should be taken from a total of 1,800,000 of unissued common stock. The plaintiffs charge that it was unnecessary for the defendants for that reason to have purchased any other stock in order to sell it to officers and directors.

Shares Issued.

The plaintiffs allege that the corporation had issued 5,000,000 shares of common stock without par value in May, 1929. It sold 3,200,000 shares, thus leaving a balance of 1,800,000. They charge that the efforts of the corporation to raise capital by the sale of these 3,200,000 shares were nullified by the acts of the defendants in repurchasing $20,383,614 worth of stock.

Banker Tells Holders to Stand Pat.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Investors holding the securities of municipalities experiencing financial difficulties should "stand pat" against all demands for concessions by these municipalities, according to a bulletin being sent to members of the Investment Bankers' Association of America from its national headquarters at 33 South Clark street, Chicago.

JOHN W. DENISON.

The bulletin contains an article by John W. Denison, vice president of the Continental Illinois company and a member of the municipal securities committee of the Investment Bankers' association.

"Where a municipality is trying to force concessions," Mr. Denison says, "the investor's position is to stand pat. The municipality has to continue. It cannot run away. It may threaten and cause delay, but eventually it has to pay.

Politicians Defeat Selves.

CREDIT BRINGS YOU BREAD

IN THE PROCESS of converting grain into flour and flour into bread, money is loaned and repaid often as many as seven times.

Farming, storing, shipping, milling, distributing, baking and retailing—at each step, money is borrowed from banks and returned when the step is completed. Thus credit flows from bank to industry and back again, in an ever moving stream, as season follows season, as demand for credit diminishes here, increases there.

In every industry affecting the daily life of the nation, commercial banking plays an essential part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank, strategically located, is an important factor in mobilizing credit to serve American business.

New York, Nov. 15.—Bond prices moved uncertainly in quiet trading today. Conspicuous strength was shown by high grade issues during most of the session. Speculative railroad bonds, however, failed to maintain a morning rally, a tendency which was traced to weakness in stocks.

Treasury issues displayed a better tone, most of them advancing fractionally on small volume. The latest issue of treasury bills, details of which were published today, revealed an undiminished demand for three months securities of the highest type, even at an income rate of less than one-quarter of 1 per cent.

Improvement in prime quality bonds was most conspicuous in the utility group, which has met with good demand for the last few trading sessions. Improvement today was coincident with the release for sale of the Toledo Edison 5 per cent bonds, offering of which has been awaited in bond circles for more than a month.

B. & O. 4½s Are Feature.

Baltimore and Ohio 4½s were the outstanding performer of the day, both as to trading volume and the extent of gain recorded. The bonds sold up to 67, up more than 3 points, on a heavy volume of trading. Rumors were afloat today that the $31,000,000 loan applied for from the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be granted shortly, possibly after the close of trading today.

Gains elsewhere in the list, however, did not match the pace of the Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, with the result that selling in the afternoon turned the general list downward, with many issues showing a net loss for the day. Various second grade utility bonds were soft in the late selling.

Prime Utilities Firm.

Early firmness in prime utility bonds included American Telephone debenture 5½s and collateral 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 5s, Kansas Gas and Electric 4½s, and Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s.

A better tone was displayed by many industrials, including Pure Oil 5½s, of both issues; Gulf States Steel 5½s, American Machine 6s, and American Smelting 5s.

American Woolen.

Your comments in the past have interested me. Would like to have your comments or rating on American Woolen common.—A. S.

American Woolen company is the largest producer of woolen goods in the United States. It produces about one-fifth of domestic output, most of which is used in men's and women's clothing.

L. J. Noah was elected president in 1931. He was vice president of Gimbel Brothers. W. B. Warner, president of McCall corporation, was named vice president.

The new administration devised a flexible price schedule to enable the company to meet fluctuating prices. Slow moving items were eliminated and greater emphasis was placed on style. Production was diversified by the addition of new products.

Many small, uneconomical plants have been sold or are to be sold. In March, 1932, 32 out of 52 plants owned were being operated. In the three months to Sept. 30, 1932, five properties were sold. An aggressive campaign has been waged to reduce local taxes.

The industry itself is far from being on a firm basis. Overcapacity, with resultant keen competition for curtailed business, exists. American Woolen company has at times been handicapped by labor troubles. Inventory write-offs have contributed to heavy losses in recent years.

For the first half of 1932 net loss was $6,795,000, against net loss of $1,809,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Net loss for the full 1931 year was $2,837,000. After capital charges a profit and loss surplus of $4,787,000 was reduced to a profit and loss deficit of $17,739,000.

Net loss for 1930 was $4,898,000 against loss of $4,228,000 for 1929 and loss of $1,262,000 for 1928.

On June 30, 1932, current assets were $32,780,000, and current liabilities were $250,000. Working capital was $32,529,000, against $42,980,000 the year before. A revaluation of common stock resulted in a capital surplus of $25,426,000 and a profit and loss deficit of $6,811,000.

There are outstanding 416,248 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 400,000 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since April 15, 1927.

Reports indicate that the management has placed the company in a position where it can operate at a profit when conditions in the industry become favorable. A great help to favorable operations would be stability of raw material prices and an adequate price level.

The preferred is speculative and the common is more so.

Duke-Price Power.

WHEAT'S EARLY ADVANCE MORE THAN WIPED OUT

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

	Tues. day.	Mon. day.
Chicago, December	45¼c	45¾c
Winnipeg, December	40⅞c	41⅝c
Liverpool, December	52½c	52⅝c
Do, No. 2 Manitoba	55⅝c	56⅜c
Buenos Aires, Feb.	40⅝c	40⅛c
Rotterdam, November	47⅞c	47¼c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish sentiment is predominant in the wheat trade, but there was a lack of constructive developments overnight to induce traders to buy freely. Houses with eastern connections made several attempts to bring about a higher level of prices Tuesday, but each time the market advanced around ⅛c above the previous nish there was a marked increase in pressure. The market faded away toward the last as the result of weakness which developed in Minneapolis and also in stocks, and the close was around the lowest figures, with net losses of ⅝c.

A number of the local professionals were apparently considerably impressed with the excellent outlook for the new wheat crop in Argentina and Australia and sold freely on all the bulges. December, after touching 46⅛c several times, droped to 45¾c, and closed at that figure to ⅛c over, while May was 50@50⅛c and July 51¾c.

Watch British Tariff.

Whether the new British duty on all wheat save inter-empire deliveries will have any effect on the export demand for Canadian grain was not known, but the sales during the day were reported as confined almost entirely to scattered lots and no interest was indicated in hard winter.

Canadian mills, however, bought 500,000 bu No. 1 northern Manitoba cash wheat during the day and were said to want 500,000 bu more. This gave the nearby deliveries at Winnipeg relative strength, and they gained slightly on the deferred months. The Canadian market was off ¼@⅜c for the day, with December at 46⅛c in Canadian funds and 40⅜c on a gold basis.

Argentina Pushing Canada.

Increased competition between Canadian and southern hemisphere wheat is reported as developing abroad, although as yet Argentine shippers are not pressing offers, as the crop is now at the critical stage of its growth. According to a cable from Buenos Aires to Lamson Bros. & Co. the Argentine yield this year may be 35,000,000 to 50,000,000 bu in excess of last year, unless severe damage is experienced in the southern section of that country. Liverpool closed ½c per bu lower, with December at 52⅝c.

Dry weather reports continue to come from the western sections of the winter wheat belt, the storm passing over with little or no rain or snow being received in the areas when most needed. No official estimate on the acreage seeded for the crop of 1933 will be given by the government until Dec. 20.

Cash Corn in Demand.

The east was in the local market for large amounts of cash corn yesterday, and there were intimations of export business, although no sales were confirmed. Around 500,000 bu were said to have been sold by Chicago handlers for shipment to Buffalo. The removal of hedges against the grain had some effect on the market at times, but with wheat easy the local element were disposed to the selling side and the close was at net losses of ⅝@⅞c. December closed at 26½c; May, 31½c, and July, 33¾c. Country offerings to arrive were light, with purchases of 80,000 bu reported by local handlers.

Around 20,000,000 bu barley is now being used in the manufacture of near beer and other malt products, according to an estimate by Lamson Bros. & Co., and maltsters estimated that possibly 60,000,000 bu will be required in case the prohibition act is modified. There was little disposition shown to press the buying side of barley as the trade awaited the prospective action of the board of trade directors as to the grades of grain which can be delivered on future contracts. The May was the only future traded in, and the close was 1c lower at 34c.

Oats were firmer early but eased with corn and closed unchanged to ⅛c lower with December at 16¾c, and May at 18⅞c. Rye was ⅝@⅞c lower in sympathy with wheat. December closed at 29⅝c, and May at 33⅝c.

ASSERTS SLIGHT TRADE RALLY WILL END WOES

Chase Bond Economist Says Fears Are Gone.

Confidence has returned. The United States no longer suffers from the paralyzing influence of fear. A rally in business merely to the level of the summer of 1931 would solve many of the worst of our problems.

This was the message brought by Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National bank of New York, in a talk last evening before the Illinois Manufacturers' Cost association at the Hotel La Salle.

Bottom Touched in Summer.

Mr. Anderson said he believes this country reached the bottom in security prices in June and July and that the bottom as regards volume of business with respect to season was reached in the first weeks of August.

Mr. Anderson qualified any predictions he might make by saying, in the words of financial advertisement writers, that they were on a "when, as and if" basis.

Confidence rests on two considerations, he asserted. One is that progress has been made and that much greater progress is in prospect with respect to clearing up the fundamentals of the business disorders. The other was the fact that the business situation has been much worse than the fundamentals justified.

Lists Depression Causes.

The economist outlined his reasons for the depression, saying that the United States earned a setback as a result of "our follies from 1922 to 1928 and 1929." These reasons were:

"1. Our high protective tariffs.

"2. Our cheap money policy, which enabled us to get exports out despite the high tariffs, and which also brought us our appalling growth of debts, our immense bank investments in real estate mortgages, the rapid growth in installment finance, our immense overissue of securities, our enormous bank purchases of bonds, and our fantastic stock speculation.

"3. The excessively high schedules for reparations payments and interallied debt payments, which were the main cause of the German collapse and a large contributing cause to the abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain, since each involved a fearful marginal pressure on budgets already overstrained."

Fear Intensified Drop.

Mr. Anderson said the drop in business from the high levels of 1929 to the low level of 1931 was justified, but that most of the trouble in the year following was greater than justified, and was due to the paralyzing influences of fear.

There were some disturbing elements connected with the political campaign in October, but these have been stilled, he added. Discussing the vital part of foreign trade in the country's economic life, Mr. Anderson remarked:

"On an adequate export trade depends the prosperity of American agriculture, much of our raw material production and no small part of our mass production in manufacturing."

"We could consume everything that we produced in the United States if we had the proportions of our production properly balanced," he continued. "But as our activities are at present proportioned we haven't, looking at our country alone, the proper balance. Part of our country creates an export surplus, and, if it lacks the necessary export market, the whole industrial balance is broken. Our farmers must sell abroad on satisfactory terms if our industrial customers are to prosper."

Here Mr. Anderson criticized the tariff. At the same time he asserted that the reason for our heavy exports during the years of high tariff was our large loans to foreign lands which used the proceeds to buy goods in this country. Each year loans were increased to enable the borrowing countries to meet interest and maturities on these loans and at the same time to make purchases here. Eventually, he said, the time was reached when there was nothing left with which to buy the products we had to sell, thereby helping to precipitate our crisis.

REPORTS GAIN IN BUSINESS FOR ILLINOIS

Encouraging reports from Illinois cities concerning business improvements in both industrial and retail lines were further substantiated yesterday by the monthly business review of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce covering activity in all parts of the state.

The report indicates that colder weather has stimulated retail sales and that special merchandising events have brought better actual results than expected, both having a good effect on industrial improvements. The employment situation in many Illinois cities, as previously reported by the industrial development department of the state chamber, has been partially clearing up as mines have reopened and manufacturers have added employes to assist in meeting an improved demand.

September production of electric power in Illinois increased 14,375,000 kilowatt hours over August and while a slight slump was noted for October after election effects are expected to bring another gain for November.

Coal production in September amounted to 2,470,00 net tons, a gain of 750,000 tons over August. Most encouraging, however, is the fact that the opening of the mines greatly relieved the unemployment strain in the state. October production of coke in the Illinois-Indiana district totaled 306,688 gross tons, an increase of 1,495 gross tons over September.

From an agricultural standpoint, the 386,452,000 bu of corn harvested in 1932 constituted a record not equaled since 1856, production being 18 per cent above average.

BRAZILIAN TRACTION.

Brazilian Traction, Light and Power company, Ltd., reported net after expenses (before depreciation and amortization) of subsidiary companies for September at $1,576,854, as against $1,669,807 for the same month a year ago, and gross of $2,241,871, against $2,724,941.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1932, net after expenses amounted to $13,124,410, against $16,679,656 for the similar period last year; gross $22,891,127, against $27,-[illegible]

HEAVY RECEIPTS SLASH CATTLE AND HOG PRICES

Swine Average Falls Off Ten Cents.

Yesterday's burdensome receipts forced hogs down 10@20c more, to the lowest point in nine days. Prices have been falling since the close of last Thursday and are now 45@55c under the high spot of last week and only 15@20c above the year's bottom established two weeks ago. The top price dropped 20c yesterday to $3.45, while the general average went down 10c to $3.35.

Hog receipts during the last ten days have been very unevenly distributed and this has caused an erratic market. Prices last week advanced sharply when wholesale markets for fresh pork loins skyrocketed because of an acute shortage of supplies. However, this bulge has almost flattened out since last week's close. Offerings the first two days of this week were largest since middle of last March.

Weather Speeds Shipments.

Rain and snow in much of the hog producing area tributary to the Chicago market has accelerated the fall movement of supplies. Traders expect the break in prices to curtail the movement some before the end of the week, though today's estimate indicates a good run at most of the leading centers.

During the first two days of this week Chicago handled 73,000 hogs, against only 33,049 a week ago. However, supplies are moderate for this time of year. During the corresponding two days in 1931 Chicago received 102,339 and two years ago 106,318 arrived.

After a rather slow and 10@20c lower opening yesterday the market improved and a small part of the early loss was recovered before the session ended. Closing rounds were the fastest and only 6,000 picked over hogs and stock held off the market remained at the finish.

Large local packers were aggressive again. In two days Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled 36,000 head, including some of the best quality droves of the season. Buyers favored the lighter weights, which, packers find, are cutting out best for them.

Cattle Sink Lower.

Business in the cattle division of the yards sank into a semi-demoralized state yesterday. Fresh receipts were augmented by a generous carryover from the preceding session and available supplies were far above the number buyers required to fill their orders. Indications late in the day were that another big holdover was probable.

Trading dragged slowly through the forenoon, at times coming almost to a standstill. Buyers seemed determined to hold down numbers as well as cost when making purchases and took their time in sizing up the situation and placing out bids. Disagreeable weather helped to slow down the trade. Some cattle were kept in the sheds without being shown because of the steady downfall of snow.

The market was in such condition that it was difficult to make satisfactory price comparisons. The majority of beef steers were considered 75c lower than last week's close, while some spots were off as much as $1.00 in the first two days of this week. Prime 1,154 lb steers topped the market at $8.00. The next highest sale was $7.60, with only a scattering going above the $7.00 line. Bulk of steers sold at $5.25@7.00. A good showing of plain quality steers with fairly good fill, sold down to $4.50, while ill-bred 950@1300 lb averages lacking flesh cashed at $3.00@3.50. Butcher stock showed losses of 25c, with some yearling heifers off 50@75c in two days.

Lambs Break Again.

Additional declines of 25c brought the lamb market mostly 40@50c under last week's closing levels. Supplies were light, but lambs were wet and buyers insisted many sales were steady considering the wet fleeces. The poultry season continued to be an influence. City butchers paid up to $6.00@6.15 for handpicked natives, while fed westerns sold to shippers at $5.85 and to packers at $5.75. Country demand, despite the break in slaughter stock, continued good and prices equaled the highest point Sept. 22. Best feeding lambs went back to the country at $5.35. Aged sheep were steady, old ewes selling at $2.50 and under.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 24,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep, against 9,440 cattle, 12,533 hogs, and 9,547 sheep the previous Wednesday, and 9,232 cattle, 28,089 hogs, and 18,170 sheep a year ago.
